Shriver quits on eve of N.C. primary

By MICHAEL J. HALL
Associated Press Writer

R. Sargent Shriver officially dropped out of the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination today on the eve of the North Carolina primary which could be crucial for fellow Democrat George C. Wallace and Republican Ronald Reagan.

President Ford and Jimmy Carter, the apparent front-runners, looked ahead to future races while Wallace and Reagan blitzed North Carolina for votes, hoping Tuesday would bring their first primary victories.

The withdrawal by Shriver, who already had said he would curtail his campaign after poor showings in earlier primaries, leaves seven major Democratic candidates.

Five of them — Carter, Wallace, Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris — are trying for some of North Carolina's 61 convention delegates. Only southerners Wallace and Carter campaigned heavily there, however.

In another campaign development, the Federal Election Commission was scheduled to meet in Washington to certify a final $1 million to presidential candidates. Its authority to give out matching federal funds expires at midnight under a Supreme Court order.

Shriver had said earlier he would limit his efforts to Texas' May 1 primary and Maryland's May 8 contest. He said today he would remove his name from the ballot in Maryland, but would not formally withdraw from the Texas contest out of consideration for delegates there. He said that those delegates will not be bound to vote for him and said he was releasing the 11 national convention delegates he already won.

The 1972 Democratic vice presidential candidate, who finished third in last week's Illinois primary, said he will spend a week or so vacationing and then is likely to endorse another candidate.

"We have not yet by any means seen all the characters who will appear in the play," Shriver said. He generally declined comment on the other candidates, but said Wallace was the only one he could not support. He also said at his Washington, D.C., news conference that he thinks Carter will be "hard to stop."

Wallace lost to Carter in Florida and Illinois, but finished ahead of the former Georgia governor in Massachusetts. He won the 1972 North Carolina primary and, discussing the 1976 contest at a Charlotte news conference today, said: "I think we have a chance. In 1972 we sort of slipped up in North Carolina on the group that was opposed to us. This time they are a little better organized."

Ford spent some time over the weekend in North Carolina and aides said after he left that they are confident of a sixth straight victory

Jurors on Patty: she never tried to escape

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Many of the jurors who convicted newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst of bank robbery say they wanted to believe she was innocent, but couldn't accept her story because she never tried to escape from her terrorist captors.

Juror Norman Grim, 43, a mechanic from San Mateo, said she not only did not try to escape, but she gave no indication of wanting any help in gaining freedom.

He added in an interview with the San Francisco Chronicle:

"And one month after she was in the bank, holding it up, she was in Los Angeles, capable of firing guns at Mel's Sporting Goods Store. She did it solo. No one was around her. No one forced her to do it."

Miss Hearst faces up to 25 years in prison for the convictions, and another trial on more serious charges. Sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter is scheduled for April 19. He said Sunday that the maximum penalty he would consider would be 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for armed bank robbery. In addition to the bank robbery charge, she was convicted of carrying a weapon in the commission of a felony.

Carter said that the federal government would turn her over to authorities in Los Angeles for arraignment on state kidnaping, assault and robbery charges within the week. If convicted on those charges, which stem from a crime spree a month after the bank robbery here, she could be sentenced to life in prison.

Evidence presented by the government to show that the kidnaped newspaper heiress willingly embraced the terrorism of her captors outweighed her testimony that she cooperated with them to save her life, jurors said.

"I don't think it was any particular thing at all that led to our finding her guilty," said Marilyn Wentz, a member of the panel of seven women and five men that found Miss Hearst guilty of armed bank robbery Saturday after 12 hours of deliberation. "I think it was a combination of all the evidence."

Mrs. Wentz, 36, a dental assistant and mother of four from Hayward, Calif., said in an interview Sunday night, "I know I went over it, and over it — everything — before deciding."

She said she thought that both the prosecutor, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., and chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey "did a very good job in presenting the case."

Another juror said the ordeal of deliberations was so intense that some members of the panel wept and others became sick to their stomachs.

A juror quoted in The New York Times, who asked to remain anonymous, rejected Miss Hearst's statement — through one of her lawyers — that she never had a chance for acquittal.

"For her to say, 'I never had a chance' — are you kidding. She was given an incredible chance, every chance in the world. Every single one of us would rather have acquitted her."

Another juror quoted by The New York Times, who also asked to remain unidentified, said:

"Everyone of us wanted to believe she was innocent because of the conditions, the kidnaping I mean, and when she was first on the witness stand, everyone's heart went out to her. How could you help it. We felt overwhelming sympathy for her, but then, at some point in everybody's mind, the sympathy was outweighed by the evidence.'

Williams' ex out on bail in skier's death

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Accompanied by her ex-husband Andy Williams, a weeping Claudine Longet appeared in court today in connection with the shooting death of professional skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Miss Longet, an actress and singer, was told her rights and released on $5,000 personal recognizance bond. She left the court in tears.

Miss Longet was freed pending a court appearance April 8 at which Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said he would file formal charges.

Colorado law allows holding a suspect for "investigation of" an alleged offense until the investigation of a crime is complete and the district attorney files formal charges.

Tucker said Miss Longet was held initially for investigation of criminally negligent homicide to allow her to be advised of her rights in the court hearing. Tucker said he did not know what charge would be filed April 8, but criminally negligent homicide was "probable."

Tucker refused to comment on a statement attributed to City Manager Philip Mahoney. Mahoney reportedly said that Miss Longet told police after the shooting that Sabich was showing her how to hold a handgun when it discharged accidentally.

In the courtroom with Miss Longet was singer Williams, from whom she was divorced last year. He stood to the rear of the courtroom while she was advised of her rights by Pitkin District Court Judge John Wendt.

Miss Longet nodded acknowledgement as Wendt told her of her right to a lawyer, right to have bond set and the right to a trial by jury.

Tucker said Sabich died at his home in an exclusive subdivision near this Rocky Mountain ski resort town. Cause of death was a shot fired from a handgun.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Williams, the county coroner, said Sabich, 31, had been shot in the abdomen. He was taken to the Aspen Valley Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after 5 p.m.

Burns urges 'modest' wage-price restraints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board urged Congress today to consider a policy permitting a "modest delay" in important wage and price increases.

Burns said he was not calling for renewal of mandatory wage and price controls, which were put in effect in 1971 and phased out eventually.

Burns made the remarks in testimony prepared for the Senate Budget Committee.

He also suggested that Congress consider measures to increase tax incentives for business investment, to delay timetables for achieving the nation's environmental and safety goals, to encourage price competition by business, and to review labor policies, such as the minimum wage law and income maintenance programs, which he said may be helping to keep unemployment high.

Of the past wage and price control program, Burns said, "Recent experience has emphastically demonstrated that lasting benefits cannot be expected from comprehensive or mandatory wage and price controls."

"However," he added, "a policy that would permit a modest delay of key wage or price increases, thus providing an opportunity for quiet governmental intervention or for public hearings and the mobilization of public opinion, may yet be of significant benefit in reducing absuses of private economic power . . ."

He said a limited-incomes policy also could help move the nation toward full employment and stable prices.

The Federal Reserve chairman also told the committee that recovery from recession is proceeding satisfactorily.

"As the recovery has proceeded, the state of confidence has improved, and significant further increases in production and employment can be expected over the remainder of this year," he said.

But he also said the nation is faced with a "serious dilemma" in finding new jobs for the 7 million Americans who remain unemployed, while guarding against a new out-break of serious inflation.

"The menace of inflation is by no means behind us," Burns said.

Whew! 87

There was good reason Sunday to feel that summer came to the valley prematurely.

The mercury soared to 87 degrees during the afternoon, an all time high for a March 21, according to the records of the National Weather Service, bettering a record of 85.9 degrees set in 1960.

The weather is expected to remain fair today and Tuesday but predictions call for slightly lower temperatures.

Valley accidents claim three lives

Two local men were killed in separate traffic accidents in the valley over the weekend and a small girl died of injuries suffered in an earlier accident.

The victims were Daniel Paul Tiffany, 27, of 327 E. Sixth St., Ontario; Bernard Oswald King, 20, of 1999 Arthur St., Pomona; and 12-year-old Hang Thu Dang of 815 N. Vineyard Ave., Ontario.

Tiffany died at Pomona Valley Community Hospital early Sunday morning, a few hours after being thrown from a car on the connecting ramp between Interstate 210 and the San Bernardino Freeway near Pomona.

Tiffany, the driver, Roscoe D. Killinger, 22, of Rialto; and another passenger, Roy A. Killinger, 22, of 9990 Ramona Ave., Montclair, were thrown from the car when it failed to negotiate a sweeping curve.

The highway patrol reported that the car came around the curve at a high speed, spun and hit a curb, then rolled over several times, ejecting the three men.

They were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Roscoe Killinger was treated and released, and Roy Killinger was transferred to San Bernardino County Hospital after treatment.

King was killed and his passenger injured Sunday night when their pickup truck slammed into the rear of a truck and trailer parked on Towne Avenue south of Grove Street in Pomona.

The passenger, Dennis V. Crosby, 19, 1190 Pavilion Drive, Pomona, suffered a broken ankle and facial injuries. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and transferred to County-USC Medical Center where his condition today was termed fair.

The pair was southbound on Towne Avenue when their pickup ran into the rear of a 56-foot-long truck-trailer rig. Their vehicle was a total loss but the flatbed trailer they hit sustained only minor damage.

Police reported that Crosby told them he and King had been drinking beer as they drove around prior to the accident. They quoted him as saying he believes that King was either looking at him or adjusting the stereo controls in the vehicle just before the crash.

Police said the truck and trailer, belonging to BHY Trucking Inc. of El Monte, had been parked properly by James Vincent, 36, of Lynwood.

King was the sixth person killed in traffic on Pomona streets this year.

The 12-year-old Vietnamese girl was injured in a traffic accident March 8 in Ontario. She died Sunday afternoon at Ontario Community Hospital.

Miss Dang's older sister, Thuy Dang, 15, remains in critical condition at the Ontario hospital with injuries suffered in the same accident about 7 p.m. on March 8 in front of the Vineyard Avenue home.

Police said the two girls were crossing the street in front of their home when a car driven by Paul Geiger Jr., 28, of Fontana passed a stopped car and hit them.

In light of Patty's conviction

Harrises may change plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emily Harris says she and her husband, William, are "re-evaluating" their defense against felony charges here in light of Patricia Hearst's bank robbery conviction.

The Harrises, indicted with Miss Hearst in an alleged 1974 crime spree, also said Sunday they feel "sad" about the verdict in San Francisco because now Miss Hearst "has no one."

The newspaper heiress' conviction Saturday will "make it a lot different," said Mrs. Harris, referring to the defense for her and her husband. She did not elaborate.

Miss Hearst probably will be brought here sometime this week to face the ll felony charges against her and the Harrises, authorities said.

In San Francisco, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning, who prosecuted Miss Hearst, said Sunday she would be available for transfer "probably by midweek" after she meets with a federal probation officer prior to her April 19 sentencing.

The charges, including robbery, assault and kidnaping, stem from an alleged shootout at an Inglewood sporting goods store in May 1974.

Although she said she was sorry to see Miss Hearst convicted, Mrs. Harris said she took some satisfaction in the verdict.

"Her defense was not only designed for her acquittal but to discredit revolutionaries," Mrs. Harris said. She added the verdict "kind of shows she wasn't telling the truth. There's a satisfaction, kind of, in that, but ... she's just literally destroyed herself."

Miss Hearst's chief defense attorney, F. Lee Bailey, had maintained that the Harrises and other Symbionese Liberation Army members had brainwashed Miss Hearst and forced her to take part in the April 1974 Hibernia Bank robbery in San Francisco and subsequent crimes.

Although Mrs. Harris said "it will be hard to work with her," she added that she and her husband will still seek a joint trial with Miss Hearst.

Bailey has said he wants a separate trial for his client.

The defense claim of brainwashing could not, juror Grim said, cover "all those things" she did.

"It is possible, I imagine, for a person to be coerced," he said, "but I don't believe it is possible for someone to be coerced all that time."

Grim could not understand why Miss Hearst failed to telephone her parents or others and ask for help during the time she lived apart from William and Emily Harris, the Symbionese Liberation Army members of whom the defendant claimed to be deathly afraid.

Grim said he was "influenced" to return the guilty verdicts by the weaponry found in the apartment in which Miss Hearst was arrested last September. Automatic guns and ammunition were found in a closet, and Miss Hearst herself was toting a loaded revolver in her handbag.

Regarding the defense psychiatrist's testimony that terror of her captors virtually paralyzed the defendant's freedom of will and action, Grim said the jury "went by the judge's instruction he told us it was not fact but opinion."

He said he found it significant that in the first tape issued by the SLA following the Feb. 4, 1974, kidnaping "she (Miss Hearst) was pleading with her parents, asking for help, but by the time the April 3 tape was made, the tone of her voice had changed and she was saying those weren't really bad people and she had decided to join them and take the name 'Tania.'"

Grim said he couldn't believe "she was under coercion then."

Juror Wentz, wife of a Hayward carpenter, said she thought the verdict "very fair and very just" and she wished that if she were on trial she would have a jury as "intelligent" as the Hearst panel.

The guilty verdict was the only verdict that could be reached, said juror Philip F. Crabbe II, 35, of Oakland.

"We weren't happy to do it, but it was the only verdict. I am not dissatisfied with it."

He was heavily swayed by Miss Hearst's refusal to talk about what had happened during the year she lived underground with the SLA, and her 42-time use of the Fifth Amendment to keep silent about the period.

Several jurors quoted in the Times said they reached their decisions on Miss Hearst's guilt independently. Said one juror, "I thought I was the only one who didn't believe her. I thought I was the only one with doubts, the only one without enough sympathy."

Another juror added that when he learned the other jurors felt the same way: "I just couldn't believe it. I was shocked."

Still another juror said: "Once it was clear which way the majority felt, the people in the minority had the obligation to talk about what stuck in their mind."

THEY ESCAPED

Two Dallas, Tex., teenagers narrowly escpaed death Sunday night when their car crashed into a utility pole in Dallas and caught on fire. One youth is in the hospital in serious condition, and the other escaped, shaken and bruised. Police said they chased the youths at speeds up to 100 miles an hour before the crash.

Pilot nearly falls in guard dogs' den

PUYALLUP, Wash. (AP) — Pilot Leonard Aikins thought he was out of danger when he parachuted from his out-of-control plane Sunday. Then he looked down.

"I almost landed in a yard of guard dogs," he said. "There must have been a thousand of these dogs just slavering for a meal."

Aikins was carrying four skydivers from the Thun Field Sky Diving Club. One jumped without incident early in the flight.

Then the three were to jump together, and Julie Barnson, 19, of Puyallup, and two others were on the plane's wing waiting to jump.

"Julie got out," Aikins explained. But a pin on the chute was caught and a moment later her main chute opened — the fabric whipping around the tail assembly of the Cessna 180 and partially pulling a section of the tail loose.

"Her body then went under the plane," Aikins said. He said the mishap sent the plane out of control but soon the parachute itself blew free and the young woman descended unhurt.

"The wind hit the parachute and pulled me right off," she said. "I wasn't even aware I hit the plane."

With the damaged plane at about 10,000 feet, Aikins ordered everybody to jump. They did, and he quickly followed suit.

"You know, I've made about 1,400 jumps in my life," he said. "But I wasn't counting on making No. 1,401 today."

The plane crashed near Thun Field in Pierce County.

KING KONG LIVES

Carmen Nigro, 71, is framed by King Kong posters as he admires his costume-of-old in his Chicago surburban Cicero home. Nigro, who can still mimic the shuffle of an ape, is alive, well, and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

'Hollywood Apeman' happy as guard

CHICAGO (AP) — King Kong is alive, well and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

"It was me in my gorilla suit up on top of the Empire State Building, clutching Fay Wray in one hand or putting her gently on a ledge and knocking down attacking planes until the bullets got me," says Carmen Nigro, recalling the memorable, final scene of the 1933 movie classic, King Kong.

"Of course, what I was on was an eight-foot model on the RKO stage with a backdrop of New York City," said the man who was known for 25 years as the Hollywood Apeman.

"Fay Wray was an animated doll. Planes were projected on the backdrop. There were a few little gasoline-powered planes hooked on wires that were aimed around me. I wore furcovered ballet slippers with rubber suction pads on the bottom. I looked 50 feet tall."

Nigro, whose professional name was Ken Roady, is a lively 71-year-old who still can mimic the shuffle of an ape. He appeared as a stuntman in about 100 movies and played a gorilla in 33 others.

A barrel-chested 5-foot-6, Nigro was the hairy beast in Mighty Joe Young, The Unholy Three, Tarzan and His Mate, Night of Horror and Ape Man Nabonga. His last gorilla movie was Gorilla At Large in 1954.

Nigro said he studied the way an ape moves when he accompanied the late Frank Buck, the animal collector, on two jungle trips.

"I was ready when I heard RKO was looking for a gorilla man in 1931 to play the title role of King Kong," said Nigro. "I had to beat out a couple of other guys. I was the most realistic and besides I paid $3,500 to have a gorilla suit made out of six bear skins. I still have it at home but it's in pretty bad shape now.

"The hardest part of the job was withstanding the heat buildup inside the suit. I'd have to take the head off every 10 minutes to get my breath. Over the years I wore out eight Kong heads and 10 sets of arms and extension hands."

For his part as King Kong, one of the most famous roles in movie history, Nigro said he was paid $7,500, "and when you deduct the cost of the costume, I netted only $4,000."

Nigro now lives in a small apartment in Cicero, a Chicago suburb. He says producers would not let him use the name King Kong in the girl-and-gorilla acts he took across the country. He also worked as a dining car cook on the Sante Fe Railroad, finally became a chef and retired in 1970 after 32 years of service. He said he gets no money when King Kong or some of the other old movies he appeared in are on television.

They are remaking King Kong now in Hollywood, but Nigro says he is through with gorillas. "I'm just happy being a security guard and having my memories," he said.

All ostomates, doctors, nurses, enterostomal therapists, social workers, and all others interested are invited to attend free of charge, president Alan Dodd announced. Refreshments will be served.

Representatives of national ostomy manufacturers and local pharmacies are scheduled to show, demonstrate and explain their newest ostomy appliances and supplies. Samples and literature will be available.

President Dodd of Pomona says the meetings of the local chapter of the United Ostomy Association are open to the public every fourth Tuesday of the month. Members are those who have had colostomy, ileostomy or urostomy surgery. The chapter now has over 90 members.

Windstorms leave trail of death, destruction

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes were blamed for several deaths in the Midwest and South Saturday and early Sunday. Then a line of furious storms accompanied a sharp cold front into the Northeast, putting a quick end to the Junelike temperatures that ushered spring into that area.

The mercury plunged 20 degrees between noon and 3 p.m. in Washington and 10 degrees in a half-hour in New York City. A tornado-like storm was reported in New Jersey, where funnel clouds are rare.

Large chunks of glass showered to the street near midManhattan's Pennsylvania Station when some windows on a skyscraper shattered. A number of autos were crushed by falling trees in Washington.

And a tornado killed Thomas Maculley, 14, of New Castle, Del. He was on a fishing trip and had sought shelter in a portable toilet which overturned. Ten persons also were hurt when a roof collapsed at the Mother Union American Methodist Episcopal Church in Wilmington, Del.

"The wind just lifted it (the roof) off all in one piece, like a piece of paper," said fire fighter Stewart McLaughlin.

Meanwhile, Kilbourne, La., was picking up after a tornado touched down Saturday night. Twenty-two of the town's 340 persons were injured, two seriously. Sixteen other twisters were seen. Three churches were severely damaged, the town's water storage tank flattened and electrical and telephone service knocked out. Seven homes were destroyed and 29 damaged, and four businesses damaged or destroyed. The recreation center, post office and town hall were flattened.

In Mississippi, Rex Johnson, about 40, was killed when a tornado destroyed his trailer home in Dancy. Tornadoes, high winds and hail were accompanied by up to 2½ inches of rain.

Alabama Civil Defense officials said they probably would recommend that the state seek federal disaster aid. Forty persons were injured and authorities put damage estimates at $1.25 million. There were at least two tornadoes and a number of heavy thunderstorms.

In Illinois' Champaign County, a tornado caused more than $2.5 million in damage and left three persons hospitalized on Saturday. In Sadorus, 13 homes and seven mobile dwellings were destroyed and about 15 other houses and mobile homes severely damaged. In Odgen, a grain elevator, the fire station, a bank and some homes were damaged.

Tornadoes left two persons dead in Michigan and at least 40 injured Saturday night. In one mile-long path through West Bloomfield Township in Oakland County, about 50 homes were demolished or heavily damaged and at least a dozen business establishments hit. A motor home was flung through the window of a bank.

When she saw the tornado coming, Anna Sarkisian of West Bloomfield Township huddled inside a bedroom closet. "I didn't hear anything," she said. "But I knew something was going to fall on my head. When I came out, I saw the sky from my bedroom."

Heavy artillery fighting in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem and Christian militias fought the heaviest artillery battle of the 11-month-old Lebanese civil war Sunday night and today across Beirut.

More than 1,200 rockets, mortar rounds and artillery shells were fired between 4 p.m. and midnight Sunday, "an all-time record for Beirut," a police pokesman said.

The heavy firing continued this morning, and explosions shook the city and resort areas in the mountains behind the capital.

One shell hit the French Consulate, seriously wounding Vice-Consul Guy Barioulet and slightly wounding Andre Ringard, an attache at the French Embassy. Another shell damaged the French ambassador's car, while several rounds landed within 200 yards of the U.S. Embassy.

The escalation followed the capture Sunday of the 25-story seaside Holiday Inn by leftist Moslems of the Nasserite Ambusher militia. More than 40 persons were reported killed in the fighting for the gutted hotel, which had been a strongpoint for the right-wing Christian Phalangists for six months.

The Phalangists launched an early morning attack to retake the building, and the Phalangist radio claimed the Moslems had been driven out. But leftist leaders said their forces had driven the Christian attackers back to a basement across the street from the hotel.

Scores of rounds landed in the European residential district of Rouche, in westernmost Beirut, an area untouched by the previous fighting in the civil war. Many diplomats and foreign reporters shifted their offices and residences to the district late last year because it was considered a safe zone.

On the political front, the Phalange Party said Christian President Suleiman Franjieh was expected to announce a plan for his resignation within hours.

The 65-year-old Franjieh, holed up in the presidential palace on a hilltop five miles east of Beirut, has defied scores of military threats to bomb him out since the Moslem commander of the Beirut garrison, Brig. Aziz Ahdab, proclaimed himself provisional military governor of Lebanon 10 days ago.

'Hooked on sex,' Marilyn Monroe quoted in book

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourteen years after her death, Marilyn Monroe is quoted as saying she was "hooked on sex" and her image as a sex goddess became a burden to her — "an albatross."

"There was a period when I responded too much to flattery and slept around too much, thinking it would help my career, though I always liked the guy at the time," she is quoted as saying in a book being excerpted in the April issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

British journalist William J. Weatherby, who says he interviewed Miss Monroe between 1960 and 1962, the year she died, quotes her:

"My body turned all these people on like turning an electric light, and there was rarely anything human in it.

"Marilyn Monroe became a burden, a what-you-call-it? — an albatross. People expected so much of me I sometimes hated them."

Weatherby also says Miss Monroe told him, "I was never kept, I always kept myself. . . . I sometimes felt I was hooked on sex the way an alcoholic is on liquor or a junkie on dope.

Weatherby quotes Miss Monroe as saying she was having an affair with a Washington politician whom she never identified. "Only problem is, he's married right now and he's famous, so we have to meet in secret," she is quoted as saying.

5 shot, wounded; 15-year-old held

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Five persons were shot and wounded, one seriously, at a church Sunday. Police said they had a 15-year-old boy in custody and were seeking another teen-ager.

Police said the incident apparently was touched off by racial slurs exchanged between two black youths and two white youths outside the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Four of the shooting victims were listed in good condition or were released. The fifth, Dellwin Thomas, 36, was reported in serious but stable condition at Memorial Hospital with a chest wound. All were church members.

At least 100 persons were inside the church when the shooting erupted shortly before 10 a.m., according to Charles Taylor, a church bishop. Taylor said he was in another part of the building when "someone told me there was a fight out front.

Police gave this account:

Witnesses said two white youths, identified as Gary Holt, 18, and Randy Cason, 17, were standing outside the Mormon church when they saw two black youths hitch-hiking on the other side of the street. One of the whites thought he recognized one of the blacks and called to him, but the blacks, misunderstanding, shouted back, witnesses said.

The exchange turned into racial slurs and the four youths then scuffled, police said. One of the black youths, an unidentified 18-year-old, threw a large rock at Holt and struck him in the back.

The two blacks then left, but one returned a few minutes later and again exchanged heated remarks with the two whites, who then were standing with a large group of churchgoers.

The black drew a .22-caliber revolver and fired a shot over the heads of the group, then fired repeatedly into the crowd while standing inside or near the front door of the church.

The youth then fled into a housing project and was caught by pursuing church members and a policeman.

The 15-year-old was being held at the Maricopa County Juvenile Detention Center for investigation of five juvenile charges of assault with intent to commit murder, officers said.

The second black youth was still being sought, police said.

Ex-girlfriend target of Ontario shooting

A 15-year-old Ontario youth was in custody of juvenile authorities this morning after allegedly firing a shot at his former girlfriend in the 900 block of Cucamonga Avenue in Ontario Sunday evening.

The youth, according to police reports, earlier in the evening saw his former girlfriend with another 16-year-old youth. The youth started a fight with the other youth and was wrestled to the ground. The youth left for a short time and returned to his former girlfriend. He called the 16-year-old outside.

Police said the youth had a short barrelled revolver and as the girl and her friend came out of the house he fired a shot in their direction saying, "I'm gonna plug them both."

Group shot at

A group of youths, armed with a handgun or rifle, fired several shots at another group of youths at De Anza Park in Ontario while shouting "Chino Rifa," ONTARIO police reported.

None of the youths in the park were injured but two cars were damaged by bullets. One car had its windshield and side window damaged and the other its side panel punctured by the bullets.

The youths firing the weapon were riding in a 1973 beige or light blue 1973 Chevrolet pickup truck. Police said their were three youths in the cab and four or five in the bed of the truck, police said.

Coed molested

A coed was molested sexually Saturday night by a man who grabbed her, threatened her and then attacked her at 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue at the CLAREMONT Colleges.

The victim, 21, told police she was walking north on Dartmouth, looking for the address of a party, when she was grabbed from behind and thrown into a patch of ivy near a two-story apartment building. She said the man pressed a sharp object to her throat and warned her not to scream. Later he released her.

The victim obtained treatment at the colleges' Baxter Medical Building.

The man was a black, 5 feet 9 with a short afro hairdo. He wore a white T shirt but the victim could not tell officers what other type of clothing he wore.

Mills brothers are honored at Smithsonian

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was nostalgia night at the Smithsonian and the institution's 750-seat Baird auditorium was crowded to capacity or beyond to hear the Mills brothers sing their old favorites.

Perhaps half the audience was middle aged or older but there also was a generous turnout of persons in their 30s and younger.

Herbert, Harry and Donald Mills recently celebrated their 50th anniversary in the entertainment business. They have recorded at least 1,264 songs, including "Paper Doll," which has sold more than six million copies.

B.C. May, production manager for the Smithsonian's performing arts division, said in introducing them that "no other vocal group in the history of popular music has been as important as this group. For 25 per cent of the history of the Republic, they have been a living legend."

Julian Euell, assistant secretary of the institution, presented each of the three with a certificate, saying the agency was a government institution but "you guys — you gentlemen — are also an institution that is just as great."

Herbert Mills, who introduced most of the numbers, said with a note of proide that he and his brothers have sold more records than anyone in the history of record making.

The brothers started public appearances when they were 10, 12 and 13 years old with their older brother, John Jr., who died at the age of 25. Their father, John Mills Sr., a one-time concert singer and professional barber, replaced him and sang with the group until about 20 years ago when he retired.

Since then the group has been a trio. They still perform four to six months of every year and travel extensively here and abroad.

The numbers which received the loudest applause all dated from the 1920s: "Bye, Bye Blackbird," which was recorded in 1928, "Basin Street Blues," on which they mimic muted trumphets and trombones, and "Lazy River."

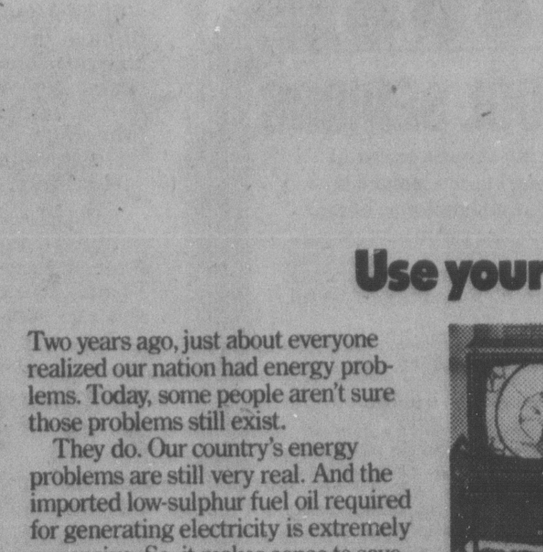
The brothers received several standing ovations and were called back for two encores. They were accompanied by a local band.

Thailand listening post ends

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States began dismantling its big radio listening post in northeast Thailand today following the Thai government's weekend decision that all but 270 of the 4,000 American military personnel in Thailand must leave the country within four months.

Thousands of leftist students marched on the U.S. Embassy Sunday for an anti-American demonstration. A bomb thrown into the procession along the way killed four students and wounded more than 80.

Representatives of 18 rightist groups in favor of the U.S. military presence broke into the headquarters of the National Student Center of Thailand (NSCT), smashed furniture and broke windows. They also demanded that Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj "suppress Communists," investigate Soviet spying in Thailand and arrest a top leftist student leader.



Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here are a few.

EASY WAYS TO SAVE MONEY.

Use your appliances wisely.

Two years ago, just about everyone realized our nation had energy problems. Today, some people aren't sure those problems still exist.

They do. Our country's energy problems are still very real. And the imported low-sulphur fuel oil required for generating electricity is extremely expensive. So, it makes sense to save our country's energy. And our energy-saving suggestions can save you money, too.

Don't forget to turn off the TV. Even if you just plan to be out of the room for a short time, shut off the television. It only takes a second to turn it back on.

If you own two TV's, get the family in front of one as often as possible. No sense having the same program on two sets.

Also, if your television has the "instant-on" feature, pull the plug when you're done watching. That saves energy, too.

How to cut kilowatts with other appliances. ☐ A 40-watt fluorescent lamp will produce more light than a 100-watt incandescent bulb, and costs you less for energy. But whatever kind of light you use, don't forget to turn it off when not in use.

☐ In your washer and dryer, launder only full loads. And you can use warm water instead of hot for almost all your clothes.

☐ Unless you have a dishwasher, you generally don't need the 140°-150° setting on your water heater. Often you can use an energy-saving 110°-120°

☐ Normally, it takes less hot water for a shower than a bath. If you take a shower, make it a short one. Or use less water if you take a bath.

☐ Repair leaky faucets. Wasting water wastes the energy to pump it to your home. And hot water wastes even more, the energy used to heat it.

☐ Avoid opening your refrigerator or freezer unnecessarily. Instead, remove the items you need at one time.

Saudi women: still an eternity from liberation

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Nabila, a Saudi woman who lived nine years in the United States with her Western-educated husband, is now back in Riyadh, veiled and not allowed to go out by herself. Her husband has taken a second wife who lives in the house with them.

Another attractive young woman who recently returned to Saudi Arabia after being educated in Beirut, Lebanon, says:

"Some girls go abroad and their experiences don't change them. They are satisfied. They feel a strong sense of honor and compatibility with Islam. I wish I were like them. I envy them. But it is hard for me to be like that. I regret I was abroad because of the conflicts I feel within myself."

These are two of the women of Saudi Arabia today, tightly bound by the strict Islamic laws and traditions that govern this country, but strongly affected by outside influences affecting the conservative social structure of the country.

There is still no talk of women's liberation here, however.

Females have few legal rights.

Women here are not allowed to drive and cannot obtain a passport or go abroad without the written consent of a male family member.

Schooling remains strongly segregated. The King Abdul Aziz University in Jiddah offers courses for both men and women. But males go to class in the morning and females in the late afternoon or evening. Male instructors are not permitted in the same classrooms with the girls. Their lectures must be presented via closed-circuit television.

Of the 5,000 Saudi students studying abroad, more than 95 per cent are men. It is nearly impossible for a girl to get a scholarship to study because of family and social pressures.

Last year the prestigious University of Petroleum and Minerals in Dharan received 200 applications for admission by women. All were turned down.

Arranged marriages are still the rule and many men, when asked how many children they have, automatically give the number of sons.

Veils are slowly disappearing, but few Saudi women venture out into public places without an abaya, a long, usually black cloak that covers the head and body to the feet.

A double standard has emerged. Foreign women who have accompanied their working husbands to Saudi Arabia now can be seen unescorted in public places or with other foreign women, their legs carefully covered by long pants.

This is painfully obvious to many Saudis, but few Saudi women would yet venture into public places without a family male escort and an abaya. At a well-known pizza restaurant here, popular with young people for late-night snacks, foreign women drift in. But Saudi girls, who come with a driver, wait in the car for a waiter to bring out their order.

Until last year government jobs were closed to women. But since the assassination of King Feisal last March, Crown Prince Fahd has allowed the employment of women as long as it is done unobtrusively.

At the New Riyadh Intercontinental Hotel, which is owned by the government, a number of women have been quietly employed in the back office.

A few months ago an unveiled Saudi woman spoke for the first time on government television. Her appearance provoked cries of outrage from the ultraconservative members of the Morality Committee which controls the nation's religious life, and the girl was quickly pulled off. But she remains in the wings and television officials plan eventually to put her on the screen again.

Diplomatic sources say other pressures for change are building. With Saudi Arabia facing critical manpower shortages because of rapid economic development, the nation cannot afford the growing number of drivers needed to shuttle women and children, over half the population, to schools and markets. The sources are convinced that, as a result, women will soon be allowed to drive.

The main scene of progress for women's rights has been at the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) in Dharan where Saudi and foreign women work in offices side by side with men.

Saudi women at Aramco hold jobs as geologists, in public health, in public relations and in other fields. It is known Aramco is trying to step up its use of Saudi women as computer operators and in other roles.

But these women remain an elite few.

"It's difficult to discuss these problems in the open, such as at the university or in public or on television," says a young woman. "Because of the religious rules, there is no chance to discuss anything."

Even among the so-called Westernized families, young women complain their parents cannot fully abandon the old ways.

"My father listens to my telephone calls and opens my private mail," said one single girl working at Aramco. "Any move I make is questioned.

"My parents have the attitude I shouldn't enjoy myself before I'm married. They are afraid that a taste of freedom will make it difficult for me to adjust to marriage later."

Goats help fight fires

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — The National Forest Service is using domestic goats to maintain firebreaks in the brushlands of southern California's national forests. The goats are expected to provide an inexpensive and efficient way to prevent the spread of fires.

Goats were chosen, according to the National Automobile Club, because they eat brush not eaten by other livestock and because they crop it off close to the ground, clearing the areas in which they graze of the dried bushes and grass that provide fuel for fires.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

If you're thinking about a career in aircraft, engineering or mechanics you can do your future employer a favor.

Aircraft, manufacturing and engineering companies are big employers, not only in your area but throughout the country. Jobs in these fields pay well and are available to young, eager, skilled women and men.

The cost to employers to train new people for these positions is very high. Right now, many are having to hold off, to wait for the economy to pick up before they can take on trainees.

But you don't have to wait. You can start your training right after graduation and get paid for it. Here is a program where you can spend a month to a year attending a full time technical school recognized for its excellence by major employers. You can follow this up by working 2 days a month, getting practical on-the-job experience, the kind that really stands out on a resume.

After tech school there are 300 free accredited correspondence courses that you can take to help advance or change your civilian career.

This is the Air Force RESERVE opportunity. It doesn't cost your future employer anything... it pays you a minimum $2,000 during your first 12 months.

Cut them out of this ad very carefully, and place one under your spouse's cup — and one under yours

Now—talk seriously for five minutes about where you keep your savings, how safe your money is, and how much guaranteed interest you are receiving!

It's not enough anymore to have just any savings account. You need one that best meets your savings needs—and at the same time offers you the highest interest available, with insured safety.

All this and more is yours, at Pomona First Federal, your Financial Friend. We can help you analyze your savings requirements, no matter how much you have to save. For example, our $1000-balance savings certificate, six to ten year term, offers the highest interest return allowed—7¾% per annum. That's an annual yield of 8.06%!

If you have a savings certificate that's about to mature, increase your future interest earnings by transferring that money to Pomona First Federal. If maturing deposits are left as is, you stand to lose substantial interest. Interest has increased recently, and the rate on your certificate may be low. Bring your certificate or passbook into Pomona First Federal. We'll handle all the details, whether the certificate matures within 30, 60, or even 90 days, at no cost to you, and at no loss of interest!

It's important to your future, and to the future of your family, that you protect your financial security. And at Pomona First Federal, that's what the spirit of Financial Friendship is all about—helping you to brighter tomorrows.

Come in today, and start making every day count toward your future, at Pomona First Federal.

Obituaries

Lois Bobo

Mrs. Lois Arlene Bobo, wife of Donald E. Bobo Sr. of 462 E. La Verne Ave., Pomona, died Friday at her home.

Mrs. Bobo was born June 25, 1934 in Chicago, Ill. She came to California from Indianapolis, Ind., in 1968 and moved to Pomona in June 1972 from Canoga Park. She was an active member of the Central Baptist Church, Pomona.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Donald E. Jr. and Ben W., and three daughters, Elise Marie, Cynthia Louise and Teri Lyn, all at home; her mother, Mrs. B. F. Umbenhaur of Niles, Mich.; and two brothers, Ellery Unbenhaur of Niles and Robert Umbenhaur of Stevensville, Mich.

Services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church, Pomona. The Rev. Ray Batema, pastor of the church, will officiate. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the Central Baptist Church Scholarship Fund, 395 E. San Bernardino Ave., Pomona 91767.

Visiting hours will be Tuesday from 4 to 9 p.m.

Robert Steidley

He was born May 7, 1926, in Pomona and was graduated from Pomona High School and Mt. San Antonio College. He served with the U. S. Navy in World War II.

Mr. Steidley was a radio and instrument technician for United Air Lines in Torrance for 22 years.

Surviving him are his widow, Laura; three sons, Kenneth of Weaverville, Robert of the U. S. Army in Germany and James of the U.S. Air Force in Charleston, S.C.; one sister, Mrs. Dorlis Grubidge of Oshkosh, Wis.; his mother, Mrs. Zella Steidley of Ontario, and one granddaughter, Carrie of Weaverville.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at Draper Mortuary, Ontario.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Fund.

Claribel Branigan

Mrs. Claribel A. Branigan, wife of Eugene E. Branigan of 990 Groff St., Pomona, died Saturday evening in Pomona Valley Community Hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Branigan was born July 5, 1911 in Rome, N.Y. She came to Pomona from Rome in 1960. She was a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Jean Floto of Covina; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Roth, Mrs. Elizabeth Krumhauer and Mrs. Mildred McCormick, all of Pomona; and three grandchildren.

A Rosary will be recited Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in St. Joseph Catholic Church. Mass of the Christian Burial will be celebrated Wednesday at 9 a.m. in the church. Burial will be made in Holy Cross Cemetery, Pomona. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Delia Gee

Mrs. Delia M. Gee of 1116 N. Dudley St., Pomona, died Friday afternoon in the La Vina Hospital, Altadena, after three weeks of illness.

Mrs. Gee was born Aug. 20, 1898 in Erin Township, Mich. She came to Pomona from Detroit in May 1924.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church, Pomona, and the Women's Mission Society and the Fidelity Circle, both of the church. She was also a past deaconess in the church.

Survivors are three sons, Herbert F. of Pomona, Alfred W. Jr. of Ontario and J. Kenneth of Newcastle; two daughters, Mrs. Jo Ann Schrum of Pomona and Mrs. Betty Christian of Oregon; a sister, Mrs. Lena Knop of Detroit, a nephew, Donald F. Piche of Montclair; 20 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 3 p.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. The Rev. Paul B. Ryan, of the First Baptist Church, Pomona, and the Rev. Cass Schrieb, will officiate. Entombment will be made in Pomona Mausoleum.

Friends may call at the chapel today from 4 to 9 p.m.

Rattlers, now bats

CHICO (AP) — When Butte College first opened over a year ago, it had a rattlesnake problem. Now it has a bat problem.

When the school south of this northern Sacramento Valley town was being built, construction workers found a number of rattlers in the area.

But now it's bats living in the library.

It all started when hundreds of bats started staying under copper plating on the outside of some of the college's buildings.

Ray Rice, the college's maintenance supervisor, said the bats apparently were prompted to chew their way into the library when the last few warm days made it too hot under the copper plating.

So early one morning, officials turned up the heater as high as it would go in the library and drove many of the bats outside. However, some stayed, so county health officials ordered the library closed.

'Bomb dogs' at airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — By June no aircraft flying anywhere over the United States will be more than 30 minutes from an airport with dogs trained to sniff out bombs.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration announced Sunday that six more airports are being equipped with the "bomb dog" squads to combat airport terrorism.

Trained dogs and handlers are already stationed at 18 municipal airports, the LEAA said.

The six, chosen by the Federal Aviation Administration to achieve the maximum half-hour delay between bomb threat and search, are: Boston; Bismarck, N.D.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Oakland, Calif.; Oklahoma City; and Seattle.

LEAA claimed the dogs have saved 120 lives and prevented thousands of dollars in property damage in the 18 airports that already participate under a four-year, $40,000 agency program.

In Los Angeles, dogs sniffed out 12 explosive devices and several weapons during 450 alerts in a six-month period, the agency said.

Last December, the agency said, a German shepherd named Brandy led investigators to pieces of a bomb that killed 11 people at New York's La-Guardia Airport. The fragments were considered an important clue, although the case remains unsolved.

In 1972 Brandy discovered a bomb 12 minutes before it was timed to explode aboard a Trans World Airlines jet.

Lakers hit bottom

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — After 73 games of the 82-game 1975-76 NBA season, the Lakers are in third place, a game under .500 at 36-37.

"This is probably my most frustrating season as a coach," Bill Sharman admitted glumly.

Sharman's team had just finished a horribly played game in which it was beaten decisively, 130-111, by the Milwaukee Bucks who capitalized on 27 Laker turnovers.

The Bucks accomplished two things. They dumped the Lakers into third place, a game behind Seattle, and only a half game ahead of fourth-place Phoenix in the Pacific Division.

They also clinched the season series with the Lakers, three games to two. And they set a season-high scoring mark in doing it. Their previous high was 126 points.

Oh there were factors that could contribute to a loss as Sharman pointed out. Lucius Allen had the flu and did not play. The Lakers were playing their third game in as many days.

But the fact remains. The Lakers are fighting for their lives as far as getting into the NBA Playoffs are concerned. Yet for the second night in a row they looked listless and lethargic and played like a bunch of zombies.

"We were just terrible tonight," Sharman admitted. "We were bad in all departments."

The Lakers trailed after the first quarter, 30-24. It was 67-50 at the half and 93-78 after three quarters.

The victory was number 400 for Buck's coach Larry Costello in his NBA career. "We're making progress," Costello said happily. This was a big win tonight under pressure. The kids are playing hard. We don't have great speed in the back court and I like to use short, crisp passes."

Those "short, crisp passes" caught the Lakers off guard several times and the Bucks scored layups while the Lakers stood by helplessly. The Bucks also intercepted some of the "Laker lobs."

"It's really strange," Costello said. "Tuesday night I watched the Lakers dominate a good Cleveland team and I was trying to think how we could combat them. But the next night we beat 'em and tonight we did it again."

Kareem Abdul Jabbar scored 34 points for the Lakers. But Jabbar, for the sixth game in a row, was down in rebounds (13) and blocked no shots.

A writer put it to Sharman bluntly. Are the Lakers no better than .500 ballclub even with Jabbar?

"It's not that we're not a good club," Sharman replied. It's just that we haven't got it together yet. If we had won half of our close games we'd be 8-10 games better. The players have to play together long enough to know each other.

"Basketball isn't like football when you huddle before each play or like baseball where you have time to think between each pitch. Everything happens so fast you have to know each other well enough to anticipate each other. It took the Celtics three years to come back after Bill Russell and those guys retired."

Unfortunately for Bill Sharman, he doesn't have three years. He had last year and this year and if the Lakers miss the playoffs, there isn't likely to be another year.

CCAA honors three Broncos

Cal Poly placed two players on the All-California Collegiate Athletic Association basketball team announced by the coaches today and one on the second unit.

Senior guard Joe Sills and junior forward Jack Gamulin earned first team honors in the voting of the coaches while senior forward Paul Newton made the second team.

Cal State Los Angeles' Tommie Lipsey was selected the Most Valuable Player while rookie coach Pat Wennihan, who led Cal State Bakersfield to the championship, earned Coach of the Year honors.

Lipsey led the CCAA in scoring (26.0), rebounding (11.3) and shooting percentage (63.3).

Sills, Poly's all-time career scoring, was second in the CCAA in points with a 24.1 average and second in the conference in free throw percentage at 83.5.

Gamulin was third in scoring at 17.7 and sixth in field goal shooting with a 52.6 per cent marksmanship. Newton was second in rebounding with 10.9 a game.

Also named to the first team were Larry Reynolds of UC Riverside plus Jeff Garnett and Greg Johnwell of Bakersfield.

Poly ended the season with a 16-13 record. The Broncos were knocked out of the NCAA Division II playoffs by eventual national champion Puget Sound. The Broncs earned the NCAA bid by placing second in the CCAA.

Nolan Ryan wows Williams in Holtville workout

Ryan, the Angels' star pitcher until undergoing arm surgery last fall, threw 10 minutes on the sidelines and another 10 in batting practice Sunday.

"This has brightened my day," Williams said. "He was just excellent."

Ryan, American League strikeout leader for three years in a row prior to his arm surgery, said, "You'd never know that I had an operation. The only reminder I have is a scar."

Williams said Ryan would likely pitch in competition for the first time since the operation Thursday, when the Angels play the Oakland A's in Mesa. The Angels start their exhibition season Wednesday against Cleveland in Tucson, Ariz.

Catcher Ike Hampton arrived here Sunday, so the team now has all 38 players in camp. The Angels will play an intra-squad game Tuesday before opening exhibition play.

Dodgers get E. Rodriguez

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Catcher Ellie Rodriquez has been acquired by the Los Angeles Dodgers from the Calfiornia Angels.

Rodriquez, 29, was traded Sunday for minor league outfielder Orlando Alvarez and cash.

"It facilitates another deal," Dodger vice president Al Campanis said of the trade. "But right now we're thinking of him (Rodruquez) as a backup catcher."

Rodriquez has been the Angels' starting catcher the past two seasons, batting .235 in 90 games in 1975 and .253 in 140 games in 1974.

He has played for the New York Yankees, Kansas City and Milwaukee as well as the Angels. A veteran of eight seasons in the majors, Rodriquez was named to the American League All-Star team in 1969 and 1972.

In a squad game Sunday, Don Sutton hurled five scoreless innings, giving up only three hits. Newcomer Dusty Baker slugged a bases-empty homer as the Tom Lasordas blanked the Jim Gilliams, 6-0. Rookie outfielder Glen Burke also homered.

"I felt great," Sutton said. "I wanted to pitch as long as I possibly could. I've been here throwing batting practice for two weeks and it really paid off."

The Dodgers also announced a working agreement Sunday with the Mazatland Venados of the Mexican winter league for 1976-77.

LIMBERING UP

It's Derby Week at S.A.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—It's derby week at Santa Anita, but few if anyone can settle on a standout colt for Sunday's $150,000-guaranteed feature, richest in its 39 editions.

Telly's Pop, An Act, Crystal Water, June's Blazer—these are some of the youngsters slated to compete in the 1⅛ mile derby.

Last year's winner was Avatar, who today has another distinction. The colt won the $109,300 San Luis Rey Stakes on the grass course before 51,688 fans on a summer-like day Sunday.

And Avatar, winner of the Belmont Stakes and second in the Kentucky Derby in 1974, shapes up as a solid contender in the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap, raced over the turf course at about 1¾ miles.

Trainer Tommy Doyle said he sees no great problem for Avatar in the San Juan. "He likes the grass and the distance," said Doyle, pointing out that the colt's win in the Belmont was at 1½ miles, although on the dirt track.

There was a dispute for the runnerup positions in the San Luis Rey. Ga Hai finished second but was disqualified and pushed back to fourth for interference in the stretch. The infraction involved Top Crowd, who was moved to second, and Top Command, elevated to third.

Avatar paid $9.80, $5.80 and $3.60; Top Crowd $5.40 and $3.20 and Top Command $3.40.

Pomona, Garey share SAL lead

Surprising Pomona and Garey highs, ruling the San Antonio League baseball roost after one week of league play, will try to extend their perfect slates in this week's action.

Pomona (2-0 in league and 4-4 on the year) will travel across town Tuesday afternoon to play Ganesha, while the Vikings (2-0 and 4-2-2) will visit Upland. Other SAL tilts Tuesday have Montclair at Damien and Claremont at Chino. All four games are set to get underway at 3:15 p.m.

A big game also looms in the Hacienda League, where Bonita and Walnut (both 3-0 in league play) will meet Tuesday at Bonita. The H.L.'s other leader, Royal Oak (3-0) will entertain Alta Loma, San Dimas will be at Ontario and Gladstone at Sierra Vista. Those outings also start at 3:15 p.m.

Despite the fact that Ganesha will carry a winless 0-2 SAL mark (3-3-2 overall) into Tuesday's game with the red-hot Red Devils, the contest figures to be a close one. Giant coach Bob Gray is expected to start junior righthander Joe Madrigal. Pomona mentor Jay Craven will probably go with Jackie Phillips on the hill.

Garey will be out to extend its winning streak at Upland's Memorial Park against the Scots. Viking coach Monse Estrada has his squad fired up after two narrow wins over Ganesha and Claremont, and is expected to start David Rondero. Upland will counter with senior righthander Stan Smith.

The Bonita-Walnut contest could well be one of the top games in the Hacienda League this season. Bonita will go with senior righthander David Drury on the hill, Walnut with Butch Long.

Tuesday's game is the start of a tough week for Bonita, as they host the other Hacienda front-runner, Royal Oak, on Friday. The Bearcats are the favorites to repeat as H.L. champs, and two wins this week could put them in the drivers seat in the league standings.

Another interesting game on the Hacienda scene would be the San Dimas-Ontario contest. Saint hurler Dennis Wetzel is coming off a no-hitter last week against Ala Loma and will try to pull a "Johnny VanderMeer" and duplicate that feat against the Jaguars, who are in the Hacienda cellar with a 0-3 mark.

Alta Loma figures to improve as the season progresses and might be ready to give Royal Oak a good game Tuesday. The Braves are still trying to get their star hitter Anthony Vasquez back to full strength following an early-season injury.

Probably pitching assignments in the other SAL games Tuesday shape up as follows: Montclair's Don Pierce vs. Damien's Todd Bell and Claremont's Brad Kirkendall vs. Chino's Joe Pickens. Claremont, Chino, Montclair and Upland are all bunched at 1-1 in the SAL standings, while defending champ Damien is 0-2.

UCLA eager for Great Rematch

By Associated Press

Gene Bartow remembers the first time UCLA played Indiana this season. It's not a very pleasant memory, but it's one he's getting a chance to erase.

"It was my first game at UCLA," said the man who stepped into the shoes of the legendary John Wooden as coach of the Bruins. "It meant so much to me, the pressure that was on me was extended to our players. I think we were over-prepared."

Indiana overran UCLA 84-64 in that season opener in St. Louis Nov. 29, the Hoosiers' first triumph in a perfect string of 30 so far this year. The Bruins, meanwhile, stumbled through the early part of their schedule but then put the pieces together to win the Pacific-8 title and a berth in the NCAA tournament, where they are defending the title they won 10 of the past 12 years under Wooden.

Bartow will get a chance to wipe out the memory of that initial defeat Saturday when Indiana and UCLA square off again in the NCAA semifinals at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. It's the second game of a doubleheader that will be nationally televised (NBC, 11 a.m. PST), with Rutgers, 31-0, and Michigan, 24-6, meeting in the first semifinal. The winners meet in the final Monday night, March 29.

If top-ranked Indiana's 65-56 triumph over No. 2 Marquette in the Mideast Regional Saturday was the Game of the Year, the UCLA-Indiana matchup must rate as the Rematch of the Year. And Bartow and his troops say things will be different this time around.

"If we play like we have in 13 of our last 16 games," said Bartow, "we're going to be ready, real ready."

"We will be a lot better," promised UCLA forward Marques Johnson. "When we played them last November, they were a veteran ballclub who had played together for three years and they were pointing for that game like it was a national championship."

"It's going to be a good game, a great game for college basketball," added guard Ray Townsend. "We are different. We are smoother, more together, more intense than the last time."

The last time, All-American center Kent Benson of Indiana was the dominant factor, controling play at both ends of the court. But since then, 6-foot-10 freshman David Greenwood has replaced 7-2 senior Ralph Drollinger as UCLA's starting pivotman, and Bartow hopes the two of them will be enough to contain Benson.

Also on display in the big rematch will be two of the game's premier forwards, Scott May of Indiana and Richard Washington of UCLA. The 6-foot-7 May is a first-team All-American and college basketball's Player of the Year, while the 6-10½ Washington was a second-team All-American.

Both played prominent roles in Saturday's regional finals.

Washington scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead fifth-ranked UCLA, 26-4, past 15th-ranked Arizona 82-66 in the West Regional on UCLA's home floor, Pauley Pavilion. The game was tied 58-58 with eight minutes left before UCLA broke it open with 12 consecutive points, Washington getting two baskets and an assist in the burst.

"It was just a matter of wearing them down," said Washington, who apparently knew the spree was coming.

"During the timeout before we ran off those 12 points," said Bartow, "Richard said to me, 'I'm gonna get me some points,' and he did."

May picked up three personal fouls in the first 6½ minutes of Indiana's game against Marquette at Baton Rouge, La., and sat out the rest of the first half. But he came back in the second half to help his team to its 64th victory in the last 65 games.

The red-hot Hoosiers hit 15 of their first 21 shots from the field and raced to an early 30-19 lead before Marquette closed to 36-35 at halftime. The Hoosiers built a 10-point lead midway through the second half, but again the Warriors ralled.

With 2:18 to play it was 57-54, and Marquette had the ball. But Bo Ellis missed a turnaround jumper, Indiana collared the rebound and Tom Abernethy was fouled. What's more, Marquette Coach Al McGuire, complaining that Ellis had been fouled, was slapped with a technical. Abernethy sank two free throws, the Hoosiers retained possession of the ball and free throws by Abernethy and Bob Wilkerson moments later plus a layup by Quinn Buckner clinched the victory.

McGuire says he has a solution to his habit of drawing technical fouls in crucial playoff games. "I won't come to another tournament," he said. "I'll let my assistants handle it. I seem to transfer my hangups to my players."

Benson led Indiana's balanced attack with 18 points, May had 15 and Abernethy 12. Earl Tatum was high scorer for Marquette with 22.

The Rutgers-Michigan semifinal matches two teams whose forte is quickness. Both could carve their mark in the record book by going all the way.

The Scarlet Knights, should they win the semifinal and final, would finish with a 33-0 record, the most victories ever by a major college team in one season. The Wolverines, who finished second to Indiana in the Big Ten, are trying to be the first conference runner-up to win the national crown.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers got its running game going in the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., against VMI, leading by as many as 21 points and then turning back a mild challenge by the Keydets to win easily 91-75.

Guards Ed Jordan and Mike Dabney scored 23 points apiece for Rutgers, while Will Bynum led VMI with 34.

"I don't think anybody can beat us," proclaimed Jordan, who also had six steals and five assists against VMI. "They tried to run with us, and that was a surprise—but a pleasant surprise."

"Rutgers is quicker than June bugs hopping on a duck's back," offered VMI Coach Bill Blair. "And quickness is only half of it. Rutgers comes at you in swarms, buzzing around your eyeballs until you surrender the ball."

The Scarlet Knights have an additional incentive—regional pride.

"If you don't come from the ACC or the Big Ten they're gonna cut you up," said Rutgers Coach Tom Young. "We hope we can show them that Eastern basketball isn't that bad."

Tie drops L.A.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Coach Ted Harris says he is pleased that his Minnesota North Stars are starting to work together gain.

The North Stars pulled into a 4-4 tie with the Los Angeles Kings Sunday night as Tim Young scored his 15th goal of the season with 1:26 to play in the National Hockey League game.

Young deflected in his goal past Los Angeles goalie Gary Edwards after Lou Nanne had fired a shot from the right point.

"The guys showed a lot more enthusiasm out there tonight and we've been missing that lately," Harris said. "I think Steve Jensen's enthusiasm is starting to affect the other guys. I'm more than pleased with the way he has come along since joining the club."

Jensen, a member of the U.S. Olympic hockey team who joined the North Stars earlier this year, scored Minnesota's first goal at 10:50 of the opening period to tie the score at 1-1.

Los Angeles held a 4-3 lead after the second period on two goals by Butch Goring and one by Vic Vanasky. Bill Goldsworthy and Doug Hicks scored for Minnesota in the middle period.

The Kings had been tied for second place with Pittsburgh in the Norris Division going into Sunday night's game. However, Pittsburgh pulled slightly ahead with a victory over the New York Rangers.

"I think it will go down to the last game," Goring said of the Los Angeles-Pittsburgh race. "If we can take five of our remaining seven games, I think we can beat them out. I know we've got to keep working at it. We can't let up a bit."

Pearson nabs Atlanta 500

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Benny Parsons, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker and Richard Petty all thought at one point they were headed for victory. David Pearson was convinced until the very end that he wasn't.

"I just didn't think the car could last," said Pearson, who took a 1.8-second victory over Parsons in Sunday's Atlanta 500 stock car race. "We lost a lap early—that I thought we'd never make up—and the car was vibrating so bad I could hardly steer it.

"I don't think I've ever worked harder to win. If you don't believe me, just look at the blisters on my hands."

Parsons, who is still thirsting after his first victory this season while Pearson has won three of the four he's entered, was especially frustrated.

"It's tough to sit there and know you can't win even though you're so close," he said. "Just when I began to think I might have a chance to win the race, David comes back stronger than ever."

Parsons had what appeared to be a comfortable lead when both leaders pitted for fuel and new tires during a caution period with only 50 miles to go. But Parsons' Chevrolet took on only two tires, while Pearson's crew changed all four.

"Four new tires always work better than two," Pearson said. "I think Benny should have taken on all four. I don't know if I could have beaten him otherwise."

Pearson said his main concern through the first half of the race—besides making up the lap his Mercury had lost— was Yarborough.

Asked if he thought Yarborough could have won if not for a lengthy pit stop, Pearson said: "What do you think? He lost almost five laps in the pits and made up all but one before the race was over."

Yarborough, who built big leads at will until a broken distributor rotor cost him dearly, said: "I was real disappointed that I didn't win the race. But I was pleased that we're back to being competitive."

Yarborough led the most laps—117—and won a $7,000 boat for his efforts. "Well, thank God I won something," he quipped.

The only other car able to keep up with Yarborough's Chevrolet was Baker's Ford.

I guess I earned that name 'hard luck,' didn't I?" Baker said disgustedly after being sidelined by a blown engine while leading. "If I ever had a car handling any better than the one today, I can't remember it."

Things were looking so good, he confided, "I had done started thinking about what I was going to say in Victory Lane because I wanted to make sure I didn't forget my sponsor."

When Baker departed, Petty inherited a sizable lead, only to suffer a similar mechanical failure in his Dodge.

Green's a lucky man

"I'm lucky I can play golf for a living," he said.

"I'm lucky that playing golf enables me to go all over the world, places my mother and father never even thought about going. I've played in Australia and New Zealand and Morocco and Japan. I've played in England and Scotland and other places in Europe. I'm lucky I can do this. Not everybody can."

And how about the money he's piled up while playing his game, well over one-half million dollars in the last 3½ seasons?

"Money isn't everything," Green replied in his curiously quick, clipped delivery. "It's nice to have, but it isn't everything.

"I'm trying to pile up the titles, not money. If you win the titles, win the golf tournaments, the money will follow."

And Green, rapidly advancing through the ranks of the game's premier performers, piled up another one Sunday, rallying from the potential disaster of a double bogey with a gritty, two-under-par 70 that won him the $35,000 first prize in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

It was the second title in as many weeks for the man who calls himself "just a skinny kid from Birmingham," and the 11th, including a Japanese title, in his career.

Now Green, who won this one by two strokes with a 12-underpar total of 276, would like to get lucky enough to win one of the game's Big Four crowns, the only thing he really needs to gain his full stature as one of golf's leading practitioners.

"In my estimation," said Green, a run-away, record-setting winner of the Doral Open a week ago, "a great player is a player who plays well in the major tournaments.

"I haven't had a particularly good record in the majors. That's what I want to do. That's the next step.

The victory, nailed down with a magnificent shot from a fairway sand trap on the 18th hole, allowed him to join Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin and Ben Crenshaw as the only double winners of the year. The two consecutive first place checks have pushed his earnings to $89,006, fourth on the money-winning list for the season and ahead of Nicklaus and Miller.

Aztecs triumph

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The Los Angeles Aztecs, led by George Best, scored a 3-0 exhibition North American Soccer victory over the Seattle Sounders Sunday.

The Aztecs' first goal was set up by Best as he took a corner kick and had it headed in by Bob McAlinden.

The Aztecs scored once more in the first half as John Mason headed in a pass from FISHAA. Mason and Fishaa teamed up for the game's final goal on almost a carbon copy of their first goal.

Though Best didn't do the scoring, he dominated the game by drawing defenders to him and opening chances for his team.

One of the most incredible baseball records of all-time was set by Shoeless Joe Jackson who had season batting averages of .387, .408, .395, .373, .354 and .382 — AND NEVER WON A BATTING TITLE! . . . Jackson compiled those averages in the American League starting in 1910, but every season when he had such high averages, some one else had a better one . . . It seems unbelievable that a player who hit that well should not have won at least one batting championship — but Joe Jackson never did!

★★★

Here's a basketball oddity . . . Indiana University had the number one ranked team in the country in 1953 and also won the NCAA basketball tournament that year — yet not one player on that team made the first team All-American . . . They completely dominated college basketball without any first team All-American players!

★★★

One of the most unusual golf rounds ever shot was the one by pro Dave White a few years ago . . . On the 8th hole, he had an incredible score for a pro — a 13 — but then he shot the amazing total of 10 straight birdies on the next 10 holes and finished with a respectable 72!

Sports briefs

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Joe Fulks, leading scorer in the National Basketball Association's first season and one of its top stars for eight years, died early Sunday from a shotgun wound in the neck.

Fulks, 54, was shot during an argument with Greg Bannister, 24, over a handgun, said Lyon County Coroner Eugene Denny. Bannister has been charged with murder in connection with the incident.

Lyon County Sheriff William White said the shooting occurred in a mobile home owned by Mrs. Roberta Bannister, a widow and the mother of the man charged with the shooting.

Fulks was one of a handful of post-World War II stars who kept the NBA in existence through its shaky early years and helped start the professional game toward the success it enjoys today.

He led the NBA in scoring in 1947 with a 23.2 average while leading Philadelphia to the league championship. The former Murray State, Ky., standout set a single-game scoring record of 63 points against the Indianapolis Olympians on Feb. 10, 1949. That mark stood for 10 years, until Elgin Baylor scored 64 against Boston in 1959.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA maintained its five-season win record Sunday with a 77-72 dual track meet victory over Tennessee, narrowly avoiding a tie when runners for both teams were disqualified in the mile relay.

The meet broke up in a tie at 77 with Tennessee the apparent victor in the relay. Moments later, however, referee Mort Tanner called a foul on the Volunteers and disqualified UCLA for finishing without the baton.

No points were awarded in the event.

In the Bruins' 38th straight dual meet triumph, Bennie Myles ran 46.0 in the 400-meter dash, just missing the meet record of 46.4, set in 1971 when the course was 440 yards.

The Volunteers' Phil Olsen set a new meet record for the javelin, throwing 259-1. Reggie Jones reaped two wins for Tennessee, running 10.2 in the 100-meter dash and 20.4 in the 200-meter version.

UCLA's Willie Banks was also a two-time winner with a 25-0¾ distance in the long jump and 52-7¼ in the triple jump.

Visiting pole vaulter Willy Sondeberg of Norway, broke his country's record with 16-2¼, then topped that with 16-5¼. The 24-year-old medical student from Oslo, who set Norways's previous record of 16-0¾, leaves Wednesday after a three-month training visit to UCLA.

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Jose Earthquakes defeated the San Diego Jaws 8-4 to win the North American Soccer League indoor western regional championship Sunday.

NEW YORK — The American League voted to expand to Toronto for 1977 and the National League said it would actively consider expansion to the same city for the same season setting up a possible conflict.

MONT STE. ANNE, Que. — Franco Bieler of Italy defeated over-all World Cup champion Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden by 2.2 seconds over two runs and won the men's parallel slalom competition.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand — Joanne Carner of the United States shot a threeunder-par 70 and won a women's international golf tournament by 11 strokes with a 213 total.

CARLSBAD, Calif. — Ilie Nastase of Romania won the $30,000 first prize in the Independent Players Association Tennis Tournament, coming from behind to whip Jimmy Connors 4-6, 6-0, 6-1.

KEAUHOU-KONA, Hawaii — Arthur Ashe remained undefeated in the $320,000 World Championship Tennis Challenge Cup Series with a 6-4, 7-6, 6-3 victory over Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

DALLAS — Evonne Goolagong of Australia easily handled Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia 6-1, 6-1 to capture the $15,000 first prize in the Maureen Connolly Brinker Tennis Tournament.

JACKSON, Miss. — Australian Ken Rosewall, the top-seed, swept by Raul Ramirez of Mexico 6-3, 6-3 to take the $60,000 Tennis South Invitational of the World Championship of Tennis.

WASHINGTON — Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., defeated Onny Parun of New Zealand 6-3, 6-1 to win the World Championship Tennis tournament at George Washington University.

Kentucky tops Cinderella

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina-Charlotte 49ers took three bites of the "Big Apple"—but couldn't get the fourth down.

After delicious victories over the University of San Francisco, Oregon and North Carolina State, time finally ran out Sunday for the Cinderella team of the 1976 National Invitation Tournament.

"I think we did a tremendous job and I'm really proud of my team," said North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose after losing the NIT finals 71-67 to the red-hot Kentucky Wildcats. "I think you must keep in mind that Kentucky's got three high school All-Americas on their team—and we have none."

The unheralded 49ers had a seven-point lead with ten minutes left in the game and the opportunity to knock off one of college basketball's traditional powers. But strangely, they went into a slowdown while Kentucky's entire starting front line was sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

"When they started backing off," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall, "that was just fine with us. We appreciated that."

Eventually Mike Phillips, Jack Givens and James Lee— all of them saddled with four fouls—came back into the game to help Kentucky win the 39th NIT title.

The Wildcats, who landed in the finals at Madison Square Garden with close victories over Niagara, Kansas State and Providence, didn't do things the easy way in the championship game, either. Phillips scored five points in the last minute, including a crucial tap-in on a missed foul shot, and the 49ers contributed two key turnovers at the end.

"Phillips' big play at the end was a super effort," said Hall, whose team was given up for dead in midseason but finished with 10 straight victories. "The big thing about this team is that for the last 10 games, they have simply refused to be beaten. I had all the confidence in the world that we were going to win this one."

Hall, whose Wildcats lost the NCAA championship game last year to UCLA, put the whip cream on his 1975-76 season by beating the 49ers.

"This is a big step for our program, to come in here and win this tournament," said Hall, whose club was 10-10 at one point of the season. "We were down before—but we're not down now."

The Wildcats' dramatic victory overshadowed a splendid performance by UNC-Charlotte's Cedric Maxwell, who scored 24 of his tournament leading 109 points to win the NIT's Most Valuable Player prize.

"'Cornbread' just came in here and captured the imagination of the New York press," said Rose. "That's really a heck of a thing."

Maxwell, nicknamed after a movie character, was happy to drink from the MVP cup, but would rather have had a taste of the NIT championship hardware.

"It's great to be MVP," he said. "But everything I do is geared to the team. A championship would have been better."

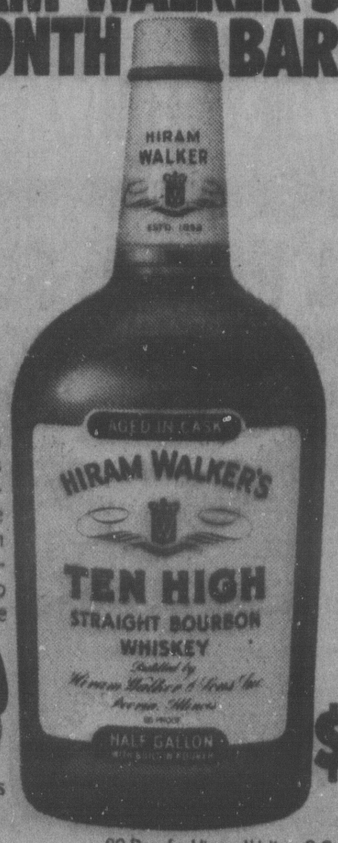
TEN HIGH CELEBRATES HIRAM WALKER'S 10 MILLIONTH BARREL.



Hiram Walker just bottled the bourbon from its 10 millionth barrel. And Ten High celebrates this unique milestone proudly. Because not many bourbons can deliver the taste that comes from the experience of producing 10 million barrels. That's the kind of tradition that's made Ten High America's third best-selling bourbon. So when you go to the liquor store to Take Ten, take a look at our celebration display. There's even a barrel for you... a very special ice bucket barrel offer. Your liquor store has the details. And the Ten High.

Young dad arrested; held parrot for ransom

LONDON (AP) — An unemployed father of two kidnaped a parrot and held it for ransom to get money to feed his family and his pets — two cats, a dog, a terrapin and a python.

Police said David Gore, 22, broke into a pet shop and stole the parrot, named Aggie and valued at $400, and demanded $300 for its return.

Police set a trap and arrested Gore as he arrived to claim the ransom.

Aggie's owner, pet shop proprietor Keith Nash, said, "Aggie's a lovely bird and we wouldn't part with her for the world. She knows many phrases, but now we shall have to teach her 'Stop thief!'"

On Thursday at the Old Bailey criminal court, Judge John Marnan gave Gore a suspended sentence of 18 months.

Restrictions on Chino High parking eased

Parking restrictions at several locations in the Chino High School area have been lifted by city officials.

Most of the tough no parking laws still exist in the high school area — mainly due to complaints from area residents about students parking in front of their homes. The regulations were approved by the City Council last December.

But, on recommendation from Public Works Director John Gerardi, the council lifted the restrictions on the west side of 10th Street in front of the St. James Apartments, and on the north side of Jefferson Street from 10th to Central Avenue.

Also, regulations were lifted on Ninth Street south of Park Avenue, and at Park Place and 12th Street in the area of the apartments there.

Apartment residents affected by the restrictions had complained that they had no place to park, said Gerardi.

Most of the residents in the high school area favored maintaining the restrictions, according to a staff survey, Gerardi indicated. Eighty-two per cent favored keeping the regulations and 18 per cent wanted to remove them.

Residents from the St. James Apartments were particularly adamant about wanting the restrictions removed. Ray Hyson, the apartment manager, said, "Our residents are being inconvenienced by the 'no parking' signs in front of their apartments."

Hyson addressed the council about the problem but apparently was unaware that Gerardi had recommended restrictions be lifted.

Hyson said the no parking laws were "dumped on us."

The no parking restrictions are in effect from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, while students are attending school.

All regulations will be lifted during the summer vacation.

ESAA committee attends retreat

Members of student advisory committees in Pomona's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Basic Project will attend a human relations retreat at Camp ArrowBear in Running Springs this weekend.

All student advisory committee members are ninth-grade students who attend ESAA classes at Ganesha, Garey, Pomona and Pomona Catholic high schools.

They provide a consistent student voice into all parts of the ESAA program, and help inform their classmates about project activities.

The human relations retreat will provide students of various ethnic backgrounds an opportunity to become better acquainted and to promote better human relations on the high school campuses.

The reduction and elimination of racial isolation is a major objective of the ESAA project, according to Mrs. Wilhelmina Greene, basic project supervisor.

During the weekend, participants will attend human relations workshops, discussion sessions, and multicultural activities. Educational entertainment will be provided through such activities as films and a performance by multi-ethnic folk singers.

Adults invited to attend the retreat include principals of ESAA schools and other administrators, members of the school board, parents, teachers, and other staff members.

The human relations retreat committee is headed by Nancy Anderson, ESAA reading teacher and SAC sponsor at Pomona High School. She was assisted in the planning by the SAC sponsors at the other high schools, teachers Angelena Curtis, Pomona Catholic High School; Marjorie Miller, Ganesha High School, and James Molina, Garey High School.

PRETTY RIDER Denise Owen is perched atop John Mayo's miniature stagecoach, which he keeps in running order. He also has miniature horses to pull the vehicle, a replica of a Wells Fargo coach.

Chino hobbyist carried away with carriages

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

John Mayo has a hobby that drives him buggy.

"Some guys play golf, others go out and drink. I like buggies," he says.

He has four carriages left from an original collection of 29, plus a miniature stagecoach and a horse-drawn "belly" sleigh. A real "carriage and Wild West buff," Mayo has two more carriages being "stored" at his home at 12794 Wright St., plus an old medicine wagon.

Mayo's "prize" is an English-style 1870 Lady's Driving Phaeton, originally manufactured for King Arthur IV of France by the Brewster Co. of New York, Mayo calls it the "Rolls Royce of buggies."

The Phaeton has a plush, wool interior and candle-burning head lamps.

Valued between $8,000 and $12,000, the carriage indeed was used by the French king but eventually ended up back in the United States where wealthy men on plantations and estates owned it near the turn of the century, Mayo said.

"They kept carriages like these in carriage rooms," he noted recently. "It was owner driven but a footman wearing a fancy suit headed the horses and prepared the buggy for the ride. The footman was only a flunky. He had to stand up straight in the carriage — if he slouched, he got kicked out."

Ladies enjoyed the Phaeton because it was a "sporty convertible."

Mayo has another fancy, English-style carriage called the "cut under trap." It's called that because the front wheels can cut under the body for sharper turns, he explained.

He also has a "Mug wagon," formerly used in the early 1900s to transport passengers from Pico Rivera to Los Angeles; and a "Jenny Lynn," named for the Swedish singer of that period.

Mayo's miniature stagecoach is an exact replica of an old Wells Fargo coach. He even has miniature 28-inch Argentina-bred horses in his backyard which he sometimes uses to pull the coach.

The 36-year-old Mayo, who has his own contracting business, also has some carriage paraphernalia, such as the original suit worn by the Phaeton's footman, and poles and wood racks used to hook up the horses.

Although he has sold much of his collection, Mayo claims he will always retain several carriages for himself. "I will always be a carriage buff, and I only have originals. None were restored."

The Chino man followed a tradition started by his father, who bought several horse-drawn carriages in 1953. When Mayo's father died eight years ago, "I kept the collection and added some."

Mayo explains that he always wanted a horse but he couldn't have one in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he was born. But when his family moved to California "my father bought me my first horse and started me in with carriages also.

"I was my father's sidekick," Mayo recalled. "I helped him unload, fix up and polish the wagons."

Mayo and his father bought their carriages from various collectors and estates being liquidated. Some famous collectors have visited Mayo at his home, including Monte Montana. He has been in touch with singers John Davidson and Johnny Cash and actor Michael Landon, who are collectors.

Hebraic Studies prof Pomona College guest

Cyrus H. Gordon, professor of Hebraic studies at New York University, will speak on "Our Heritage: It's Character and Transmission" Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Lyman Auditorium of the Thatcher Music Building at Pomona College.

Gordon is a leading authority on the cultures and languages of the ancient Near East. A popular lecturer, Gordon has written more than 20 books and 400 articles including "The Common Background of Greek and Hebrew Civilizations" and "Forgotten Scripts."

Gordon's public lecture will be given in honor of Loren Fisher of the School of Theology at Claremont and Claremont Graduate School, who will be leaving his faculty position in June.

The lecture is sponsored by the Institute of Antiquity and Christianity and the religion departments of Scripps and Pomona colleges and the Claremont Graduate School.

No admission is charged.

PB copy reader Don Zita gains Press Club award

Don Zita, veteran Progress Bulletin copy reader, has won a second place in a journalism contest sponsored by the Press Club of Southern California.

His headline "Pomona Police Trying to Make House Calls Before Burglars Do" was named runner-up in the headline writing category.

Joel Baugh of Fontana, a former PB staff writer, won first place in this category.

Another former PB writer, Roz Douglas, was awarded sweepstakes in the competition for the best overall submission. Mrs. Douglas is now public relations director for La Verne College.

More than 100 entries were considered in 14 categories by the journalism department of the University of Oklahoma, at the club's second annual Writes of Spring contest.

Zita's entry was the only one from the Progress Bulletin. The contest included entries from newspapers, radio stations, and public relations organizations throughout the Southland.

Sheriffs need help in Cucamonga disturbance

West End sheriff's deputies called for assistance from the California Highway Patrol and sheriff's deputies from Fontana Sunday night to quell a major disturbance involving several hundred people in the northtown area of Cucamonga.

A 15-year-old youth, who allegedly attacked sheriff's Deputy Fred Penn in the disturbance, was arrested for investigation of assault on a police officer and booked in the West End Jail this morning. The youth, according to deputies failed to leave the area on the request of officers and suddenly swing his fist at Penn. Penn was not injured.

Deputies said that the disturbance began about 6 p.m. with a number of residents in the area of 25th and Center Streets reporting several fights.

When deputies arrived and placed the one youth under arrest the crowd began to menace the deputies and assistance was requested. The crowd was finally disbursed by 7:15 p.m. with no injuries reported.

The Academy plans lecture

A look at why people act as they do in organizations will be the focus of a lecture sponsored by The Academy, a Pitzer-College support group, on Tuesday.

The luncheon and lecture will be from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Founders Room of McConnell Center.

Tickets are available from the Office of Special Events. Reservations may be made with Lee Jackman, 626-8511, ext. 3140.

Wendy Carrel talks of films

Wendy Carrel, production manager with Production Systems, Inc., will speak in the Founders Room, McConnell Center, Pitzer College, Claremont, at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

In addition to discussing work on current documentary films, Miss Carrel will show her Emmy award-winning documentary on California Indians, "Fort-Seven Cents."

Miss Carrel is a 1969 graduate of Pitzer College and received a master's degree in journalism from UC Berkeley. She was a researcher on "Godfather II."

The lecture is the fifth in a series about the media sponsored by the college. It is open to the public without charge.

Claremont club hosts Robinson

James M. Robinson, director of the Institute for Antiquity and Christianity at the Claremont University Center, will discuss "The Discovery of the Nag Hammadi Codices" when the University Club of Claremont hosts Ladies Day at its regular Tuesday noon luncheon at Griswolds.

For the past eight years Robinson has led an international team of scholars engaged in the publication of a collection of early Christian documents called the Nag Hammadi Codices.

Those ancient books, whose name comes from the Egyptian town near which they were discovered, contain original writings of an ancient religion called Gnosticism.

Two men hurt on Baldy Road

Two men escaped with minor injuries when their small pickup truck ran off Mt. Baldy Road north of the south tunnel early Sunday morning. The car rolled down a 150-foot embankment and came to rest against a tree.

The driver, Charles A. Rodriguez, 22, of 8195 Tapia Via, Cucamonga, and his passenger, Freddie Gonzales, 23, of 1203 E. 13th St., Upland, were given medical attention at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Uplander helped from Mt. Baldy

A 27-year-old Upland man, injured in a fall while hiking Sunday afternoon, was brought to safety by members of the West End Sheriff's Search and Rescue team from the rugged Ice House Canyon area below Mt. Baldy.

Allen William Belanger of 239 W. Ninth St., Upland, was listed in fair condition this morning with head injuries at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

Deputies said that Belanger was hiking with a church group about a half-mile up the canyon when he suddenly slipped and fell from a cliff and landed in rocks and snow. Belanger struck his head against a rock and was knocked unconscious. Members of the rescue team and volunteers moved Belanger down the canyon to an awaiting helicopter. He was flown to the Ice House Canyon Lodge and from there transported to the hospital by ambulance.

Free enterprise springs eternal

Writing in World Marxist Review, Hyman Lumer, a member of the central committee of the Communist Party of the U.S.A., declares that not only has individual initiative in America passed into limbo long ago but "huge corporations have come to determine and direct the country's socio-economic, political and ideological life in the interest not of the mass of its citizens but of the tiny minority of superrich owners of corporate wealth."

This, of course, is a standard line of the Communists, among whom the collapse of the capitalist system is expected with the same faith that some people await the Second Coming—and never mind the irony that it is the Communist system that has stifled individual initiative and freedom wherever it triumphed.

But even some capitalists are having their doubts. Fletcher Byrom, chairman of the Koppers Company, recently told a Bicentennial symposium in Leesburg, Va., that the system we have is "going down the drain" and that his company operates on the theory that free enterprise may not survive in the United States more than five more years.

Byrom is led to this dire forecast, to be sure, not because of any belief that capitalism carries within itself the seeds of its own doom, as the Marxists preach, but because in relying more and more on government to create material abundance and to decide what is to be produced and for whom, we are destroying the free enterprise system.

Be all this as it may, the encouraging fact remains that free enterprise is still very much an American tradition.

It is said that 90 per cent of all American companies employ fewer than 100 persons. Each year, about 400,000 Americans start new companies.

They also have a high failure rate, unfortunately. In fact, fully two-thirds of all enterprises launched each year are wiped out by the fifth year.

With the casualty toll among entrepeneurs and small businessmen so high, what is it that impels so many individuals to take control of their own lives, to trade the familiar and secure for the unknown — to take the big chance?

A leading authority on the subject, Prof. Albert Shapero of the University of Texas Graduate School of Business, writes that "one important personality characteristic of the entrepeneur is the degree to which he feels he can affect the world around him . . . A related characteristic of the entrepeneur is a need for independence."

In studies conducted by Shapero, people who had formed companies were asked what it would take to get them to be a manager or employe in another company. Fifty-eight per cent said they would never consider working for someone else. When asked what they would do if they lost their companies, 72 per cent replied that they would promptly start a new one.

According to Theodore G. Schad Jr., president of Lou Ana Foods, Inc., and himself an entrepeneur since 1971, "entrepeneurs seem to fit a particular mold . . . are usually independent, ego-oriented and materially motivated."

Most of the nation's largest corporations exist today, he points out, because the Henry Fords, George Eastmans, Andrew Mellons and others had the same drives.

He adds, in an echo of Byrom's warning, that "to survive in the next few years will be the entrepeneur's severest challenge" and that if he does survive, by the end of this century he "may be the savior of the corporate business world."

Both gentlemen may be overstating things, but one prediction does seem safe to make: Whatever the perils and problems facing the free enterprise system in America, if we ever lose — or kill — the spirit of entrepeneurship on which the country was built, then the Marxist will, indeed, write the obituary.

Citizen brutality

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to Miss Nichols' letter in the March 10 paper regarding Little Louis'. She refers often to "police brutality" and how the innocent patrons were victims of flying nightsticks and Mace. She feels that since there were no guns or knives pulled, the situation was not as bad as it appeared. She further referred to two "innocent" patrons who required hospital attention.

She doesn't refer to how a quiet group drinking beer can suddenly turn into a vicious mob attacking two officers that responded to a call for help in protecting property from four fighting subjects. She doesn't refer to how these two officers were bodily thrown across a room by 25-35 people, and then set upon, having their uniforms and equipment torn and wrenched from their custody.

She neglected to state how, when these officers requested help, and six additional officers showed up, they too were set upon, by not only angry bodies, but flying debris such as ashtrays, bottles, glasses, and tables. She forgot to state that out of a total of eight officers, seven wound up with injuries, some so severe as to keep an officer off duty for almost a week resulting from being hit over the head with a beer bottle and thrown bodily across a barroom table by several subjects splintering the table in two.

She does talk about Mace and night sticks. But she didn't talk about how the crowd refused to disperse after verbal orders to do so. And how they continued to advance and attack the officers who were still greatly outnumbered.

Frankly I am sick of hearing about "police brutality". I think the general public should be made more aware of the "citizen brutality" that occurs much too often.

If an officer is charged with brutality, he is judged by his fellow officers and investigated by his department. From there he is investigated by numerous outside agencies. And even when found innocent of the charges, the stigma stays. But if a citizen is charged with brutality on an officer, it is passed off by saying that is part of the "job", part of what they are getting paid for.

Well, I for one feel they are not getting paid to be abused, spat on, beat upon, or thrown bodily through the air atop a table. They are paid to protect life and property, and if in so doing ruffle up a few feathers, then it is about time the word is heard from the "quiet minority". The public should start reading about the indignities that they suffer almost every time they are called upon to perform their job, and not just hear the cries of the few law breakers that jeopardize innocent people.

These few cry "foul" to cover up their own crimes, to raise the voice of the innocents against the tyranny they want people to believe in. People feel they are an evil necessity. But no matter the odds, when they are called on for help, they respond, even knowing the abuses and dangers that may be present. And even knowing that, although they did their job to the best of their ability, there will be those that will "Monday morning quarter back them". And they will continue to protect the lives and property of all citizens, law abiding or otherwise. — B. Garcia, La Verne

Now the bionic postal service

WASHINGTON — The "Six Million Dollar Man," as most television addicts know, is a bionic creation who combines humanity and technology. The government has used a similar combination to produce its own scientific wonder, the bionic postal service. The result, however, has been the "One Billion Dollar Boondoggle."

The TV show, of course, is an adventurous invention. The postal production, unfortunately is the awful truth. The new bionic system, which uses men and machines to process bulk mail in the Space Age, has been misdirecting and mangling packages at an alarming rate.

Parcels intended for home delivery have wound up instead in the musty warehouses and city dumps of Chicago, Detroit and Washington, D.C.

Now we have learned that the bulk mail center in Memphis, Tenn., should be added to the menace list. In Memphis, too, mangled mail has been put out with the garbage. Our inside sources have reason to believe that package mail is being detained or destroyed in every one of the 21 bulk mail facilities throughout the United States.

It has cost the taxpayers more than $1 billion for this kind of service. At the risk of saying we told you so, we have been warning about the debacle for five years. As early as January 1971, we reported that the first bulk mail center had already cost $60 million more than it was supposed to.

First of all, it was constructed, inexplicably, on swampland near Secaucas, N.J. Because of the boggy ground, the pilings had to be sunk to an extraordinary depth. One day, the workmen made an unexpected, unpleasant discovery. The pilings pierced an underground field of fermenting waste and the odor of methane gas almost overpowered them.

The Secaucas experience, however, didn't stop the intrepid postal planners. Then-Postmaster General Ted Klassen, who subsequently was forced to resign because of our revelations, called for an obligatory study. This was conducted by James Hargrove, a consultant with Nixon credentials, who closeted himself for a few weeks and emerged with his findings. "Well," he said, "the rocket's on its way to the moon."

Thus encouraged, Klassen moved into the Space Age. His successor, Postmaster General Ben Bailar, has now admitted privately that the whole bulk mail concept was a mistake.

It was proposed by Richard Nixon's first postmaster general, Winton Blount, whose construction firm has wound up with $91 million in contracts to build four of the bulk mail centers. The system was conceived, one postal official now says, "on the back of an envelope."

Under the system, package mail must be ferried to the 21 central locations to be processed by high-volume machines. Many packages must be hauled for long distances to be routed through the centers. For example, a parcel moving from El Paso to Midland, Texas, would have to travel 1,483 miles out of its way in order to pass through a bulk mail center.

The slow haul usually counteracts any time that might be gained from the fast processing machines. What comes out of the machines, in any event, aren't always the same parcels that are dumped in. For these mechanical marvels, which cost $150 million to develop, often rip, tear and snarl the packages as if they had been mauled by some ferocious beast.

Our past warnings, meanwhile, have been confirmed by a congressional investigation. A confidential report calls the Postal Service's mechanization attempt a costly failure. "The whole system," states the report, "has been laden with superfluous gimmickry."

For example, an "Automatic Vehicle Identification" system electronically chronicles the arrival and departure of trucks at the bulk mail centers. Previously, the report notes, "this function was handled very easily by a simple file card index."

As another example of overengineering, the centers have installed complex, telescoping conveyors. Suggests the report: "A simple piggyback conveyer is much easier to operate, cheaper, considerably less dangerous and less prone to jamming."

When a package jams in the conveyor, the address is often torn off. Then the package has to be opened to seek some clue where it is supposed to be delivered. Then it has to be rewrapped and processed through the precarious machinery again.

Many parcels simply have been thrown out. Others have been tossed into corners in post offices, trucks and other hiding places where investigators hopefully won't notice them.

Another dangerous mechanism is the sack shake-out machine. This contrivance lifts sacks full of parcels and dumps them, sometimes letting them drop as much as five feet.

Youth fitness declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government-sponsored study shows the improvement in youth fitness, marked in the 1960s, has ended. American girls scored only slightly better during the past 10 years, while boys' performances declined a bit.

Simon McNeely of the U.S. Office of Education speculated that scores may have leveled off because economic conditions have led to a de-emphasis in physical education programs or because schools aren't emphasizing physical fitness as much. In the early 1960s, President John Kennedy pushed physical education.

Girls, who scored higher in 39 out of 48 skill tests between 1958 and 1965, showed better performances last year in seven of 40 categories, and a decline in the average 600-yard walk for 10-year-olds.

Boys, who improved in 54 out of 56 events between 1958 and 1965, had unchanged performances in 39 categories. Fourteen-year-old boys scored lower average efforts in the long jump.

The study was released Thursday.

McNeely said physical fitness was stressed in Dade County, Fla., schools and LaSierra High School in San Juan, Calif., last year and performances improved — indicating American youngsters did not reach their maximum potential in 1965.

The new study confirmed conclusions reached in 1958 and 1965 that girls appear to reach their physical peak when they are 13 or 14, while boys progressively improve as they grow older.

The sampling of 7,800 boys and girls in 108 schools nationwide showed that they performed about as well on the Youth Fitness Test last year as pupils did in 1965.

The University of Michigan study sample represented about 12 million boys and girls aged 10 through 17 who took the Youth Fitness Test. Nearly 342,000 qualified for the Presidential Physical Fitness Award last year by finishing in the 85th percentile or higher.

The girls' scores improved in these seven categories: 600-yard run-walk by 13, 14, 15 and 17 years olds, the long jump by 13 and 14 year olds and the flexed-arm hang by 14 year olds.

Just in jest

Our science fiction experts have envisioned the Six Million Dollar Man and the Bionic Woman. And, I warn you, don't underestimate their ability to eventually make such far out marvels a reality. Already they have produced "Bionic Hair;" and I have come to firmly believe that in this enlightened age anything is possible.

Why not, when for only $2 you can buy a book which reveals "Ancient Concealed Knowledge and History's Most Guarded Secrets," or when for only a little larger cash outlay one can acquire a course in "Instant Memory"?

Jerry Brown for President?

EARL G. WATERS

Casting aside his airy aloofness from mundane matters, Gov. Jerry Brown has vaulted himself into the presidential hustings, not just as a favorite son but a full fledged contender.

In the doing he appears to be foregoing his "anti-politician" image which is the very thing that gained him national attention. It is a role which he played to the hilt, rejecting not only out of state bids but speechmaking at various events within the state which have been traditional with former governors. In all instances his reason was the press of duties.

So his sudden decision to leap into the California presidential primary, and perhaps some others, is not only contradictory but a direct renege on his campaign pledge to tend to the business of governor.

A host of other inconsistencies accompany the decision, not the least of which is his surprising turnabout in the matter of face to face debates. Studiously avoiding such confrontations in his campaign for governor he now says he is anxious for the widest possible discussions of issues with other candidates.

It may not have dawned upon him yet but there is much more at stake than his "anti-politician" image which is now sacrificed as he shows himself to be just another ambitious politician. First off the fiction of "enjoying wide popularity" will be put to the acid test. And, having elevated himself to national stature, his performance as governor will come under the close scrutiny of the nation's top newsmen and politicians. The reporters will be firing hard questions and will be far more demanding than those he has faced to date. And the big league politicians will be furnishing the ammunition.

He advances his new candidacy with the promise to put forth a program which he has termed "equal society". Chief among its planks will be full employment and conservation of natural resources. He says "I stand for a certain kind of government and philosophy." Californians are already familiar with his generalities. Throughout the gubernatorial campaign Brown talked of the "New Spirit" but none could pin him down on program. After more than a year in office, legislators are still not sure what his program is, if any.

He says "Based upon what I've done and based upon my philosophy, people can make up their minds?" But what is his philosophy and what has he done? Other than talking a good game of fiscal responsibility which has delighted moderates and conservatives while angering liberals, the record to date is quite blank. He can't even fullfil his responsibilities to make appointments and many board memberships and judicial posts have been vacant for more than a year.

True, he did make a Herculean effort to resolve the farm labor problem. But his solution has come a cropper and hangs in limbo. Likewise, his attempts at solving the medical malpractice crisis have led nowhere. As for most of the other major problems of state, there has been little or no visible effort. He has proposed nothing to the Legislature to ease unemployment, inflation or property taxes. He talks about crime but offers nothing.

His philosophy however does emerge as he seeks to revolutionize existing state agencies by transforming them, regardless of their statutory functions, into social reform and welfare operations. And also in his riding roughshod over the rights of the majority as he installs selected minorities into office thus practicing a form of discrimination that is worse than that which he is attempting to overcome.

Even in the area of fiscal management, where he is getting all the plaudits with his stand on no new taxes, the true record is that state taxes have been upped a billion dollars during his short time in office. He explains this away by stating he meant no new general taxes so the $600 million increase in unemployment taxes and the added corporation and other special taxes don't count.

It is not likely the national press will overlook his philosophy. Nor will it escape them that "what he has done" is nothing. And they will be quick to point out his limited experience in state government and total lack of it in national affairs. They may conclude Californians paid him $35,000 a year for four years to run for governor while serving as secretary of state and are now paying him $49,000 a year to run for president. They may also conclude one Californian as president was one too many. At 37 Brown would have been wiser to stick to his last and demonstrate by results his ability to serve as governor.

Even store agrees wait was too long

In April 1975 my cassette player-recorder broke down. I had purchased it from a chain department store. I took it to another branch of the same chain to be repaired.

Two months later someone called saying it had been repaired. I picked it up and paid $46 for the repair. When I got it home and tested it, it still sounded the way it did when I took it in to be fixed.

I took it back the following day and was told it would be repaired at no cost to me.

Two months went by with no word from the firm. When I telephoned, I was told that the cassette player had been sent to the wrong factory first but that it was now at the right place to repaired.

Another two months went by. I called again. This time the store was waiting for parts which had been ordered. Still another month went by and I called again. The people at the store said I would be called back. A few days later I received a card saying the parts were still on order and if I didn't want to wait any longer the factory would return my cassette player and an adjustment would be made of the repair fee I had paid.

I decided since the recorder was already at the factory and parts were ordered and I had already paid for the repair that it should not be much longer.

Well, another two months have gone by with no word from the department store. I would appreciate any help you can give me on this. —J.A., Chino.

The manager of the store where you took your cassette player for repairs said you were justified in feeling your problem had gone on much too long.

The card you received was sent by mistake, he told us.

He located an electronics man who could repair your set and paid him $69 to do so. He also refunded the $46 you had paid for the work. A representative of the store delivered the repaired set to you.

This is in reply to and support of the letter from R. K., Montclair, published March 12, regarding the faulty traffic signal.

Sometime in September or October 1975 in the afternoon during the rush hour I observed all the signals at the intersection of Holt Boulevard and Central Avenue on STEADY GREEN including all turn lanes. It was hectic going through the intersection because of the confusion.

I phoned the police station 15 to 20 minutes later and was told a police unit had been sent to direct traffic.

Also since that time I observed on numerous occasions the road department working on or testing the control unit for that intersection.

Perhaps Montclair's city engineer should check the maintenance and inspection records for that control unit because the "fail safe unit" was not working the date I observed it. —R.J., Claremont

R.K. wrote that she had seen several bad accidents on Central Avenue.

She thought each might have happened because a driver wasn't paying attention until she was driving toward Pomona on Holt Boulevard recently and noticed that all lights in every direction were green at Central Avenue.

She went home, phoned the police and was told an accident had just happened at the intersection.

She gave us the date and approximate time of the accident. We asked Carl Sawtelle, city engineer, to look into the matter.

He said the police report of the accident showed cars were running a red light and one driver was cited for that offense.

Also, he said that when traffic signals fail to function properly the fail-safe unit switches them to flashing.

We sent Sawtelle a copy of your letter in advance of publication as a possible contribution to public safety.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Tuesday, March 23, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Normally you're pretty good at zeroing-in on specific targets, but today you could spread your forces too thin.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't delegate responsibilities today to those who can't be relied upon. It could cause you needless problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will have difficulty today in getting one who is indebted to you to ante up, especially if you try pressure tactics.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your mate and others of your family may have to be handled with extra tact today. Bend a little to keep them pleased.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't expect co-workers today to do more than you're prepared to do yourself. Set a poor example, and they'll follow it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you purchase something today from a firm you've never dealt with before, make sure you can return it if necessary.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make an extra effort to fulfill promises that are now due. Reneging on them could hurt your image.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't do anything today against your better judgment just to even-up an old score. It will only complicate the issue.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes you can be too generous with the wrong people. This may be such a day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could be spending too much time and effort on goals you may be displeased with, once they're attained.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Others may find you hard to understand today because of your reluctance to express what's really disturbing you.

Your Birthday March 23

A course you'll choose this year may not be an easy one, but you'll know better than anyone else its true values. Don't let others who are unaware of its merits discourage you.

Ann Landers

Overeating much like alcoholism

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are in our mid-40s. We have plenty of money and will soon be by ourselves. Jean (fictitious name) has always had a weight problem, but kept it under control until two years ago. This past summer she put on so much excess poundage that she weighs at least one-third more than she ought to.

I have this thing about fat people. I think they are disgusting, weak-willed, self-indulgent and stupid. Fat kills and they ought to know it.

When I see Jean waddling around, out of breath, looking like a stuffed sausage in her expensive dresses (splitting at the seams), I well up with resentment. Our sex life is almost nil, because I just can't get turned on by a fat slob. Then I feel guilty.

I've discussed my feelings with Jean and suggested several self-help groups, but she always ends up crying and insists I should love her the way she is.

Does the woman have a disease, like alcoholism? Please help me see this thing in the proper light. — Turned Off And Guilty

Dear T.O.: Overeating is very much like alcoholism. Your wife hates being fat, but she has some severe psychological problems that keep her mouth working overtime.

Urge Jean to get a complete physical checkup (to rule out an organic problem), then suggest help for her head because that's probably where the problem originates.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a secretary in a large agency office. There are only four people here, two executives and two secretaries.

My problem is the other secretary. As I write this letter, she's been on the phone with her mother for 40 minutes and is still going strong.

Last Friday I kept track. She made 20 calls to friends and relatives. Our desks are fairly close and her constant gossiping and yakking distracts me no end.

The woman has seniority, which poses something of a problem. But I'm sure her boss has no idea of the extent to which she is taking advantage of him. I feel like "an accessory to the crime." Am I? What should I do? — Ding Dong Fed Up

Dear Ding: If there's a "crime" it has nothing to do with you. Finking, however, is something else. In order to fink, you have to be one. I don't recommend it.

"Motor-mouth" must be a super-efficient dame, if she can get her work done and spend so much time gabbing. I wonder how she does it.

Dear Ann: Our 19-year-old daughter was married (against our wishes) to a fellow I'll call Fred. He's in the Navy. I'm ashamed to say she has been running around and is now pregnant. The baby cannot possibly be Fred's, because she hasn't seen him in a year.

The girl is getting maternity care at the naval base here. It is my understanding that when the baby is born the Red Cross notifies the father. How can we spare him the shock of knowing his wife gave birth to a child that he will know isn't his? — More Gray Hairs

Dear Friend: Your daughter should write to Fred immediately and tell him the facts. When he returns, the two of them will decide whether or not they can make a life together. But Fred should be told about the baby at once — by her.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Joe Firman

Baseball season a ho-hummer

Well, now that baseball season is over, it's time we got down to the annual awards for those who have done the most to baseball.

I have been an avid baseball fan since I first saw Babe Ruth loft one into the right field bleachers of Yankee Stadium — and that was quite a few years ago. (I could almost have caught the homer except that I was 30 rows away and holding a hot dog and a Coke. The hot dog cost my Dad 10 cents and the Coke a nickle, so I didn't want to drop them.)

But all this spring training delay, the players' strike and the owners' lockout have dampened my ardor for the game, and I really don't care if they play a season or not. There's always girls' volleyball.

The overgrown Little Leaguers in jockey caps and knee britches are not, of course, dragging their cleats over such mundane things as salary. The play-for-pay boys are happy as a cat with a dish of cream. Did you know that the AVERAGE major league salary is $48,000 a year? Just for catching fly balls and beating out bunts. That's more than the average newspaper columnist makes!

Furthermore, a baseball player who retires after 10 years of sliding into second, draws $1,200 a month at the age of 55. Now 55 is not exactly the sunset trail, right? You don't qualify as a senior citizen. And while $14,000 is not what it was 10 years ago (or last year), still it's a nice little stipend to be rolling in with your Social Security checks.

Most major league players are satisfied with their salaries, not exactly foot soldiers in the war on poverty. What all the furor is about is freedom of choice the American (and National) way — the option to jump to whatever club will offer the biggest bonus. This would obviously lead to a bank-night bidding competition in which the best players would go to the richest team. For example, the New York Yankees might buy a pitcher like, say Catfish Hunter, thereby guaranteeing themselves the pennant.

To simplify the whole matter for those of you who have been dozing in front of What's My Line, the agents of the players want to be able to cast off their bonds every five or six years and offer their services to any team. But the legal representatives of the owners told the union negotiators that the emancipation proclamation should come only every 10 years, and the number of teams the player could offer to play for should be limited to the bottom three in each league. This is known as one-on-one, or hand-checking. But the lawyers for the players told the mediators' representatives that they were going to insist that the tax agents of the owners tell the press agents of the conciliators that the baseball players, whatever THEY are, want to renegotiate every two years, four months and 13 days, whichever comes first. All players declared free agents will be sold to the San Diego Padres.

I hope that's clear. If it is, explain it to me. The season will start on July 4 with Marvin Miller's All-Stars taking on Bowie Kuhn's Commandos in Puerto Rico.

The way things are going, the "Heidi" show will pre-empt the World Series and nobody will care.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am very worried about my 3-year-old son. He has a very bad sore throat. I took him to the doctor and he told me he has quinsy.

I would appreciate it if you would explain what that is and what causes it. The doctor told me my son inherited it from me. As a child I had frequent sore throats and weak tonsils. I try to take the best care of my children's health as I can.

My son became sick on Monday, and on Tuesday he was a little worse. He said his throat did not hurt. Then Wednesday morning he tried to eat his breakfast and he couldn't swallow, so I took him right over to the doctor. How can a child get that sick so fast and not complain? I feel very helpless and bewildered. I asked the doctor and he just said it was a bad sore throat and that he hadn't seen such a case in years.

DEAR READER — The term quinsy is used for the development of an abscess around the tonsil as a complication of a severe sore throat, usually a strep throat. The tissue around the tonsil area is fairly loose and an abscess can form and become quite large. It may produce severe swelling of the neck. Certainly it's enough to cause difficulty for a child in swallowing.

The usual nature of quinsy is to cause a sudden change in illness just as you described. The child may be getting along very well with an ordinary sore throat and then have a sudden marked swelling of the throat, difficulty in swallowing, fever and evidence of severe illness. Just keep in mind that it is simply an abscess and it is caused by an infection. It can be treated and it is not that dangerous today because of the treatments which are available.

This was once a dreaded and fairly frequent complication of strep throat but since strep throats are largely controlled today with antibiotics it is seldom seen. That's why your doctor said he hadn't seen such a case for years.

Your son did not inherit quinsy from you. It is an infection caused by bacteria. What your doctor probably meant was that your son inherited a tendency to throat infections which allowed him to get the sore throat to begin with. It is true that some people seem to be more resistant to infections than others but the exact reasons for this are not always clear.

For more information on sore throats and colds send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 3-1, The Cold, Flu Group. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

THERE IS a wide variety of questions, comments and other things in my mailbag. Recently I received a printed statement from one of the readers which was short, simple and full of wisdom. It read as follows, "Don't be afraid to ask stupid questions. They're a lot easier to handle than stupid mistakes."

I'm inclined to agree and such a philosophy is certainly important where health is concerned. A simple question can sometimes solve important problems that have far reaching effects on one's life and health.

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverbs such as 'second hand low' for some time."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. Thus, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play.

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Jim: "If East produces the king of hearts, South can run five clubs and then go after diamonds. This time a wrong guess will cost him his contract."

We have several more questions about the bonus honors in rubber and party bridge.

The answer is that it is awarded to the side of the player who holds the honors whether he is declarer, dummy or a defender.

7 cities have streetcars

How can you call yourself a traveler of great experience, if you can't name all seven of those American towns that still have streetcars? You know about Boston, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Newark, New Orleans and San Francisco, certainly. But did you leave out Shaker Heights, Ohio? Newest of the streetcars running the tracks these days is 23 years old. The record shows more than 1,800 are still going strong or otherwise.

HURRICANES

Hurricanes in the year 1800 were named by some of the record-keepers in honor of saints. More recently, they've been named after women. The lady libbers object, though. So a bureau in Australia this year identified the first hurricane of the season there as Alan, a masculine moniker if ever there were one. New trend maybe. Seniors choose artists

The annual Seniors' Choice Show of art and art history students at Scripps College will be made up of the works of five Mexican artists who had a profound effect on the art in their country and abroad.

"Artists of the Mexican Renaissance" will be held in the Clark Humanities Museum Friday to April 29. The public is invited to the opening night reception from 7 to 10 p.m. Regular gallery hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. on week days.

Paintings and graphics by Jose Clemente Orozco, Jean Charlot, Ramos Martinez, David Alfaro Siqueiros and Diego Rivera will be on display. The artists were educated in Mexico and Europe and worked for a time in the United States.

Martinez was painting the "Flower Vendors" mural in the Margaret Fowler Garden at Scripps at the time of his death in 1946. The fresco was never completed. A blow-up of one of the Martinez panels will be included in the Clark Museum show. One of Orozco's more famous murals, "Prometheus," was painted on the wall of Frary Hall at Pomona College in 1930.

A catalog of the "Artists of the Mexican Renaissance" exhibit is being produced by students who are organizing and arranging the show under the direction of senior Ann Matteson. Many of the drawings and paintings in the exhibit are on loan from individuals and from the B. Lewin Gallery of Beverly Hills, the Dalzell Hatfield Galleries of Los Angeles and from Zeitlin and Ver Brugge of Los Angeles.

DOROTHY HWANG

Pianist to give recital

Concert pianist Dorothy Kwang, professor of music at Azusa Pacific College, will present a recital in the college's lecture hall at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Admission is free.

The program will include Shubert's Sonata in B Flat Major; Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11 and Concert Etude in F Minor; and Ravel's "Gaspard de la Nuit."

Mrs. Hwang holds bachelor and master of music degrees in piano from USC where she taught for two years. She has given concerts throughout Southern California and the Far East and teaches the Suzuki piano program at Azusa Pacific.

Directors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Directional assignments

—Hal Ashby "Shampoo" will direct "Forever," the Mildred Cram novel which MGM has owned for 36 years.

—George Schaefer "Truman at Potsdam" has signed with Universal as director of the three-hour TV movie "Amelia," with Susan Clark as the missing flier Amelia Earhart.

Ferry boats in comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — After hitting a low of 140 in the late 1960s, ferry boats are making a comeback, according to Compass magazine.

MSAC offers exhibit

"Works by Six Artists," an exhibition of contemporary pieces done in unconventional materials, will open with a reception in the Mt. San Antonio College art gallery at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The reception and show are open to the public without charge.

Gerald Brane, Michael Cochran, Michael Dvortcsak, Laddie Dill and Tom Fricano will exhibit their creative use of unexpected media in the Main Gallery. Steve Seemayer's mixed media and unusual perspectives will be displayed in the West Gallery.

Gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Special showings may also be arranged with Gallery director Michael Preble.

News show slated

"The Esienhower-Kennedy Years," a group of Fox Movietone newsreels covering 1953-1964, will be shown in Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is $2.50.

This is the sixth and final showing in the series being put on by the Curtain Raisers, support group for Garrison.

The newsreels cover Eisenhower's election, a visit by Winston Churchill, Alaska and Hawaii becoming states, the rise of Fidel Castro and the Green Bay Packers beating the Los Angeles Rams.

ON YOUR MARK . . . GET SET. . .—Cal Poly students line up for an Evel Knievel-type jump in the children's fantasy, "The Hide-and-Seek Odyssey of Madeline Gimple." The comedy will be staged in the University Theater at 11 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday and at 1 p.m. Saturday. From left are Craig Marshall, Christie Schultz, Scott Kiphart, Joan Minich and Steve Fowler.

Organ recital set at Pomona church

Douglas Morehead, assistant professor of music at La Verne College, will present an organ recital at the First Christian Church, 1751 N. Park Ave., Pomona, at 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

Moorehead will play selections by Bach, Clerambault and Franck, and "When the Morning Stars Sang Together," a composition for electronic tape and organ by Daniel Pinkham.

Moorehead's principal teacher was Herbert Nanney, and he has had master classes with Catherine Crozier, Carl Weinrich and Flor Peeters. He taught at Contra Costa College and Stanford University, where he received his doctorate in musical arts. He is a member of the Pasadena chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Mehta switches to New York

TV star in new series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — McLean Stevenson, who quit "M-A-S-H" with the prospect of a musical series, will be doing a half-hour situation comedy instead.

Stevenson, who played Colonel Blake for three years, will star next season on NBC in "The Prime of Life," about a middle-aged businessman who is thwarted in his plans to retire early.

MRS. LEE BASHORE

Chapter elects officers

Mrs. Lee T. Bashore of Claremont has been re-elected to a second term as president of Chapter DV, PEO Sisterhood.

Other officers for the new year are: Mmes. Francis P. Rowlands, vice president; Oregon Smith, corresponding secretary; Robert Barry, treasurer; Lizabelle Schwenker, chaplain; and Alfred Dakin, guard.

Delegates to the state convention will be Mrs. Bashore and Mrs. Harold McGreight.

The chapter will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Zanin, Montclair, for a noon luncheon. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. N. G. Worsley and Mrs. L. A. Cline of Ontario.

"The Arts Today" will be the program of Mrs. A. L. Palmer of Upland.

April 10 nuptials charted

Miss Deanna Rae Keser of 4313 Francis St., Chino, and Joseph Melvin Rentz of 24033 Meadow Falls Drive, Diamond Bar, will be married on April 10 at the First United Methodist Church of Upland.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Raymond Keser of Chino and a 1975 graduate of Chino High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rentz of Diamond Bar, the groom-to-be is a 1974 graduate of Ganesha High School. He is employed by the Thrifty Corp.

Dental Society to meet

The Pomona Valley Dental Assistant Society will meet for a clinic session and dinner on Wednesday evening.

Dr. Robert H. Propper will discuss "Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery" at the meeting in the Arbor Restaurant, Upland.

Students from Chaffey College and Cora Harbushka will present clinic during the social hour at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be at 7:30 p.m.

Reservations are due by today and may be made by calling 593-1098 or 593-9609.

Christian Women to view fashions

The theme is "Wearing of the Green" for the Wednesday noon luncheon and fashion show of the Pomona Valley Christian Women's Club at Griswold's in Claremont.

Starting the meeting will be a fashion show by Fashion Boutique of Claremont. Special music will be presented by Beverly Maudy, vocalist.

The speaker will be Mrs. Marie Wiebe, a nurse and wife of a surgeon. Mrs. Wiebe grew up in China and later attended Kansas University. She now resides in Camarillo.

Mrs. Wiebe will talk about her mother's experiences in China before Mrs. Wiebe was born and also about her own recollections. She will compare "old" China and the present People's Republic.

The meeting is open to all women in the valley. Reservations are requested and should be made by today by calling 593-1254 or 986-4309. Free child care will be provided if the telephone chairmen are advised of the need when the reservation is made.

Hard to save

No matter what Poor Richard had to say about a penny saved being a penny earned, it's harder than ever to save money these days. While some gold-star savers manage a respectable reserve fund, the rest of us wonder where the money goes.

Luncheon set by PEO unit

Chapter PR, PEO Sisterhood, will meet Wednesday noon for a luncheon and program at the home of Mrs. John Burma, 114 Monterey Drive, Claremont.

Cohostesses are Mrs. Clarence Faust, Mrs. F. S. Moon, Mrs. David Brubaker and Mrs. K. J. Nowels.

Mr. and Mrs. Burma will present a program entitled "Pow-wows and Pueblos."

On Saturday, the chapter will hostess a guest day brunch at 11:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Henry Gallagher, 711 W. Ninth St., Claremont. Mrs. Lewis Smith and her committee will provide entertainment.

New officers elected at the last meeting are: Mmes. Willard Price, president; F. S. Dearborn, vice president; Fred Bruderlin, recording secretary; J. K. Garrison, corresponding secretary; Leslie Sayre, treasurer; D. R. Swanson, chaplain; Wayne R. Scherer, guard; George Rawlins, reciprocity representative; E. W. Weingartner and Price, delegate and alternate to convention; Burma and Weingartner, 1978 convention representative.

G.S. Mothers schedule luncheon

The Pomona Chapter of the American Gold Star Mothers will meet Wednesday noon for a luncheon at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 1700 E. First St., Pomona.

A musical program will be presented by Mrs. Evah Brownell after the luncheon.

Donations made for the luncheon will be used for the veterans hospital projects. Reservations may be made by calling 629-0429 or 984-3834.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS By Bil Keane

"If we ask you something will you say 'yes'?"

Miss Ketterman wed in chapel

MRS. LAWRENCE BROCKETT

The former Miss Diana Ketterman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Ketterman of Pomona. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brockett of Valinda.

Honor attendant was Kim Etherington of Walnut.

Other attendants were: Misses Gwen Osborn, Polly Lucas, and Kathy Williams, the flower girl was Barbara Etherington. The ushers were David White, Ed Godlewski and Michael Baughn.

Tone test

To choose the right tone of blusher or bronzer for your skin, look at your palms to determine your skin tone, or pinch your cheek to determine if your "flush" is tawny or pink or whatever.

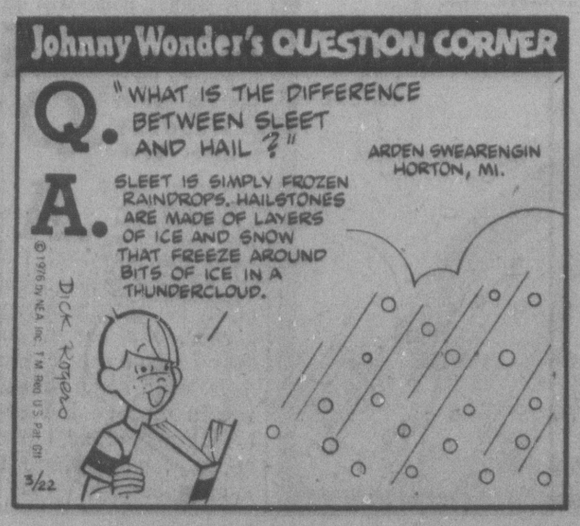
JOHNNY WONDER



A pellet of sleet and a hailstone may look very much alike, but there is a difference.

Sleet is simply rain or partly melted snow that freezes into hard beads of ice as it falls through freezing air on its way from the cloud to the ground.

Hail is formed differently than sleet. Hailstones start when raindrops formed in the lower part of a thundercloud are blown up to the colder top of the cloud where they freeze and are coated with snow.

As the bits of ice fall down through the cloud where more rain is forming, they are coated with more moisture. Again the wind flings them back up into the icy air.

Each time the hailstones rise and fall, new layers of ice and snow are added. Finally, the hailstones grow so heavy they fall to earth.

An easy way to tell if a lump of ice is hail or sleet is to split it in two. If it is made up of layers of ice it is hail. But if it is solid ice, it is probably sleet.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

New 'Enriched Flavor'™ discovery for 9 mg. tar MERIT achieves taste of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

The greatest challenge to cigarette-makers in recent years has been how to make a low tar cigarette with good taste.

Philip Morris succeeded.

The cigarette is called MERIT.

Yet MERIT delivers astonishing flavor.

Key Flavor Ingredients Of Tobacco Isolated

By isolating certain "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have developed a way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through for you.

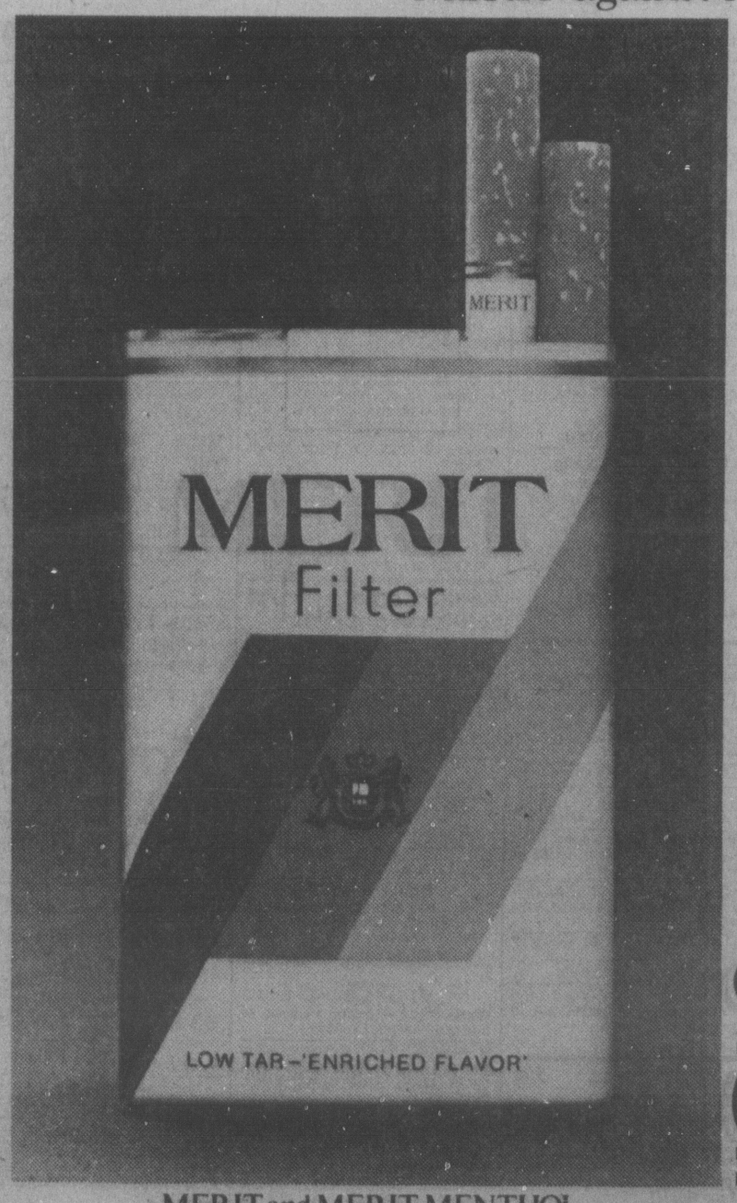
© Philip Morris Inc. 1976



MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Taste-Tested By People Like You

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

Shriver quits on eve of N.C. primary

By MICHAEL J. HALL
Associated Press Writer

R. Sargent Shriver officially dropped out of the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination today on the eve of the North Carolina primary which could be crucial for fellow Democrat George C. Wallace and Republican Ronald Reagan.

President Ford and Jimmy Carter, the apparent front-runners, looked ahead to future races while Wallace and Reagan blitzed North Carolina for votes, hoping Tuesday would bring their first primary victories.

The withdrawal by Shriver, who already had said he would curtail his campaign after poor showings in earlier primaries, leaves seven major Democratic candidates.

Five of them — Carter, Wallace, Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris — are trying for some of North Carolina's 61 convention delegates. Only southerners Wallace and Carter campaigned heavily there, however.

In another campaign development, the Federal Election Commission was scheduled to meet in Washington to certify a final $1 million to presidential candidates. Its authority to give out matching federal funds expires at midnight under a Supreme Court order.

Shriver had said earlier he would limit his efforts to Texas' May 1 primary and Maryland's May 8 contest. He said today he would remove his name from the ballot in Maryland, but would not formally withdraw from the Texas contest out of consideration for delegates there. He said that those delegates will not be bound to vote for him and said he was releasing the 11 national convention delegates he already won.

The 1972 Democratic vice presidential candidate, who finished third in last week's Illinois primary, said he will spend a week or so vacationing and then is likely to endorse another candidate.

"We have not yet by any means seen all the characters who will appear in the play," Shriver said. He generally declined comment on the other candidates, but said Wallace was the only one he could not support. He also said at his Washington, D.C., news conference that he thinks Carter will be "hard to stop."

Wallace lost to Carter in Florida and Illinois, but finished ahead of the former Georgia governor in Massachusetts. He won the 1972 North Carolina primary and, discussing the 1976 contest at a Charlotte news conference today, said: "I think we have a chance. In 1972 we sort of slipped up in North Carolina on the group that was opposed to us. This time they are a little better organized."

Ford spent some time over the weekend in North Carolina and aides said after he left that they are confident of a sixth straight victory

Jurors on Patty: she never tried to escape

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Many of the jurors who convicted newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst of bank robbery say they wanted to believe she was innocent, but couldn't accept her story because she never tried to escape from her terrorist captors.

Juror Norman Grim, 43, a mechanic from San Mateo, said she not only did not try to escape, but she gave no indication of wanting any help in gaining freedom.

He added in an interview with the San Francisco Chronicle:

"And one month after she was in the bank, holding it up, she was in Los Angeles, capable of firing guns at Mel's Sporting Goods Store. She did it solo. No one was around her. No one forced her to do it."

Miss Hearst faces up to 25 years in prison for the convictions, and another trial on more serious charges. Sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter is scheduled for April 19. He said Sunday that the maximum penalty he would consider would be 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for armed bank robbery. In addition to the bank robbery charge, she was convicted of carrying a weapon in the commission of a felony.

Carter said that the federal government would turn her over to authorities in Los Angeles for arraignment on state kidnaping, assault and robbery charges within the week. If convicted on those charges, which stem from a crime spree a month after the bank robbery here, she could be sentenced to life in prison.

Evidence presented by the government to show that the kidnaped newspaper heiress willingly embraced the terrorism of her captors outweighed her testimony that she cooperated with them to save her life, jurors said.

"I don't think it was any particular thing at all that led to our finding her guilty," said Marilyn Wentz, a member of the panel of seven women and five men that found Miss Hearst guilty of armed bank robbery Saturday after 12 hours of deliberation. "I think it was a combination of all the evidence."

Mrs. Wentz, 36, a dental assistant and mother of four from Hayward, Calif., said in an interview Sunday night, "I know I went over it, and over it — everything — before deciding."

She said she thought that both the prosecutor, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., and chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey "did a very good job in presenting the case."

Another juror said the ordeal of deliberations was so intense that some members of the panel wept and others became sick to their stomachs.

A juror quoted in The New York Times, who asked to remain anonymous, rejected Miss Hearst's statement — through one of her lawyers — that she never had a chance for acquittal.

"For her to say, 'I never had a chance' — are you kidding. She was given an incredible chance, every chance in the world. Every single one of us would rather have acquitted her."

Another juror quoted by The New York Times, who also asked to remain unidentified, said:

"Everyone of us wanted to believe she was innocent because of the conditions, the kidnaping I mean, and when she was first on the witness stand, everyone's heart went out to her. How could you help it. We felt overwhelming sympathy for her, but then, at some point in everybody's mind, the sympathy was outweighed by the evidence.'

VLADIMIR SABICH

Williams' ex out on bail in skier's death

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Accompanied by her ex-husband Andy Williams, a weeping Claudine Longet appeared in court today in connection with the shooting death of professional skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Miss Longet, an actress and singer, was told her rights and released on $5,000 personal recognizance bond. She left the court in tears.

Miss Longet was freed pending a court appearance April 8 at which Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said he would file formal charges.

Colorado law allows holding a suspect for "investigation of" an alleged offense until the investigation of a crime is complete and the district attorney files formal charges.

Tucker said Miss Longet was held initially for investigation of criminally negligent homicide to allow her to be advised of her rights in the court hearing. Tucker said he did not know what charge would be filed April 8, but criminally negligent homicide was "probable."

Tucker refused to comment on a statement attributed to City Manager Philip Mahoney. Mahoney reportedly said that Miss Longet told police after the shooting that Sabich was showing her how to hold a handgun when it discharged accidentally.

In the courtroom with Miss Longet was singer Williams, from whom she was divorced last year. He stood to the rear of the courtroom while she was advised of her rights by Pitkin District Court Judge John Wendt.

Tucker said Sabich died at his home in an exclusive subdivision near this Rocky Mountain ski resort town. Cause of death was a shot fired from a handgun.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Williams, the county coroner, said Sabich, 31, had been shot in the abdomen. He was taken to the Aspen Valley Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after 5 p.m.

Burns urges 'modest' wage-price restraints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board urged Congress today to consider a policy permitting a "modest delay" in important wage and price increases.

Burns said he was not calling for renewal of mandatory wage and price controls, which were put in effect in 1971 and phased out eventually.

Burns made the remarks in testimony prepared for the Senate Budget Committee.

He also suggested that Congress consider measures to increase tax incentives for business investment, to delay timetables for achieving the nation's environmental and safety goals, to encourage price competition by business, and to review labor policies, such as the minimum wage law and income maintenance programs, which he said may be helping to keep unemployment high.

Of the past wage and price control program, Burns said, "Recent experience has emphastically demonstrated that lasting benefits cannot be expected from comprehensive or mandatory wage and price controls."

"However," he added, "a policy that would permit a modest delay of key wage or price increases, thus providing an opportunity for quiet governmental intervention or for public hearings and the mobilization of public opinion, may yet be of significant benefit in reducing abuses of private economic power . . ."

He said a limited-incomes policy also could help move the nation toward full employment and stable prices.

The Federal Reserve chairman also told the committee that recovery from recession is proceeding satisfactorily.

"As the recovery has proceeded, the state of confidence has improved, and significant further increases in production and employment can be expected over the remainder of this year," he said.

But he also said the nation is faced with a "serious dilemma" in finding new jobs for the 7 million Americans who remain unemployed, while guarding against a new out-break of serious inflation.

"The menace of inflation is by no means behind us," Burns said.

Whew! 87

There was good reason Sunday to feel that summer came to the valley prematurely.

The mercury soared to 87 degrees during the afternoon, an all time high for a March 21, according to the records of the National Weather Service, bettering a record of 85.9 degrees set in 1960.

The weather is expected to remain fair today and Tuesday but predictions call for slightly lower temperatures.

Valley accidents claim three lives

Two local men were killed in separate traffic accidents in the valley over the weekend and a small girl died of injuries suffered in an earlier accident.

The victims were Daniel Paul Tiffany, 27, of 327 E. Sixth St., Ontario; Bernard Oswald King, 20, of 1999 Arthur St., Pomona; and 12-year-old Hang Thu Dang of 815 N. Vineyard Ave., Ontario.

Tiffany died at Pomona Valley Community Hospital early Sunday morning, a few hours after being thrown from a car on the connecting ramp between Interstate 210 and the San Bernardino Freeway near Pomona.

Tiffany, the driver, Roscoe D. Killinger, 22, of Rialto; and another passenger, Roy A. Killinger, 22, of 9990 Ramona Ave., Montclair, were thrown from the car when it failed to negotiate a sweeping curve.

The highway patrol reported that the car came around the curve at a high speed, spun and hit a curb, then rolled over several times, ejecting the three men.

They were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Roscoe Killinger was treated and released, and Roy Killinger was transferred to San Bernardino County Hospital after treatment.

King was killed and his passenger injured Sunday night when their pickup truck slammed into the rear of a truck and trailer parked on Towne Avenue south of Grove Street in Pomona.

The passenger, Dennis V. Crosby, 19, 1190 Pavilion Drive, Pomona, suffered a broken ankle and facial injuries. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and transferred to County-USC Medical Center where his condition today was termed fair.

The pair was southbound on Towne Avenue when their pickup ran into the rear of a 56-foot-long truck-trailer rig. Their vehicle was a total loss but the flatbed trailer they hit sustained only minor damage.

Police reported that Crosby told them he and King had been drinking beer as they drove around prior to the accident. They quoted him as saying he believes that King was either looking at him or adjusting the stereo controls in the vehicle just before the crash.

Police said the truck and trailer, belonging to BHY Trucking Inc. of El Monte, had been parked properly by James Vincent, 36, of Lynwood.

King was the sixth person killed in traffic on Pomona streets this year.

The 12-year-old Vietnamese girl was injured in a traffic accident March 8 in Ontario. She died Sunday afternoon at Ontario Community Hospital.

Miss Dang's older sister, Thuy Dang, 15, remains in critical condition at the Ontario hospital with injuries suffered in the same accident about 7 p.m. on March 8 in front of the Vineyard Avenue home.

Police said the two girls were crossing the street in front of their home when a car driven by Paul Geiger Jr., 28, of Fontana passed a stopped car and hit them.

In light of Patty's conviction

Harrises may change plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emily Harris says she and her husband, William, are "re-evaluating" their defense against felony charges here in light of Patricia Hearst's bank robbery conviction.

The Harrises, indicted with Miss Hearst in an alleged 1974 crime spree, also said Sunday they feel "sad" about the verdict in San Francisco because now Miss Hearst "has no one."

The newspaper heiress' conviction Saturday will "make it a lot different," said Mrs. Harris, referring to the defense for her and her husband. She did not elaborate.

Miss Hearst probably will be brought here sometime this week to face the ll felony charges against her and the Harrises, authorities said.

In San Francisco, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning, who prosecuted Miss Hearst, said Sunday she would be available for transfer "probably by midweek" after she meets with a federal probation officer prior to her April 19 sentencing.

The charges, including robbery, assault and kidnaping, stem from an alleged shootout at an Inglewood sporting goods store in May 1974.

Although she said she was sorry to see Miss Hearst convicted, Mrs. Harris said she took some satisfaction in the verdict.

"Her defense was not only designed for her acquittal but to discredit revolutionaries," Mrs. Harris said. She added the verdict "kind of shows she wasn't telling the truth. There's a satisfaction, kind of, in that, but ... she's just literally destroyed herself."

Miss Hearst's chief defense attorney, F. Lee Bailey, had maintained that the Harrises and other Symbionese Liberation Army members had brainwashed Miss Hearst and forced her to take part in the April 1974 Hibernia Bank robbery in San Francisco and subsequent crimes.

Although Mrs. Harris said "it will be hard to work with her," she added that she and her husband will still seek a joint trial with Miss Hearst.

Bailey has said he wants a separate trial for his client.

The defense claim of brainwashing could not, juror Grim said, cover "all those things" she did.

"It is possible, I imagine, for a person to be coerced," he said, "but I don't believe it is possible for someone to be coerced all that time."

Grim could not understand why Miss Hearst failed to telephone her parents or others and ask for help during the time she lived apart from William and Emily Harris, the Symbionese Liberation Army members of whom the defendant claimed to be deathly afraid.

Grim said he was "influenced" to return the guilty verdicts by the weaponry found in the apartment in which Miss Hearst was arrested last September. Automatic guns and ammunition were found in a closet, and Miss Hearst herself was toting a loaded revolver in her handbag.

Regarding the defense psychiatrist's testimony that terror of her captors virtually paralyzed the defendant's freedom of will and action, Grim said the jury "went by the judge's instruction he told us it was not fact but opinion."

He said he found it significant that in the first tape issued by the SLA following the Feb. 4, 1974, kidnaping "she (Miss Hearst) was pleading with her parents, asking for help, but by the time the April 3 tape was made, the tone of her voice had changed and she was saying those weren't really bad people and she had decided to join them and take the name 'Tania.'"

Grim said he couldn't believe "she was under coercion then."

Juror Wentz, wife of a Hayward carpenter, said she thought the verdict "very fair and very just" and she wished that if she were on trial she would have a jury as "intelligent" as the Hearst panel.

The guilty verdict was the only verdict that could be reached, said juror Philip F. Crabbe II, 35, of Oakland.

"We weren't happy to do it, but it was the only verdict. I am not dissatisfied with it."

He was heavily swayed by Miss Hearst's refusal to talk about what had happened during the year she lived underground with the SLA, and her 42-time use of the Fifth Amendment to keep silent about the period.

Several jurors quoted in the Times said they reached their decisions on Miss Hearst's guilt independently. Said one juror, "I thought I was the only one who didn't believe her. I thought I was the only one with doubts, the only one without enough sympathy."

Another juror added that when he learned the other jurors felt the same way: "I just couldn't believe it. I was shocked."

Still another juror said: "Once it was clear which way the majority felt, the people in the minority had the obligation to talk about what stuck in their mind."

THEY ESCAPED

Two Dallas, Tex., teenagers narrowly escpaed death Sunday night when their car crashed into a utility pole in Dallas and caught on fire. One youth is in the hospital in serious condition, and the other escaped, shaken and bruised. Police said they chased the youths at speeds up to 100 miles an hour before the crash.

Pilot nearly falls in guard dogs' den

PUYALLUP, Wash. (AP) — Pilot Leonard Aikins thought he was out of danger when he parachuted from his out-of-control plane Sunday. Then he looked down.

"I almost landed in a yard of guard dogs," he said. "There must have been a thousand of these dogs just slavering for a meal."

Aikins was carrying four skydivers from the Thun Field Sky Diving Club. One jumped without incident early in the flight.

Then the three were to jump together, and Julie Barnson, 19, of Puyallup, and two others were on the plane's wing waiting to jump.

"Julie got out," Aikins explained. But a pin on the chute was caught and a moment later her main chute opened — the fabric whipping around the tail assembly of the Cessna 180 and partially pulling a section of the tail loose.

"Her body then went under the plane," Aikins said. He said the mishap sent the plane out of control but soon the parachute itself blew free and the young woman descended unhurt.

"The wind hit the parachute and pulled me right off," she said. "I wasn't even aware I hit the plane."

With the damaged plane at about 10,000 feet, Aikins ordered everybody to jump. They did, and he quickly followed suit.

"You know, I've made about 1,400 jumps in my life," he said. "But I wasn't counting on making No. 1,401 today."

The plane crashed near Thun Field in Pierce County.

KING KONG LIVES

Carmen Nigro, 71, is framed by King Kong posters as he admires his costume-of-old in his Chicago surburban Cicero home. Nigro, who can still mimic the shuffle of an ape, is alive, well, and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

'Hollywood Apeman' happy as guard

CHICAGO (AP) — King Kong is alive, well and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

"It was me in my gorilla suit up on top of the Empire State Building, clutching Fay Wray in one hand or putting her gently on a ledge and knocking down attacking planes until the bullets got me," says Carmen Nigro, recalling the memorable, final scene of the 1933 movie classic, King Kong.

"Of course, what I was on was an eight-foot model on the RKO stage with a backdrop of New York City," said the man who was known for 25 years as the Hollywood Apeman.

"Fay Wray was an animated doll. Planes were projected on the backdrop. There were a few little gasoline-powered planes hooked on wires that were aimed around me. I wore furcovered ballet slippers with rubber suction pads on the bottom. I looked 50 feet tall."

Nigro, whose professional name was Ken Roady, is a lively 71-year-old who still can mimic the shuffle of an ape. He appeared as a stuntman in about 100 movies and played a gorilla in 33 others.

A barrel-chested 5-foot-6, Nigro was the hairy beast in Mighty Joe Young, The Unholy Three, Tarzan and His Mate, Night of Horror and Ape Man Nabonga. His last gorilla movie was Gorilla At Large in 1954.

Nigro said he studied the way an ape moves when he accompanied the late Frank Buck, the animal collector, on two jungle trips.

"I was ready when I heard RKO was looking for a gorilla man in 1931 to play the title role of King Kong," said Nigro. "I had to beat out a couple of other guys. I was the most realistic and besides I paid $3,500 to have a gorilla suit made out of six bear skins. I still have it at home but it's in pretty bad shape now.

"The hardest part of the job was withstanding the heat buildup inside the suit. I'd have to take the head off every 10 minutes to get my breath. Over the years I wore out eight Kong heads and 10 sets of arms and extension hands."

For his part as King Kong, one of the most famous roles in movie history, Nigro said he was paid $7,500, "and when you deduct the cost of the costume, I netted only $4,000."

Nigro now lives in a small apartment in Cicero, a Chicago suburb. He says producers would not let him use the name King Kong in the girl-and-gorilla acts he took across the country. He also worked as a dining car cook on the Sante Fe Railroad, finally became a chef and retired in 1970 after 32 years of service. He said he gets no money when King Kong or some of the other old movies he appeared in are on television.

They are remaking King Kong now in Hollywood, but Nigro says he is through with gorillas. "I'm just happy being a security guard and having my memories," he said.

All ostomates, doctors, nurses, enterostomal therapists, social workers, and all others interested are invited to attend free of charge, president Alan Dodd announced. Refreshments will be served.

Representatives of national ostomy manufacturers and local pharmacies are scheduled to show, demonstrate and explain their newest ostomy appliances and supplies. Samples and literature will be available.

President Dodd of Pomona says the meetings of the local chapter of the United Ostomy Association are open to the public every fourth Tuesday of the month. Members are those who have had colostomy, ileostomy or urostomy surgery. The chapter now has over 90 members.

Windstorms leave trail of death, destruction

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes were blamed for several deaths in the Midwest and South Saturday and early Sunday. Then a line of furious storms accompanied a sharp cold front into the Northeast, putting a quick end to the Junelike temperatures that ushered spring into that area.

The mercury plunged 20 degrees between noon and 3 p.m. in Washington and 10 degrees in a half-hour in New York City. A tornado-like storm was reported in New Jersey, where funnel clouds are rare.

Large chunks of glass showered to the street near midManhattan's Pennsylvania Station when some windows on a skyscraper shattered. A number of autos were crushed by falling trees in Washington.

And a tornado killed Thomas Maculley, 14, of New Castle, Del. He was on a fishing trip and had sought shelter in a portable toilet which overturned. Ten persons also were hurt when a roof collapsed at the Mother Union American Methodist Episcopal Church in Wilmington, Del.

"The wind just lifted it (the roof) off all in one piece, like a piece of paper," said fire fighter Stewart McLaughlin.

Meanwhile, Kilbourne, La., was picking up after a tornado touched down Saturday night. Twenty-two of the town's 340 persons were injured, two seriously. Sixteen other twisters were seen. Three churches were severely damaged, the town's water storage tank flattened and electrical and telephone service knocked out. Seven homes were destroyed and 29 damaged, and four businesses damaged or destroyed. The recreation center, post office and town hall were flattened.

In Mississippi, Rex Johnson, about 40, was killed when a tornado destroyed his trailer home in Dancy. Tornadoes, high winds and hail were accompanied by up to 2½ inches of rain.

Alabama Civil Defense officials said they probably would recommend that the state seek federal disaster aid. Forty persons were injured and authorities put damage estimates at $1.25 million. There were at least two tornadoes and a number of heavy thunderstorms.

In Illinois' Champaign County, a tornado caused more than $2.5 million in damage and left three persons hospitalized on Saturday. In Sadorus, 13 homes and seven mobile dwellings were destroyed and about 15 other houses and mobile homes severely damaged. In Odgen, a grain elevator, the fire station, a bank and some homes were damaged.

Tornadoes left two persons dead in Michigan and at least 40 injured Saturday night. In one mile-long path through West Bloomfield Township in Oakland County, about 50 homes were demolished or heavily damaged and at least a dozen business establishments hit. A motor home was flung through the window of a bank.

When she saw the tornado coming, Anna Sarkisian of West Bloomfield Township huddled inside a bedroom closet. "I didn't hear anything," she said. "But I knew something was going to fall on my head. When I came out, I saw the sky from my bedroom."

Heavy artillery fighting in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem and Christian militias fought the heaviest artillery battle of the 11-month-old Lebanese civil war Sunday night and today across Beirut.

More than 1,200 rockets, mortar rounds and artillery shells were fired between 4 p.m. and midnight Sunday, "an all-time record for Beirut," a police pokesman said.

The heavy firing continued this morning, and explosions shook the city and resort areas in the mountains behind the capital.

One shell hit the French Consulate, seriously wounding Vice-Consul Guy Barioulet and slightly wounding Andre Ringard, an attache at the French Embassy. Another shell damaged the French ambassador's car, while several rounds landed within 200 yards of the U.S. Embassy.

The escalation followed the capture Sunday of the 25-story seaside Holiday Inn by leftist Moslems of the Nasserite Ambusher militia. More than 40 persons were reported killed in the fighting for the gutted hotel, which had been a strongpoint for the right-wing Christian Phalangists for six months.

The Phalangists launched an early morning attack to retake the building, and the Phalangist radio claimed the Moslems had been driven out. But leftist leaders said their forces had driven the Christian attackers back to a basement across the street from the hotel.

Scores of rounds landed in the European residential district of Rouche, in westernmost Beirut, an area untouched by the previous fighting in the civil war. Many diplomats and foreign reporters shifted their offices and residences to the district late last year because it was considered a safe zone.

On the political front, the Phalange Party said Christian President Suleiman Franjieh was expected to announce a plan for his resignation within hours.

The 65-year-old Franjieh, holed up in the presidential palace on a hilltop five miles east of Beirut, has defied scores of military threats to bomb him out since the Moslem commander of the Beirut garrison, Brig. Aziz Ahdab, proclaimed himself provisional military governor of Lebanon 10 days ago.

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourteen years after her death, Marilyn Monroe is quoted as saying she was "hooked on sex" and her image as a sex goddess became a burden to her — "an albatross."

"There was a period when I responded too much to flattery and slept around too much, thinking it would help my career, though I always liked the guy at the time," she is quoted as saying in a book being excerpted in the April issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

British journalist William J. Weatherby, who says he interviewed Miss Monroe between 1960 and 1962, the year she died, quotes her:

"My body turned all these people on like turning an electric light, and there was rarely anything human in it.

"Marilyn Monroe became a burden, a what-you-call-it? — an albatross. People expected so much of me I sometimes hated them."

Weatherby also says Miss Monroe told him, "I was never kept, I always kept myself. . . . I sometimes felt I was hooked on sex the way an alcoholic is on liquor or a junkie on dope.

Weatherby quotes Miss Monroe as saying she was having an affair with a Washington politician whom she never identified. "Only problem is, he's married right now and he's famous, so we have to meet in secret," she is quoted as saying.

5 shot, wounded; 15-year-old held

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Five persons were shot and wounded, one seriously, at a church Sunday. Police said they had a 15-year-old boy in custody and were seeking another teen-ager.

Police said the incident apparently was touched off by racial slurs exchanged between two black youths and two white youths outside the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Four of the shooting victims were listed in good condition or were released. The fifth, Dellwin Thomas, 36, was reported in serious but stable condition at Memorial Hospital with a chest wound. All were church members.

At least 100 persons were inside the church when the shooting erupted shortly before 10 a.m., according to Charles Taylor, a church bishop. Taylor said he was in another part of the building when "someone told me there was a fight out front.

Police gave this account:

Witnesses said two white youths, identified as Gary Holt, 18, and Randy Cason, 17, were standing outside the Mormon church when they saw two black youths hitch-hiking on the other side of the street. One of the whites thought he recognized one of the blacks and called to him, but the blacks, misunderstanding, shouted back, witnesses said.

The exchange turned into racial slurs and the four youths then scuffled, police said. One of the black youths, an unidentified 18-year-old, threw a large rock at Holt and struck him in the back.

The two blacks then left, but one returned a few minutes later and again exchanged heated remarks with the two whites, who then were standing with a large group of churchgoers.

The black drew a .22-caliber revolver and fired a shot over the heads of the group, then fired repeatedly into the crowd while standing inside or near the front door of the church.

The youth then fled into a housing project and was caught by pursuing church members and a policeman.

The 15-year-old was being held at the Maricopa County Juvenile Detention Center for investigation of five juvenile charges of assault with intent to commit murder, officers said.

The second black youth was still being sought, police said.

Spotlight on area crime

Ex-girlfriend target of Ontario shooting

A 15-year-old Ontario youth was in custody of juvenile authorities this morning after allegedly firing a shot at his former girlfriend in the 900 block of Cucamonga Avenue in Ontario Sunday evening.

The youth, according to police reports, earlier in the evening saw his former girlfriend with another 16-year-old youth. The youth started a fight with the other youth and was wrestled to the ground. The youth left for a short time and returned to his former girlfriend. He called the 16-year-old outside.

Police said the youth had a short barrelled revolver and as the girl and her friend came out of the house he fired a shot in their direction saying, "I'm gonna plug them both."

Group shot at

A group of youths, armed with a handgun or rifle, fired several shots at another group of youths at De Anza Park in Ontario while shouting "Chino Rifa," ONTARIO police reported.

None of the youths in the park were injured but two cars were damaged by bullets. One car had its windshield and side window damaged and the other its side panel punctured by the bullets.

The youths firing the weapon were riding in a 1973 beige or light blue 1973 Chevrolet pickup truck. Police said their were three youths in the cab and four or five in the bed of the truck, police said.

Coed molested

A coed was molested sexually Saturday night by a man who grabbed her, threatened her and then attacked her at 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue at the CLAREMONT Colleges.

The victim, 21, told police she was walking north on Dartmouth, looking for the address of a party, when she was grabbed from behind and thrown into a patch of ivy near a two-story apartment building. She said the man pressed a sharp object to her throat and warned her not to scream. Later he released her.

The victim obtained treatment at the colleges' Baxter Medical Building.

The man was a black, 5 feet 9 with a short afro hairdo. He wore a white T shirt but the victim could not tell officers what other type of clothing he wore.

Mills brothers are honored at Smithsonian

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was nostalgia night at the Smithsonian and the institution's 750-seat Baird auditorium was crowded to capacity or beyond to hear the Mills brothers sing their old favorites.

Perhaps half the audience was middle aged or older but there also was a generous turnout of persons in their 30s and younger.

Herbert, Harry and Donald Mills recently celebrated their 50th anniversary in the entertainment business. They have recorded at least 1,264 songs, including "Paper Doll," which has sold more than six million copies.

B.C. May, production manager for the Smithsonian's performing arts division, said in introducing them that "no other vocal group in the history of popular music has been as important as this group. For 25 per cent of the history of the Republic, they have been a living legend."

Julian Euell, assistant secretary of the institution, presented each of the three with a certificate, saying the agency was a government institution but "you guys — you gentlemen — are also an institution that is just as great."

Herbert Mills, who introduced most of the numbers, said with a note of proide that he and his brothers have sold more records than anyone in the history of record making.

The brothers started public appearances when they were 10, 12 and 13 years old with their older brother, John Jr., who died at the age of 25. Their father, John Mills Sr., a one-time concert singer and professional barber, replaced him and sang with the group until about 20 years ago when he retired.

Since then the group has been a trio. They still perform four to six months of every year and travel extensively here and abroad.

The numbers which received the loudest appiause all dated from the 1920s: "Bye, Bye Blackbird," which was recorded in 1928, "Basin Street Blues," on which they mimic muted trumphets and trombones, and "Lazy River."

The brothers received several standing ovations and were called back for two encores. They were accompanied by a local band.

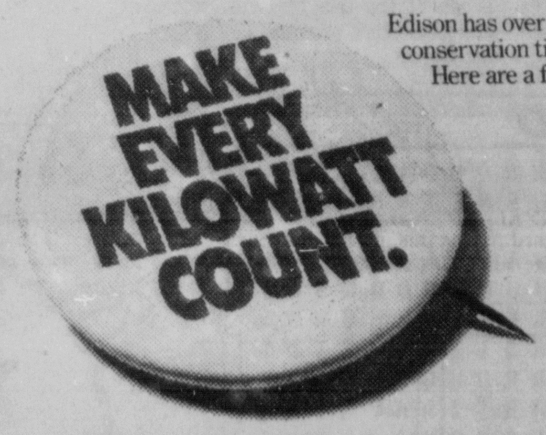
Thailand listening post ends

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States began dismantling its big radio listening post in northeast Thailand today following the Thai government's weekend decision that all but 270 of the 4,000 American military personnel in Thailand must leave the country within four months.

Thousands of leftist students marched on the U.S. Embassy Sunday for an anti-American demonstration. A bomb thrown into the procession along the way killed four students and wounded more than 80.

Representatives of 18 rightist groups in favor of the U.S. military presence broke into the headquarters of the National Student Center of Thailand (NSCT), smashed furniture and broke windows. They also demanded that Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj "suppress Communists," investigate Soviet spying in Thailand and arrest a top leftist student leader.

Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here are a few.



EASY WAYS TO SAVE MONEY.

Use your appliances wisely.

Two years ago, just about everyone realized our nation had energy problems. Today, some people aren't sure those problems still exist.

They do. Our country's energy problems are still very real. And the imported low-sulphur fuel oil required for generating electricity is extremely expensive. So, it makes sense to save our country's energy. And our energy-saving suggestions can save you money, too.

Don't forget to turn off the TV. Even if you just plan to be out of the room for a short time, shut off the television. It only takes a second to turn it back on.

If you own two TV's, get the family in front of one as often as possible. No sense having the same program on two sets.

Also, if your television has the "instant-on" feature, pull the plug when you're done watching. That saves energy, too.

How to cut kilowatts with other appliances. ☐ A 40-watt fluorescent lamp will produce more light than a 100-watt incandescent bulb, and costs you less for energy. But whatever kind of light you use, don't forget to turn it off when not in use.

☐ In your washer and dryer, launder only full loads. And you can use warm water instead of hot for almost all your clothes.

☐ Unless you have a dishwasher, you generally don't need the 140°-150° setting on your water heater. Often you can use an energy-saving 110°-120°.

☐ Normally, it takes less hot water for a shower than a bath. If you take a shower, make it a short one. Or use less water if you take a bath.

☐ Repair leaky faucets. Wasting water wastes the energy to pump it to your home. And hot water wastes even more, the energy used to heat it.

☐ Avoid opening your refrigerator or freezer unnecessarily. Instead, remove the items you need at one time.

Saudi women: still an eternity from liberation

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Nabila, a Saudi woman who lived nine years in the United States with her Western-educated husband, is now back in Riyadh, veiled and not allowed to go out by herself. Her husband has taken a second wife who lives in the house with them.

Another attractive young woman who recently returned to Saudi Arabia after being educated in Beirut, Lebanon, says:

"Some girls go abroad and their experiences don't change them. They are satisfied. They feel a strong sense of honor and compatibility with Islam. I wish I were like them. I envy them. But it is hard for me to be like that. I regret I was abroad because of the conflicts I feel within myself."

These are two of the women of Saudi Arabia today, tightly bound by the strict Islamic laws and traditions that govern this country, but strongly affected by outside influences affecting the conservative social structure of the country.

There is still no talk of women's liberation here, however.

Females have few legal rights.

Women here are not allowed to drive and cannot obtain a passport or go abroad without the written consent of a male family member.

Schooling remains strongly segregated. The King Abdul Aziz University in Jiddah offers courses for both men and women. But males go to class in the morning and females in the late afternoon or evening. Male instructors are not permitted in the same classrooms with the girls. Their lectures must be presented via closed-circuit television.

Of the 5,000 Saudi students studying abroad, more than 95 per cent are men. It is nearly impossible for a girl to get a scholarship to study because of family and social pressures.

Last year the prestigious University of Petroleum and Minerals in Dharan received 200 applications for admission by women. All were turned down.

Arranged marriages are still the rule and many men, when asked how many children they have, automatically give the number of sons.

Veils are slowly disappearing, but few Saudi women venture out into public places without an abaya, a long, usually black cloak that covers the head and body to the feet.

A double standard has emerged. Foreign women who have accompanied their working husbands to Saudi Arabia now can be seen unescorted in public places or with other foreign women, their legs carefully covered by long pants.

This is painfully obvious to many Saudis, but few Saudi women would yet venture into public places without a family male escort and an abaya. At a well-known pizza restaurant here, popular with young people for late-night snacks, foreign women drift in. But Saudi girls, who come with a driver, wait in the car for a waiter to bring out their order.

Until last year government jobs were closed to women. But since the assassination of King Feisal last March, Crown Prince Fahd has allowed the employment of women as long as it is done unobtrusively.

At the New Riyadh Intercontinental Hotel, which is owned by the government, a number of women have been quietly employed in the back office.

A few months ago an unveiled Saudi woman spoke for the first time on government television. Her appearance provoked cries of outrage from the ultraconservative members of the Morality Committee which controls the nation's religious life, and the girl was quickly pulled off. But she remains in the wings and television officials plan eventually to put her on the screen again.

Diplomatic sources say other pressures for change are building. With Saudi Arabia facing critical manpower shortages because of rapid economic development, the nation cannot afford the growing number of drivers needed to shuttle women and children, over half the population, to schools and markets. The sources are convinced that, as a result, women will soon be allowed to drive.

The main scene of progress for women's rights has been at the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) in Dharan where Saudi and foreign women work in offices side by side with men.

Saudi women at Aramco hold jobs as geologists, in public health, in public relations and in other fields. It is known Aramco is trying to step up its use of Saudi women as computer operators and in other roles.

But these women remain an elite few.

"It's difficult to discuss these problems in the open, such as at the university or in public or on television," says a young woman. "Because of the religious rules, there is no chance to discuss anything."

Even among the so-called Westernized families, young women complain their parents cannot fully abandon the old ways.

"My father listens to my telephone calls and opens my private mail," said one single girl working at Aramco. "Any move I make is questioned.

"My parents have the attitude I shouldn't enjoy myself before I'm married. They are afraid that a taste of freedom will make it difficult for me to adjust to marriage later."

Goats help fight fires

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — The National Forest Service is using domestic goats to maintain firebreaks in the brushlands of southern California's national forests. The goats are expected to provide an inexpensive and efficient way to prevent the spread of fires.

Goats were chosen, according to the National Automobile Club, because they eat brush not eaten by other livestock and because they crop it off close to the ground, clearing the areas in which they graze of the dried bushes and grass that provide fuel for fires.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

If you're thinking about a career in aircraft, engineering or mechanics you can do your future employer a favor.

Aircraft, manufacturing and engineering companies are big employers, not only in your area but throughout the country. Jobs in these fields pay well and are available to young, eager, skilled women and men.

The cost to employers to train new people for these positions is very high. Right now, many are having to hold off, to wait for the economy to pick up before they can take on trainees.

But you don't have to wait. You can start your training right after graduation and get paid for it. Here is a program where you can spend a month to a year attending a full time technical school recognized for its excellence by major employers. You can follow this up by working 2 days a month, getting practical on-the-job experience, the kind that really stands out on a resume.

After tech school there are 300 free accredited correspondence courses that you can take to help advance or change your civilian career.

This is the Air Force RESERVE opportunity. It doesn't cost your future employer anything . . . it pays you a minimum $2,000 during your first 12 months.

For full details contact your local Air Force RESERVE representative.

Now—talk seriously for five minutes about where you keep your savings, how safe your money is, and how much guaranteed interest you are receiving!

It's not enough anymore to have just any savings account. You need one that best meets your savings needs—and at the same time offers you the highest interest available, with insured safety.

All this and more is yours, at Pomona First Federal, your Financial Friend. We can help you analyze your savings requirements, no matter how much you have to save. For example, our $1000-balance savings certificate, six to ten year term, offers the highest interest return allowed—7¾% per annum. That's an annual yield of 8.06%!

7¾%-8.06%

If you have a savings certificate that's about to mature, increase your future interest earnings by transferring that money to Pomona First Federal. If maturing deposits are left as is, you stand to lose substantial interest. Interest has increased recently, and the rate on your certificate may be low. Obituaries

Lois Bobo

Mrs. Bobo was born June 25, 1934 in Chicago, Ill. She came to California from Indianapolis, Ind., in 1968 and moved to Pomona in June 1972 from Canoga Park. She was an active member of the Central Baptist Church, Pomona.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Donald E. Jr. and Ben W., and three daughters, Elise Marie, Cynthia Louise and Teri Lyn, all at home; her mother, Mrs. B. F. Umbenhaur of Niles, Mich.; and two brothers, Ellery Unbenhaur of Niles and Robert Umbenhaur of Stevensville, Mich.

Services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church, Pomona. The Rev. Ray Batema, pastor of the church, will officiate. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the Central Baptist Church Scholarship Fund, 395 E. San Bernardino Ave., Pomona 91767.

Visiting hours will be Tuesday from 4 to 9 p.m.

Robert Steidley

He was born May 7, 1926, in Pomona and was graduated from Pomona High School and Mt. San Antonio College. He served with the U. S. Navy in World War II.

Mr. Steidley was a radio and instrument technician for United Air Lines in Torrance for 22 years.

Surviving him are his widow, Laura; three sons, Kenneth of Weaverville, Robert of the U. S. Army in Germany and James of the U.S. Air Force in Charleston, S.C.; one sister, Mrs. Dorlis Grubidge of Oshkosh, Wis.; his mother, Mrs. Zella Steidley of Ontario, and one granddaughter, Carrie of Weaverville.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at Draper Mortuary, Ontario.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Fund.

Claribel Branigan

Mrs. Claribel A. Branigan, wife of Eugene E. Branigan of 990 Groff St., Pomona, died Saturday evening in Pomona Valley Community Hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Branigan was born July 5, 1911 in Rome, N.Y. She came to Pomona from Rome in 1960. She was a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Jean Floto of Covina; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Roth, Mrs. Elizabeth Krumhauer and Mrs. Mildred McCormick, all of Pomona; and three grandchildren.

A Rosary will be recited Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in St. Joseph Catholic Church. Mass of the Christian Burial will be celebrated Wednesday at 9 a.m. in the church. Burial will be made in Holy Cross Cemetery, Pomona. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Delia Gee

Mrs. Delia M. Gee of 1116 N. Dudley St., Pomona, died Friday afternoon in the La Vina Hospital, Altadena, after three weeks of illness.

Mrs. Gee was born Aug. 20, 1898 in Erin Township, Mich. She came to Pomona from Detroit in May 1924.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church, Pomona, and the Women's Mission Society and the Fidelity Circle, both of the church. She was also a past deaconess in the church.

Survivors are three sons, Herbert F. of Pomona, Alfred W. Jr. of Ontario and J. Kenneth of Newcastle; two daughters, Mrs. Jo Ann Schrum of Pomona and Mrs. Betty Christian of Oregon; a sister, Mrs. Lena Knop of Detroit, a nephew, Donald F. Piche of Montclair; 20 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 3 p.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. The Rev. Paul B. Ryan, of the First Baptist Church, Pomona, and the Rev. Cass Schrieb, will officiate. Entombment will be made in Pomona Mausoleum.

Friends may call at the chapel today from 4 to 9 p.m.

Rattlers, now bats

CHICO (AP) — When Butte College first opened over a year ago, it had a rattlesnake problem. Now it has a bat problem.

When the school south of this northern Sacramento Valley town was being built, construction workers found a number of rattlers in the area.

But now it's bats living in the library.

It all started when hundreds of bats started staying under copper plating on the outside of some of the college's buildings.

Ray Rice, the college's maintenance supervisor, said the bats apparently were prompted to chew their way into the library when the last few warm days made it too hot under the copper plating.

So early one morning, officials turned up the heater as high as it would go in the library and drove many of the bats outside. However, some stayed, so county health officials ordered the library closed.

'Bomb dogs' at airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — By June no aircraft flying anywhere over the United States will be more than 30 minutes from an airport with dogs trained to sniff out bombs.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration announced Sunday that six more airports are being equipped with the "bomb dog" squads to combat airport terrorism.

Trained dogs and handlers are already stationed at 18 municipal airports, the LEAA said.

The six, chosen by the Federal Aviation Administration to achieve the maximum half-hour delay between bomb threat and search, are: Boston; Bismarck, N.D.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Oakland, Calif.; Oklahoma City; and Seattle.

LEAA claimed the dogs have saved 120 lives and prevented thousands of dollars in property damage in the 18 airports that already participate under a four-year, $40,000 agency program.

In Los Angeles, dogs sniffed out 12 explosive devices and several weapons during 450 alerts in a six-month period, the agency said.

Last December, the agency said, a German shepherd named Brandy led investigators to pieces of a bomb that killed 11 people at New York's La-Guardia Airport. The fragments were considered an important clue, although the case remains unsolved.

In 1972 Brandy discovered a bomb 12 minutes before it was timed to explode aboard a Trans World Airlines jet.

Lakers hit bottom

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — After 73 games of the 82-game 1975-76 NBA season, the Lakers are in third place, a game under .500 at 36-37.

"This is probably my most frustrating season as a coach," Bill Sharman admitted glumly.

Sharman's team had just finished a horribly played game in which it was beaten decisively, 130-111, by the Milwaukee Bucks who capitalized on 27 Laker turnovers.

The Bucks accomplished two things. They dumped the Lakers into third place, a game behind Seattle, and only a half game ahead of fourth-place Phoenix in the Pacific Division.

They also clinched the season series with the Lakers, three games to two. And they set a season-high scoring mark in doing it. Their previous high was 126 points.

Oh there were factors that could contribute to a loss as Sharman pointed out. Lucius Allen had the flu and did not play. The Lakers were playing their third game in as many days.

But the fact remains. The Lakers are fighting for their lives as far as getting into the NBA Playoffs are concerned. Yet for the second night in a row they looked listless and lethargic and played like a bunch of zombies.

"We were just terrible tonight," Sharman admitted. "We were bad in all departments."

The Lakers trailed after the first quarter, 30-24. It was 67-50 at the half and 93-78 after three quarters.

The victory was number 400 for Buck's coach Larry Costello in his NBA career. "We're making progress," Costello said happily. This was a big win tonight under pressure. The kids are playing hard. We don't have great speed in the back court and I like to use short, crisp passes."

Those "short, crisp passes" caught the Lakers off guard several times and the Bucks scored layups while the Lakers stood by helplessly. The Bucks also intercepted some of the "Laker lobs."

"It's really strange," Costello said. "Tuesday night I watched the Lakers dominate a good Cleveland team and I was trying to think how we could combat them. But the next night we beat 'em and tonight we did it again."

Kareem Abdul Jabbar scored 34 points for the Lakers. But Jabbar, for the sixth game in a row, was down in rebounds (13) and blocked no shots.

A writer put it to Sharman bluntly. Are the Lakers no better than .500 ballclub even with Jabbar?

"It's not that we're not a good club," Sharman replied. It's just that we haven't got it together yet. If we had won half of our close games we'd be 8-10 games better. The players have to play together long enough to know each other.

"Basketball isn't like football when you huddle before each play or like baseball where you have time to think between each pitch. Everything happens so fast you have to know each other well enough to anticipate each other. It took the Celtics three years to come back after Bill Russell and those guys retired."

Unfortunately for Bill Sharman, he doesn't have three years. He had last year and this year and if the Lakers miss the playoffs, there isn't likely to be another year.

CCAA honors three Broncos

Cal Poly placed two players on the All-California Collegiate Athletic Association basketball team announced by the coaches today and one on the second unit.

Senior guard Joe Sills and junior forward Jack Gamulin earned first team honors in the voting of the coaches while senior forward Paul Newton made the second team.

Cal State Los Angeles' Tommie Lipsey was selected the Most Valuable Player while rookie coach Pat Wennihan, who led Cal State Bakersfield to the championship, earned Coach of the Year honors.

Sills, Poly's all-time career scoring, was second in the CCAA in points with a 24.1 average and second in the conference in free throw percentage at 83.5.

Gamulin was third in scoring at 17.7 and sixth in field goal shooting with a 52.6 per cent marksmanship. Newton was second in rebounding with 10.9 a game.

Also named to the first team were Larry Reynolds of UC Riverside plus Jeff Garnett and Greg Johnwell of Bakersfield.

Poly ended the season with a 16-13 record. The Broncos were knocked out of the NCAA Division II playoffs by eventual national champion Puget Sound. The Broncs earned the NCAA bid by placing second in the CCAA.

Nolan Ryan wows Williams in Holtville workout

Ryan, the Angels' star pitcher until undergoing arm surgery last fall, threw 10 minutes on the sidelines and another 10 in batting practice Sunday.

"This has brightened my day," Williams said. "He was just excellent."

Ryan, American League strikeout leader for three years in a row prior to his arm surgery, said, "You'd never know that I had an operation. The only reminder I have is a scar."

Williams said Ryan would likely pitch in competition for the first time since the operation Thursday, when the Angels play the Oakland A's in Mesa. The Angels start their exhibition season Wednesday against Cleveland in Tucson, Ariz.

Catcher Ike Hampton arrived here Sunday, so the team now has all 38 players in camp. The Angels will play an intra-squad game Tuesday before opening exhibition play.

Dodgers get E. Rodriguez

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Catcher Ellie Rodriquez has been acquired by the Los Angeles Dodgers from the Calfiornia Angels.

Rodriquez, 29, was traded Sunday for minor league outfielder Orlando Alvarez and cash.

"It facilitates another deal," Dodger vice president Al Campanis said of the trade. "But right now we're thinking of him (Rodruquez) as a backup catcher."

Rodriquez has been the Angels' starting catcher the past two seasons, batting .235 in 90 games in 1975 and .253 in 140 games in 1974.

He has played for the New York Yankees, Kansas City and Milwaukee as well as the Angels. A veteran of eight seasons in the majors, Rodriquez was named to the American League All-Star team in 1969 and 1972.

In a squad game Sunday, Don Sutton hurled five scoreless innings, giving up only three hits. Newcomer Dusty Baker slugged a bases-empty homer as the Tom Lasordas blanked the Jim Gilliams, 6-0. Rookie outfielder Glen Burke also homered.

"I felt great," Sutton said. "I wanted to pitch as long as I possibly could. I've been here throwing batting practice for two weeks and it really paid off."

The Dodgers also announced a working agreement Sunday with the Mazatland Venados of the Mexican winter league for 1976-77.

LIMBERING UP

It's Derby Week at S.A.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—It's derby week at Santa Anita, but few if anyone can settle on a standout colt for Sunday's $150,000-guaranteed feature, richest in its 39 editions.

Last year's winner was Avatar, who today has another distinction. The colt won the $109,300 San Luis Rey Stakes on the grass course before 51,688 fans on a summer-like day Sunday.

And Avatar, winner of the Belmont Stakes and second in the Kentucky Derby in 1974, shapes up as a solid contender in the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap, raced over the turf course at about 1¾ miles.

Trainer Tommy Doyle said he sees no great problem for Avatar in the San Juan. "He likes the grass and the distance," said Doyle, pointing out that the colt's win in the Belmont was at 1½ miles, although on the dirt track.

There was a dispute for the runnerup positions in the San Luis Rey. Ga Hai finished second but was disqualified and pushed back to fourth for interference in the stretch. The infraction involved Top Crowd, who was moved to second, and Top Command, elevated to third.

Avatar paid $9.80, $5.80 and $3.60; Top Crowd $5.40 and $3.20 and Top Command $3.40.

Pomona, Garey share SAL lead

Surprising Pomona and Garey highs, ruling the San Antonio League baseball roost after one week of league play, will try to extend their perfect slates in this week's action.

Pomona (2-0 in league and 4-4 on the year) will travel across town Tuesday afternoon to play Ganesha, while the Vikings (2-0 and 4-2-2) will visit Upland. Other SAL tilts Tuesday have Montclair at Damien and Claremont at Chino. All four games are set to get underway at 3:15 p.m.

A big game also looms in the Hacienda League, where Bonita and Walnut (both 3-0 in league play) will meet Tuesday at Bonita. The H.L.'s other leader, Royal Oak (3-0) will entertain Alta Loma, San Dimas will be at Ontario and Gladstone at Sierra Vista. Those outings also start at 3:15 p.m.

Despite the fact that Ganesha will carry a winless 0-2 SAL mark (3-3-2 overall) into Tuesday's game with the red-hot Red Devils, the contest figures to be a close one. Giant coach Bob Gray is expected to start junior righthander Joe Madrigal. Pomona mentor Jay Craven will probably go with Jackie Phillips on the hill.

Garey will be out to extend its winning streak at Upland's Memorial Park against the Scots. Viking coach Monse Estrada has his squad fired up after two narrow wins over Ganesha and Claremont, and is expected to start David Rondero. Upland will counter with senior righthander Stan Smith.

The Bonita-Walnut contest could well be one of the top games in the Hacienda League this season. Bonita will go with senior righthander David Drury on the hill, Walnut with Butch Long.

Tuesday's game is the start of a tough week for Bonita, as they host the other Hacienda front-runner, Royal Oak, on Friday. The Bearcats are the favorites to repeat as H.L. champs, and two wins this week could put them in the drivers seat in the league standings.

Another interesting game on the Hacienda scene would be the San Dimas-Ontario contest. Saint hurler Dennis Wetzel is coming off a no-hitter last week against Ala Loma and will try to pull a "Johnny VanderMeer" and duplicate that feat against the Jaguars, who are in the Hacienda cellar with a 0-3 mark.

Alta Loma figures to improve as the season progresses and might be ready to give Royal Oak a good game Tuesday. The Braves are still trying to get their star hitter Anthony Vasquez back to full strength following an early-season injury.

Probably pitching assignments in the other SAL games Tuesday shape up as follows: Montclair's Don Pierce vs. Damien's Todd Bell and Claremont's Brad Kirkendall vs. Chino's Joe Pickens. Claremont, Chino, Montclair and Upland are all bunched at 1-1 in the SAL standings, while defending champ Damien is 0-2.

UCLA eager for Great Rematch

By Associated Press

Gene Bartow remembers the first time UCLA played Indiana this season. It's not a very pleasant memory, but it's one he's getting a chance to erase.

"It was my first game at UCLA," said the man who stepped into the shoes of the legendary John Wooden as coach of the Bruins. "It meant so much to me, the pressure that was on me was extended to our players. I think we were over-prepared."

Indiana overran UCLA 84-64 in that season opener in St. Louis Nov. 29, the Hoosiers' first triumph in a perfect string of 30 so far this year. The Bruins, meanwhile, stumbled through the early part of their schedule but then put the pieces together to win the Pacific-8 title and a berth in the NCAA tournament, where they are defending the title they won 10 of the past 12 years under Wooden.

Bartow will get a chance to wipe out the memory of that initial defeat Saturday when Indiana and UCLA square off again in the NCAA semifinals at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. It's the second game of a doubleheader that will be nationally televised (NBC, 11 a.m. PST), with Rutgers, 31-0, and Michigan, 24-6, meeting in the first semifinal. The winners meet in the final Monday night, March 29.

If top-ranked Indiana's 65-56 triumph over No. 2 Marquette in the Mideast Regional Saturday was the Game of the Year, the UCLA-Indiana matchup must rate as the Rematch of the Year. And Bartow and his troops say things will be different this time around.

"If we play like we have in 13 of our last 16 games," said Bartow, "we're going to be ready, real ready."

"We will be a lot better," promised UCLA forward Marques Johnson. "When we played them last November, they were a veteran ballclub who had played together for three years and they were pointing for that game like it was a national championship."

"It's going to be a good game, a great game for college basketball," added guard Ray Townsend. "We are different. We are smoother, more together, more intense than the last time."

The last time, All-American center Kent Benson of Indiana was the dominant factor, controling play at both ends of the court. But since then, 6-foot-10 freshman David Greenwood has replaced 7-2 senior Ralph Drollinger as UCLA's starting pivotman, and Bartow hopes the two of them will be enough to contain Benson.

Also on display in the big rematch will be two of the game's premier forwards, Scott May of Indiana and Richard Washington of UCLA. The 6-foot-7 May is a first-team All-American and college basketball's Player of the Year, while the 6-10½ Washington was a second-team All-American.

Both played prominent roles in Saturday's regional finals.

Washington scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead fifth-ranked UCLA, 26-4, past 15th-ranked Arizona 82-66 in the West Regional on UCLA's home floor, Pauley Pavilion. The game was tied 58-58 with eight minutes left before UCLA broke it open with 12 consecutive points, Washington getting two baskets and an assist in the burst.

"It was just a matter of wearing them down," said Washington, who apparently knew the spree was coming.

"During the timeout before we ran off those 12 points," said Bartow, "Richard said to me, 'I'm gonna get me some points,' and he did."

May picked up three personal fouls in the first 6½ minutes of Indiana's game against Marquette at Baton Rouge, La., and sat out the rest of the first half. But he came back in the second half to help his team to its 64th victory in the last 65 games.

The red-hot Hoosiers hit 15 of their first 21 shots from the field and raced to an early 30-19 lead before Marquette closed to 36-35 at halftime. The Hoosiers built a 10-point lead midway through the second half, but again the Warriors rallied.

With 2:18 to play it was 57-54, and Marquette had the ball. But Bo Ellis missed a turnaround jumper, Indiana collared the rebound and Tom Abernethy was fouled. What's more, Marquette Coach Al McGuire, complaining that Ellis had been fouled, was slapped with a technical. Abernethy sank two free throws, the Hoosiers retained possession of the ball and free throws by Abernethy and Bob Wilkerson moments later plus a layup by Quinn Buckner clinched the victory.

McGuire says he has a solution to his habit of drawing technical fouls in crucial playoff games. "I won't come to another tournament," he said. "I'll let my assistants handle it. I seem to transfer my hangups to my players."

Benson led Indiana's balanced attack with 18 points, May had 15 and Abernethy 12. Earl Tatum was high scorer for Marquette with 22.

The Rutgers-Michigan semifinal matches two teams whose forte is quickness. Both could carve their mark in the record book by going all the way.

The Scarlet Knights, should they win the semifinal and final, would finish with a 33-0 record, the most victories ever by a major college team in one season. The Wolverines, who finished second to Indiana in the Big Ten, are trying to be the first conference runner-up to win the national crown.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers got its running game going in the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., against VMI, leading by as many as 21 points and then turning back a mild challenge by the Keydets to win easily 91-75.

"I don't think anybody can beat us," proclaimed Jordan, who also had six steals and five assists against VMI. "They tried to run with us, and that was a surprise—but a pleasant surprise."

"Rutgers is quicker than June bugs hopping on a duck's back," offered VMI Coach Bill Blair. "And quickness is only half of it. Rutgers comes at you in swarms, buzzing around your eyeballs until you surrender the ball."

"If you don't come from the ACC or the Big Ten they're gonna cut you up," said Rutgers Coach Tom Young. "We hope we can show them that Eastern basketball isn't that bad."

Tie drops L.A.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Coach Ted Harris says he is pleased that his Minnesota North Stars are starting to work together gain.

The North Stars pulled into a 4-4 tie with the Los Angeles Kings Sunday night as Tim Young scored his 15th goal of the season with 1:26 to play in the National Hockey League game.

Young deflected in his goal past Los Angeles goalie Gary Edwards after Lou Nanne had fired a shot from the right point.

"The guys showed a lot more enthusiasm out there tonight and we've been missing that lately," Harris said. "I think Steve Jensen's enthusiasm is starting to affect the other guys. I'm more than pleased with the way he has come along since joining the club."

Jensen, a member of the U.S. Olympic hockey team who joined the North Stars earlier this year, scored Minnesota's first goal at 10:50 of the opening period to tie the score at 1-1.

Los Angeles held a 4-3 lead after the second period on two goals by Butch Goring and one by Vic Vanasky. Bill Goldsworthy and Doug Hicks scored for Minnesota in the middle period.

The Kings had been tied for second place with Pittsburgh in the Norris Division going into Sunday night's game. However, Pittsburgh pulled slightly ahead with a victory over the New York Rangers.

"I think it will go down to the last game," Goring said of the Los Angeles-Pittsburgh race. "If we can take five of our remaining seven games, I think we can beat them out. I know we've got to keep working at it. We can't let up a bit."

Pearson nabs Atlanta 500

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Benny Parsons, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker and Richard Petty all thought at one point they were headed for victory. David Pearson was convinced until the very end that he wasn't.

"I just didn't think the car could last," said Pearson, who took a 1.8-second victory over Parsons in Sunday's Atlanta 500 stock car race. "We lost a lap early—that I thought we'd never make up—and the car was vibrating so bad I could hardly steer it.

"I don't think I've ever worked harder to win. If you don't believe me, just look at the blisters on my hands."

Parsons, who is still thirsting after his first victory this season while Pearson has won three of the four he's entered, was especially frustrated.

"It's tough to sit there and know you can't win even though you're so close," he said. "Just when I began to think I might have a chance to win the race, David comes back stronger than ever."

Parsons had what appeared to be a comfortable lead when both leaders pitted for fuel and new tires during a caution period with only 50 miles to go. But Parsons' Chevrolet took on only two tires, while Pearson's crew changed all four.

"Four new tires always work better than two," Pearson said. "I think Benny should have taken on all four. I don't know if I could have beaten him otherwise."

Pearson said his main concern through the first half of the race—besides making up the lap his Mercury had lost— was Yarborough.

Asked if he thought Yarborough could have won if not for a lengthy pit stop, Pearson said: "What do you think? He lost almost five laps in the pits and made up all but one before the race was over."

Yarborough, who built big leads at will until a broken distributor rotor cost him dearly, said: "I was real disappointed that I didn't win the race. But I was pleased that we're back to being competitive."

Yarborough led the most laps—117—and won a $7,000 boat for his efforts. "Well, thank God I won something," he quipped.

The only other car able to keep up with Yarborough's Chevrolet was Baker's Ford.

I guess I earned that name 'hard luck,' didn't I?" Baker said disgustedly after being sidelined by a blown engine while leading. "If I ever had a car handling any better than the one today, I can't remember it."

Things were looking so good, he confided, "I had done started thinking about what I was going to say in Victory Lane because I wanted to make sure I didn't forget my sponsor."

When Baker departed, Petty inherited a sizable lead, only to suffer a similar mechanical failure in his Dodge.

Green's a lucky man

"I'm lucky I can play golf for a living," he said.

"I'm lucky that playing golf enables me to go all over the world, places my mother and father never even thought about going. I've played in Australia and New Zealand and Morocco and Japan. I've played in England and Scotland and other places in Europe. I'm lucky I can do this. Not everybody can."

And how about the money he's piled up while playing his game, well over one-half million dollars in the last 3½ seasons?

"Money isn't everything," Green replied in his curiously quick, clipped delivery. "It's nice to have, but it isn't everything.

"I'm trying to pile up the titles, not money. If you win the titles, win the golf tournaments, the money will follow."

And Green, rapidly advancing through the ranks of the game's premier performers, piled up another one Sunday, rallying from the potential disaster of a double bogey with a gritty, two-under-par 70 that won him the $35,000 first prize in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

It was the second title in as many weeks for the man who calls himself "just a skinny kid from Birmingham," and the 11th, including a Japanese title, in his career.

Now Green, who won this one by two strokes with a 12-underpar total of 276, would like to get lucky enough to win one of the game's Big Four crowns, the only thing he really needs to gain his full stature as one of golf's leading practitioners.

"In my estimation," said Green, a run-away, record-setting winner of the Doral Open a week ago, "a great player is a player who plays well in the major tournaments.

"I haven't had a particularly good record in the majors. That's what I want to do. That's the next step.

The victory, nailed down with a magnificent shot from a fairway sand trap on the 18th hole, allowed him to join Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin and Ben Crenshaw as the only double winners of the year. The two consecutive first place checks have pushed his earnings to $89,006, fourth on the money-winning list for the season and ahead of Nicklaus and Miller.

Aztecs triumph

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The Los Angeles Aztecs, led by George Best, scored a 3-0 exhibition North American Soccer victory over the Seattle Sounders Sunday.

The Aztecs' first goal was set up by Best as he took a corner kick and had it headed in by Bob McAlinden.

The Aztecs scored once more in the first half as John Mason headed in a pass from FISHAA. Mason and Fishaa teamed up for the game's final goal on almost a carbon copy of their first goal.

Though Best didn't do the scoring, he dominated the game by drawing defenders to him and opening chances for his team.

I Bet You Didn't Know

Brought To You By Ken Reichers

One of the most incredible baseball records of all-time was set by Shoeless Joe Jackson who had season batting averages of .387, .408, .395, .373, .354 and .382 — AND NEVER WON A BATTING TITLE! . . . Jackson compiled those averages in the American League starting in 1910, but every season when he had such high averages, some one else had a better one . . . It seems unbelievable that a player who hit that well should not have won at least one batting championship — but Joe Jackson never did!

★★★

Here's a basketball oddity . . . Indiana University had the number one ranked team in the country in 1953 and also won the NCAA basketball tournament that year — yet not one player on that team made the first team All-American . . . They completely dominated college basketball without any first team All-American players!

★★★

One of the most unusual golf rounds ever shot was the one by pro Dave White a few years ago . . . On the 8th hole, he had an incredible score for a pro — a 13 — but then he shot the amazing total of 10 straight birdies on the next 10 holes and finished with a respectable 72!

Sports briefs

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Joe Fulks, leading scorer in the National Basketball Association's first season and one of its top stars for eight years, died early Sunday from a shotgun wound in the neck.

Fulks, 54, was shot during an argument with Greg Bannister, 24, over a handgun, said Lyon County Coroner Eugene Denny. Bannister has been charged with murder in connection with the incident.

Lyon County Sheriff William White said the shooting occurred in a mobile home owned by Mrs. Roberta Bannister, a widow and the mother of the man charged with the shooting.

Fulks was one of a handful of post-World War II stars who kept the NBA in existence through its shaky early years and helped start the professional game toward the success it enjoys today.

He led the NBA in scoring in 1947 with a 23.2 average while leading Philadelphia to the league championship. The former Murray State, Ky., standout set a single-game scoring record of 63 points against the Indianapolis Olympians on Feb. 10, 1949. That mark stood for 10 years, until Elgin Baylor scored 64 against Boston in 1959.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA maintained its five-season win record Sunday with a 77-72 dual track meet victory over Tennessee, narrowly avoiding a tie when runners for both teams were disqualified in the mile relay.

The meet broke up in a tie at 77 with Tennessee the apparent victor in the relay. Moments later, however, referee Mort Tanner called a foul on the Volunteers and disqualified UCLA for finishing without the baton.

No points were awarded in the event.

In the Bruins' 38th straight dual meet triumph, Bennie Myles ran 46.0 in the 400-meter dash, just missing the meet record of 46.4, set in 1971 when the course was 440 yards.

The Volunteers' Phil Olsen set a new meet record for the javelin, throwing 259-1. Reggie Jones reaped two wins for Tennessee, running 10.2 in the 100-meter dash and 20.4 in the 200-meter version.

UCLA's Willie Banks was also a two-time winner with a 25-0¾ distance in the long jump and 52-7¼ in the triple jump.

Visiting pole vaulter Willy Sondeberg of Norway, broke his country's record with 16-2¼, then topped that with 16-5¼. The 24-year-old medical student from Oslo, who set Norways's previous record of 16-0¾, leaves Wednesday after a three-month training visit to UCLA.

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Jose Earthquakes defeated the San Diego Jaws 8-4 to win the North American Soccer League indoor western regional championship Sunday.

NEW YORK — The American League voted to expand to Toronto for 1977 and the National League said it would actively consider expansion to the same city for the same season setting up a possible conflict.

MONT STE. ANNE, Que. — Franco Bieler of Italy defeated over-all World Cup champion Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden by 2.2 seconds over two runs and won the men's parallel slalom competition.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand — Joanne Carner of the United States shot a threeunder-par 70 and won a women's international golf tournament by 11 strokes with a 213 total.

CARLSBAD, Calif. — Ilie Nastase of Romania won the $30,000 first prize in the Independent Players Association Tennis Tournament, coming from behind to whip Jimmy Connors 4-6, 6-0, 6-1.

KEAUHOU-KONA, Hawaii — Arthur Ashe remained undefeated in the $320,000 World Championship Tennis Challenge Cup Series with a 6-4, 7-6, 6-3 victory over Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

DALLAS — Evonne Goolagong of Australia easily handled Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia 6-1, 6-1 to capture the $15,000 first prize in the Maureen Connolly Brinker Tennis Tournament.

JACKSON, Miss. — Australian Ken Rosewall, the top-seed, swept by Raul Ramirez of Mexico 6-3, 6-3 to take the $60,000 Tennis South Invitational of the World Championship of Tennis.

WASHINGTON — Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., defeated Onny Parun of New Zealand 6-3, 6-1 to win the World Championship Tennis tournament at George Washington University.

Kentucky tops Cinderella

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina-Charlotte 49ers took three bites of the "Big Apple"—but couldn't get the fourth down.

After delicious victories over the University of San Francisco, Oregon and North Carolina State, time finally ran out Sunday for the Cinderella team of the 1976 National Invitation Tournament.

"I think we did a tremendous job and I'm really proud of my team," said North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose after losing the NIT finals 71-67 to the red-hot Kentucky Wildcats. "I think you must keep in mind that Kentucky's got three high school All-Americas on their team—and we have none."

The unheralded 49ers had a seven-point lead with ten minutes left in the game and the opportunity to knock off one of college basketball's traditional powers. But strangely, they went into a slowdown while Kentucky's entire starting front line was sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

"When they started backing off," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall, "that was just fine with us. We appreciated that."

Eventually Mike Phillips, Jack Givens and James Lee— all of them saddled with four fouls—came back into the game to help Kentucky win the 39th NIT title.

The Wildcats, who landed in the finals at Madison Square Garden with close victories over Niagara, Kansas State and Providence, didn't do things the easy way in the championship game, either. Phillips scored five points in the last minute, including a crucial tap-in on a missed foul shot, and the 49ers contributed two key turnovers at the end.

"Phillips' big play at the end was a super effort," said Hall, whose team was given up for dead in midseason but finished with 10 straight victories. "The big thing about this team is that for the last 10 games, they have simply refused to be beaten. I had all the confidence in the world that we were going to win this one."

Hall, whose Wildcats lost the NCAA championship game last year to UCLA, put the whip cream on his 1975-76 season by beating the 49ers.

"This is a big step for our program, to come in here and win this tournament," said Hall, whose club was 10-10 at one point of the season. "We were down before—but we're not down now."

The Wildcats' dramatic victory overshadowed a splendid performance by UNC-Charlotte's Cedric Maxwell, who scored 24 of his tournament leading 109 points to win the NIT's Most Valuable Player prize.

"'Cornbread' just came in here and captured the imagination of the New York press," said Rose. "That's really a heck of a thing."

Maxwell, nicknamed after a movie character, was happy to drink from the MVP cup, but would rather have had a taste of the NIT championship hardware.

"It's great to be MVP," he said. "But everything I do is geared to the team. A championship would have been better."

TEN HIGH CELEBRATES HIRAM WALKER'S 10 MILLIONTH BARREL.

Hiram Walker just bottled the bourbon from its 10 millionth barrel. And Ten High celebrates this unique milestone proudly. Because not many bourbons can deliver the taste that comes from the experience of producing 10 million barrels. That's the kind of tradition that's made Ten High America's third best-selling bourbon. So when you go to the liquor store to Take Ten, take a look at our celebration display. There's even a barrel for you... a very special ice bucket barrel offer. Your liquor store has the details. And the Ten High.

Young dad arrested; held parrot for ransom

LONDON (AP) — An unemployed father of two kidnaped a parrot and held it for ransom to get money to feed his family and his pets — two cats, a dog, a terrapin and a python.

Police said David Gore, 22, broke into a pet shop and stole the parrot, named Aggie and valued at $400, and demanded $300 for its return.

Police set a trap and arrested Gore as he arrived to claim the ransom.

Aggie's owner, pet shop proprietor Keith Nash, said, "Aggie's a lovely bird and we wouldn't part with her for the world. She knows many phrases, but now we shall have to teach her 'Stop thief!'"

On Thursday at the Old Bailey criminal court, Judge John Marnan gave Gore a suspended sentence of 18 months.

Restrictions on Chino High parking eased

Parking restrictions at several locations in the Chino High School area have been lifted by city officials.

Most of the tough no parking laws still exist in the high school area — mainly due to complaints from area residents about students parking in front of their homes. The regulations were approved by the City Council last December.

But, on recommendation from Public Works Director John Gerardi, the council lifted the restrictions on the west side of 10th Street in front of the St. James Apartments, and on the north side of Jefferson Street from 10th to Central Avenue.

Also, regulations were lifted on Ninth Street south of Park Avenue, and at Park Place and 12th Street in the area of the apartments there.

Apartment residents affected by the restrictions had complained that they had no place to park, said Gerardi.

Most of the residents in the high school area favored maintaining the restrictions, according to a staff survey, Gerardi indicated. Eighty-two per cent favored keeping the regulations and 18 per cent wanted to remove them.

Residents from the St. James Apartments were particularly adamant about wanting the restrictions removed. Ray Hyson, the apartment manager, said, "Our residents are being inconvenienced by the 'no parking' signs in front of their apartments."

Hyson addressed the council about the problem but apparently was unaware that Gerardi had recommended restrictions be lifted.

Hyson said the no parking laws were "dumped on us."

The no parking restrictions are in effect from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, while students are attending school.

All regulations will be lifted during the summer vacation.

ESAA committee attends retreat

Members of student advisory committees in Pomona's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Basic Project will attend a human relations retreat at Camp ArrowBear in Running Springs this weekend.

All student advisory committee members are ninth-grade students who attend ESAA classes at Ganesha, Garey, Pomona and Pomona Catholic high schools.

They provide a consistent student voice into all parts of the ESAA program, and help inform their classmates about project activities.

The human relations retreat will provide students of various ethnic backgrounds an opportunity to become better acquainted and to promote better human relations on the high school campuses.

The reduction and elimination of racial isolation is a major objective of the ESAA project, according to Mrs. Wilhelmina Greene, basic project supervisor.

During the weekend, participants will attend human relations workshops, discussion sessions, and multicultural activities. Educational entertainment will be provided through such activities as films and a performance by multi-ethnic folk singers.

Adults invited to attend the retreat include principals of ESAA schools and other administrators, members of the school board, parents, teachers, and other staff members.

The human relations retreat committee is headed by Nancy Anderson, ESAA reading teacher and SAC sponsor at Pomona High School. She was assisted in the planning by the SAC sponsors at the other high schools, teachers Angelena Curtis, Pomona Catholic High School; Marjorie Miller, Ganesha High School, and James Molina, Garey High School.

John Mayo has a hobby that drives him buggy.

"Some guys play golf, others go out and drink. I like buggies," he says.

He has four carriages left from an original collection of 29, plus a miniature stagecoach and a horse-drawn "belly" sleigh. A real "carriage and Wild West buff," Mayo has two more carriages being "stored" at his home at 12794 Wright St., plus an old medicine wagon.

Mayo's "prize" is an English-style 1870 Lady's Driving Phaeton, originally manufactured for King Arthur IV of France by the Brewster Co. of New York, Mayo calls it the "Rolls Royce of buggies."

The Phaeton has a plush, wool interior and candle-burning head lamps.

Valued between $8,000 and $12,000, the carriage indeed was used by the French king but eventually ended up back in the United States where wealthy men on plantations and estates owned it near the turn of the century, Mayo said.

"They kept carriages like these in carriage rooms," he noted recently. "It was owner driven but a footman wearing a fancy suit headed the horses and prepared the buggy for the ride. The footman was only a flunky. He had to stand up straight in the carriage — if he slouched, he got kicked out."

Ladies enjoyed the Phaeton because it was a "sporty convertible."

Mayo has another fancy, English-style carriage called the "cut under trap." It's called that because the front wheels can cut under the body for sharper turns, he explained.

He also has a "Mug wagon," formerly used in the early 1900s to transport passengers from Pico Rivera to Los Angeles; and a "Jenny Lynn," named for the Swedish singer of that period.

Mayo's miniature stagecoach is an exact replica of an old Wells Fargo coach. He even has miniature 28-inch Argentina-bred horses in his backyard which he sometimes uses to pull the coach.

The 36-year-old Mayo, who has his own contracting business, also has some carriage paraphernalia, such as the original suit worn by the Phaeton's footman, and poles and wood racks used to hook up the horses.

Although he has sold much of his collection, Mayo claims he will always retain several carriages for himself. "I will always be a carriage buff, and I only have originals. None were restored."

The Chino man followed a tradition started by his father, who bought several horse-drawn carriages in 1953. When Mayo's father died eight years ago, "I kept the collection and added some."

Mayo explains that he always wanted a horse but he couldn't have one in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he was born. But when his family moved to California "my father bought me my first horse and started me in with carriages also.

"I was my father's sidekick," Mayo recalled. "I helped him unload, fix up and polish the wagons."

Mayo and his father bought their carriages from various collectors and estates being liquidated. Some famous collectors have visited Mayo at his home, including Monte Montana. He has been in touch with singers John Davidson and Johnny Cash and actor Michael Landon, who are collectors.

Hebraic Studies prof Pomona College guest

Cyrus H. Gordon, professor of Hebraic studies at New York University, will speak on "Our Heritage: It's Character and Transmission" Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Lyman Auditorium of the Thatcher Music Building at Pomona College.

Gordon is a leading authority on the cultures and languages of the ancient Near East. A popular lecturer, Gordon has written more than 20 books and 400 articles including "The Common Background of Greek and Hebrew Civilizations" and "Forgotten Scripts."

Gordon's public lecture will be given in honor of Loren Fisher of the School of Theology at Claremont and Claremont Graduate School, who will be leaving his faculty position in June.

The lecture is sponsored by the Institute of Antiquity and Christianity and the religion departments of Scripps and Pomona colleges and the Claremont Graduate School.

No admission is charged.

PB copy reader Don Zita gains Press Club award

Don Zita, veteran Progress Bulletin copy reader, has won a second place in a journalism contest sponsored by the Press Club of Southern California.

His headline "Pomona Police Trying to Make House Calls Before Burglars Do" was named runner-up in the headline writing category.

Joel Baugh of Fontana, a former PB staff writer, won first place in this category.

Another former PB writer, Roz Douglas, was awarded sweepstakes in the competition for the best overall submission. Mrs. Douglas is now public relations director for La Verne College.

More than 100 entries were considered in 14 categories by the journalism department of the University of Oklahoma, at the club's second annual Writes of Spring contest.

Zita's entry was the only one from the Progress Bulletin. The contest included entries from newspapers, radio stations, and public relations organizations throughout the Southland.

Sheriffs need help in Cucamonga disturbance

West End sheriff's deputies called for assistance from the California Highway Patrol and sheriff's deputies from Fontana Sunday night to quell a major disturbance involving several hundred people in the northtown area of Cucamonga.

A 15-year-old youth, who allegedly attacked sheriff's Deputy Fred Penn in the disturbance, was arrested for investigation of assault on a police officer and booked in the West End Jail this morning. The youth, according to deputies failed to leave the area on the request of officers and suddenly swing his fist at Penn. Penn was not injured.

Deputies said that the disturbance began about 6 p.m. with a number of residents in the area of 25th and Center Streets reporting several fights.

When deputies arrived and placed the one youth under arrest the crowd began to menace the deputies and assistance was requested. The crowd was finally disbursed by 7:15 p.m. with no injuries reported.

The Academy plans lecture

A look at why people act as they do in organizations will be the focus of a lecture sponsored by The Academy, a Pitzer-College support group, on Tuesday.

The luncheon and lecture will be from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Founders Room of McConnell Center.

Tickets are available from the Office of Special Events. Reservations may be made with Lee Jackman, 626-8511, ext. 3140.

Wendy Carrel talks of films

Wendy Carrel, production manager with Production Systems, Inc., will speak in the Founders Room, McConnell Center, Pitzer College, Claremont, at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

In addition to discussing work on current documentary films, Miss Carrel will show her Emmy award-winning documentary on California Indians, "Fort-Seven Cents."

Miss Carrel is a 1969 graduate of Pitzer College and received a master's degree in journalism from UC Berkeley. She was a researcher on "Godfather II."

The lecture is the fifth in a series about the media sponsored by the college. It is open to the public without charge.

Claremont club hosts Robinson

James M. Robinson, director of the Institute for Antiquity and Christianity at the Claremont University Center, will discuss "The Discovery of the Nag Hammadi Codices" when the University Club of Claremont hosts Ladies Day at its regular Tuesday noon luncheon at Griswolds.

For the past eight years Robinson has led an international team of scholars engaged in the publication of a collection of early Christian documents called the Nag Hammadi Codices.

Those ancient books, whose name comes from the Egyptian town near which they were discovered, contain original writings of an ancient religion called Gnosticism.

Two men hurt on Baldy Road

Two men escaped with minor injuries when their small pickup truck ran off Mt. Baldy Road north of the south tunnel early Sunday morning. The car rolled down a 150-foot embankment and came to rest against a tree.

The driver, Charles A. Rodriguez, 22, of 8195 Tapia Via, Cucamonga, and his passenger, Freddie Gonzales, 23, of 1203 E. 13th St., Upland, were given medical attention at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Uplander helped from Mt. Baldy

A 27-year-old Upland man, injured in a fall while hiking Sunday afternoon, was brought to safety by members of the West End Sheriff's Search and Rescue team from the rugged Ice House Canyon area below Mt. Baldy.

Allen William Belanger of 239 W. Ninth St., Upland, was listed in fair condition this morning with head injuries at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

Deputies said that Belanger was hiking with a church group about a half-mile up the canyon when he suddenly slipped and fell from a cliff and landed in rocks and snow. Belanger struck his head against a rock and was knocked unconscious. Members of the rescue team and volunteers moved Belanger down the canyon to an awaiting helicopter. He was flown to the Ice House Canyon Lodge and from there transported to the hospital by ambulance.

Cycle shop hit by fire

Fire caused approximately $8,000 damage to an Ontario motorcycle shop Saturday afternoon.

Firemen said the blaze at Ray's Trikes, 5514 Mission Blvd., broke out shortly before 2 p.m. in the unoccupied building and burned through the roof.

Free enterprise springs eternal

Writing in World Marxist Review, Hyman Lumer, a member of the central committee of the Communist Party of the U.S.A., declares that not only has individual initiative in America passed into limbo long ago but "huge corporations have come to determine and direct the country's socio-economic, political and ideological life in the interest not of the mass of its citizens but of the tiny minority of superrich owners of corporate wealth."

This, of course, is a standard line of the Communists, among whom the collapse of the capitalist system is expected with the same faith that some people await the Second Coming—and never mind the irony that it is the Communist system that has stifled individual initiative and freedom wherever it triumphed.

But even some capitalists are having their doubts. Fletcher Byrom, chairman of the Koppers Company, recently told a Bicentennial symposium in Leesburg, Va., that the system we have is "going down the drain" and that his company operates on the theory that free enterprise may not survive in the United States more than five more years.

Byrom is led to this dire forecast, to be sure, not because of any belief that capitalism carries within itself the seeds of its own doom, as the Marxists preach, but because in relying more and more on government to create material abundance and to decide what is to be produced and for whom, we are destroying the free enterprise system.

Be all this as it may, the encouraging fact remains that free enterprise is still very much an American tradition.

It is said that 90 per cent of all American companies employ fewer than 100 persons. Each year, about 400,000 Americans start new companies.

They also have a high failure rate, unfortunately. In fact, fully two-thirds of all enterprises launched each year are wiped out by the fifth year.

With the casualty toll among entrepeneurs and small businessmen so high, what is it that impels so many individuals to take control of their own lives, to trade the familiar and secure for the unknown — to take the big chance?

A leading authority on the subject, Prof. Albert Shapero of the University of Texas Graduate School of Business, writes that "one important personality characteristic of the entrepeneur is the degree to which he feels he can affect the world around him . . . A related characteristic of the entrepeneur is a need for independence."

In studies conducted by Shapero, people who had formed companies were asked what it would take to get them to be a manager or employe in another company. Fifty-eight per cent said they would never consider working for someone else. When asked what they would do if they lost their companies, 72 per cent replied that they would promptly start a new one.

According to Theodore G. Schad Jr., president of Lou Ana Foods, Inc., and himself an entrepeneur since 1971, "entrepeneurs seem to fit a particular mold . . . are usually independent, ego-oriented and materially motivated."

Most of the nation's largest corporations exist today, he points out, because the Henry Fords, George Eastmans, Andrew Mellons and others had the same drives.

He adds, in an echo of Byrom's warning, that "to survive in the next few years will be the entrepeneur's severest challenge" and that if he does survive, by the end of this century he "may be the savior of the corporate business world."

Both gentlemen may be overstating things, but one prediction does seem safe to make: Whatever the perils and problems facing the free enterprise system in America, if we ever lose — or kill — the spirit of entrepeneurship on which the country was built, then the Marxist will, indeed, write the obituary.

Citizen brutality

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to Miss Nichols' letter in the March 10 paper regarding Little Louis'. She refers often to "police brutality" and how the innocent patrons were victims of flying nightsticks and Mace. She feels that since there were no guns or knives pulled, the situation was not as bad as it appeared. She further referred to two "innocent" patrons who required hospital attention.

She doesn't refer to how a quiet group drinking beer can suddenly turn into a vicious mob attacking two officers that responded to a call for help in protecting property from four fighting subjects. She doesn't refer to how these two officers were bodily thrown across a room by 25-35 people, and then set upon, having their uniforms and equipment torn and wrenched from their custody.

She neglected to state how, when these officers requested help, and six additional officers showed up, they too were set upon, by not only angry bodies, but flying debris such as ashtrays, bottles, glasses, and tables. She forgot to state that out of a total of eight officers, seven wound up with injuries, some so severe as to keep an officer off duty for almost a week resulting from being hit over the head with a beer bottle and thrown bodily across a barroom table by several subjects splintering the table in two.

She does talk about Mace and night sticks. But she didn't talk about how the crowd refused to disperse after verbal orders to do so. And how they continued to advance and attack the officers who were still greatly outnumbered.

Frankly I am sick of hearing about "police brutality". I think the general public should be made more aware of the "citizen brutality" that occurs much too often.

If an officer is charged with brutality, he is judged by his fellow officers and investigated by his department. From there he is investigated by numerous outside agencies. And even when found innocent of the charges, the stigma stays. But if a citizen is charged with brutality on an officer, it is passed off by saying that is part of the "job", part of what they are getting paid for.

Well, I for one feel they are not getting paid to be abused, spat on, beat upon, or thrown bodily through the air atop a table. They are paid to protect life and property, and if in so doing ruffle up a few feathers, then it is about time the word is heard from the "quiet minority". The public should start reading about the indignities that they suffer almost every time they are called upon to perform their job, and not just hear the cries of the few law breakers that jeopardize innocent people.

These few cry "foul" to cover up their own crimes, to raise the voice of the innocents against the tyranny they want people to believe in. People feel they are an evil necessity. But no matter the odds, when they are called on for help, they respond, even knowing the abuses and dangers that may be present. And even knowing that, although they did their job to the best of their ability, there will be those that will "Monday morning quarter back them". And they will continue to protect the lives and property of all citizens, law abiding or otherwise. — B. Garcia, La Verne

WASHINGTON — The "Six Million Dollar Man," as most television addicts know, is a bionic creation who combines humanity and technology. The government has used a similar combination to produce its own scientific wonder, the bionic postal service. The result, however, has been the "One Billion Dollar Boondoggle."

The TV show, of course, is an adventurous invention. The postal production, unfortunately is the awful truth. The new bionic system, which uses men and machines to process bulk mail in the Space Age, has been misdirecting and mangling packages at an alarming rate.

Parcels intended for home delivery have wound up instead in the musty warehouses and city dumps of Chicago, Detroit and Washington, D.C.

Now we have learned that the bulk mail center in Memphis, Tenn., should be added to the menace list. In Memphis, too, mangled mail has been put out with the garbage. Our inside sources have reason to believe that package mail is being detained or destroyed in every one of the 21 bulk mail facilities throughout the United States.

It has cost the taxpayers more than $1 billion for this kind of service. At the risk of saying we told you so, we have been warning about the debacle for five years. As early as January 1971, we reported that the first bulk mail center had already cost $60 million more than it was supposed to.

First of all, it was constructed, inexplicably, on swampland near Secaucas, N.J. Because of the boggy ground, the pilings had to be sunk to an extraordinary depth. One day, the workmen made an unexpected, unpleasant discovery. The pilings pierced an underground field of fermenting waste and the odor of methane gas almost overpowered them.

The Secaucas experience, however, didn't stop the intrepid postal planners. Then-Postmaster General Ted Klassen, who subsequently was forced to resign because of our revelations, called for an obligatory study. This was conducted by James Hargrove, a consultant with Nixon credentials, who closeted himself for a few weeks and emerged with his findings. "Well," he said, "the rocket's on its way to the moon."

Thus encouraged, Klassen moved into the Space Age. His successor, Postmaster General Ben Bailar, has now admitted privately that the whole bulk mail concept was a mistake.

It was proposed by Richard Nixon's first postmaster general, Winton Blount, whose construction firm has wound up with $91 million in contracts to build four of the bulk mail centers. The system was conceived, one postal official now says, "on the back of an envelope."

Under the system, package mail must be ferried to the 21 central locations to be processed by high-volume machines. Many packages must be hauled for long distances to be routed through the centers. For example, a parcel moving from El Paso to Midland, Texas, would have to travel 1,483 miles out of its way in order to pass through a bulk mail center.

The slow haul usually counteracts any time that might be gained from the fast processing machines. What comes out of the machines, in any event, aren't always the same parcels that are dumped in. For these mechanical marvels, which cost $150 million to develop, often rip, tear and snarl the packages as if they had been mauled by some ferocious beast.

Our past warnings, meanwhile, have been confirmed by a congressional investigation. A confidential report calls the Postal Service's mechanization attempt a costly failure. "The whole system," states the report, "has been laden with superfluous gimmickry."

For example, an "Automatic Vehicle Identification" system electronically chronicles the arrival and departure of trucks at the bulk mail centers. Previously, the report notes, "this function was handled very easily by a simple file card index."

As another example of overengineering, the centers have installed complex, telescoping conveyors. Suggests the report: "A simple piggyback conveyer is much easier to operate, cheaper, considerably less dangerous and less prone to jamming."

When a package jams in the conveyor, the address is often torn off. Then the package has to be opened to seek some clue where it is supposed to be delivered. Then it has to be rewrapped and processed through the precarious machinery again.

Many parcels simply have been thrown out. Others have been tossed into corners in post offices, trucks and other hiding places where investigators hopefully won't notice them.

Another dangerous mechanism is the sack shake-out machine. This contrivance lifts sacks full of parcels and dumps them, sometimes letting them drop as much as five feet.

Youth fitness declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government-sponsored study shows the improvement in youth fitness, marked in the 1960s, has ended. American girls scored only slightly better during the past 10 years, while boys' performances declined a bit.

Simon McNeely of the U.S. Office of Education speculated that scores may have leveled off because economic conditions have led to a de-emphasis in physical education programs or because schools aren't emphasizing physical fitness as much. In the early 1960s, President John Kennedy pushed physical education.

Girls, who scored higher in 39 out of 48 skill tests between 1958 and 1965, showed better performances last year in seven of 40 categories, and a decline in the average 600-yard walk for 10-year-olds.

Boys, who improved in 54 out of 56 events between 1958 and 1965, had unchanged performances in 39 categories. Fourteen-year-old boys scored lower average efforts in the long jump.

The study was released Thursday.

McNeely said physical fitness was stressed in Dade County, Fla., schools and LaSierra High School in San Juan, Calif., last year and performances improved — indicating American youngsters did not reach their maximum potential in 1965.

The new study confirmed conclusions reached in 1958 and 1965 that girls appear to reach their physical peak when they are 13 or 14, while boys progressively improve as they grow older.

The sampling of 7,800 boys and girls in 108 schools nationwide showed that they performed about as well on the Youth Fitness Test last year as pupils did in 1965.

The University of Michigan study sample represented about 12 million boys and girls aged 10 through 17 who took the Youth Fitness Test. Nearly 342,000 qualified for the Presidential Physical Fitness Award last year by finishing in the 85th percentile or higher.

The girls' scores improved in these seven categories: 600-yard run-walk by 13, 14, 15 and 17 years olds, the long jump by 13 and 14 year olds and the flexed-arm hang by 14 year olds.

Just in jest

Our science fiction experts have envisioned the Six Million Dollar Man and the Bionic Woman. And, I warn you, don't underestimate their ability to eventually make such far out marvels a reality. Already they have produced "Bionic Hair;" and I have come to firmly believe that in this enlightened age anything is possible.

Why not, when for only $2 you can buy a book which reveals "Ancient Concealed Knowledge and History's Most Guarded Secrets," or when for only a little larger cash outlay one can acquire a course in "Instant Memory"?

Jerry Brown for President?

EARL G. WATERS

Casting aside his airy aloofness from mundane matters, Gov. Jerry Brown has vaulted himself into the presidential hustings, not just as a favorite son but a full fledged contender.

In the doing he appears to be foregoing his "anti-politician" image which is the very thing that gained him national attention. It is a role which he played to the hilt, rejecting not only out of state bids but speechmaking at various events within the state which have been traditional with former governors. In all instances his reason was the press of duties.

So his sudden decision to leap into the California presidential primary, and perhaps some others, is not only contradictory but a direct renege on his campaign pledge to tend to the business of governor.

A host of other inconsistencies accompany the decision, not the least of which is his surprising turnabout in the matter of face to face debates. Studiously avoiding such confrontations in his campaign for governor he now says he is anxious for the widest possible discussions of issues with other candidates.

It may not have dawned upon him yet but there is much more at stake than his "anti-politician" image which is now sacrificed as he shows himself to be just another ambitious politician. First off the fiction of "enjoying wide popularity" will be put to the acid test. And, having elevated himself to national stature, his performance as governor will come under the close scrutiny of the nation's top newsmen and politicians. The reporters will be firing hard questions and will be far more demanding than those he has faced to date. And the big league politicians will be furnishing the ammunition.

He advances his new candidacy with the promise to put forth a program which he has termed "equal society". Chief among its planks will be full employment and conservation of natural resources. He says "I stand for a certain kind of government and philosophy." Californians are already familiar with his generalities. Throughout the gubernatorial campaign Brown talked of the "New Spirit" but none could pin him down on program. After more than a year in office, legislators are still not sure what his program is, if any.

He says "Based upon what I've done and based upon my philosophy, people can make up their minds?" But what is his philosophy and what has he done? Other than talking a good game of fiscal responsibility which has delighted moderates and conservatives while angering liberals, the record to date is quite blank. He can't even fullfil his responsibilities to make appointments and many board memberships and judicial posts have been vacant for more than a year.

True, he did make a Herculean effort to resolve the farm labor problem. But his solution has come a cropper and hangs in limbo. Likewise, his attempts at solving the medical malpractice crisis have led nowhere. As for most of the other major problems of state, there has been little or no visible effort. He has proposed nothing to the Legislature to ease unemployment, inflation or property taxes. He talks about crime but offers nothing.

His philosophy however does emerge as he seeks to revolutionize existing state agencies by transforming them, regardless of their statutory functions, into social reform and welfare operations. And also in his riding roughshod over the rights of the majority as he installs selected minorities into office thus practicing a form of discrimination that is worse than that is worse than that which he is attempting to overcome.

Even in the area of fiscal management, where he is getting all the plaudits with his stand on no new taxes, the true record is that state taxes have been upped a billion dollars during his short time in office. He explains this away by stating he meant no new general taxes so the $600 million increase in unemployment taxes and the added corporation and other special taxes don't count.

It is not likely the national press will overlook his philosophy. Nor will it escape them that "what he has done" is nothing. And they will be quick to point out his limited experience in state government and total lack of it in national affairs. They may conclude Californians paid him $35,000 a year for four years to run for governor while serving as secretary of state and are now paying him $49,000 a year to run for president. They may also conclude one Californian as president was one too many. At 37 Brown would have been wiser to stick to his last and demonstrate by results his ability to serve as governor.

Even store agrees wait was too long

In April 1975 my cassette player-recorder broke down. I had purchased it from a chain department store. I took it to another branch of the same chain to be repaired.

Two months later someone called saying it had been repaired. I picked it up and paid $46 for the repair. When I got it home and tested it, it still sounded the way it did when I took it in to be fixed.

I took it back the following day and was told it would be repaired at no cost to me.

Two months went by with no word from the firm. When I telephoned, I was told that the cassette player had been sent to the wrong factory first but that it was now at the right place to repaired.

Another two months went by. I called again. This time the store was waiting for parts which had been ordered. Still another month went by and I called again. The people at the store said I would be called back. A few days later I received a card saying the parts were still on order and if I didn't want to wait any longer the factory would return my cassette player and an adjustment would be made of the repair fee I had paid.

I decided since the recorder was already at the factory and parts were ordered and I had already paid for the repair that it should not be much longer.

Well, another two months have gone by with no word from the department store. I would appreciate any help you can give me on this. —J.A., Chino.

The manager of the store where you took your cassette player for repairs said you were justified in feeling your problem had gone on much too long.

The card you received was sent by mistake, he told us.

He located an electronics man who could repair your set and paid him $69 to do so. He also refunded the $46 you had paid for the work. A representative of the store delivered the repaired set to you.

This is in reply to and support of the letter from R. K., Montclair, published March 12, regarding the faulty traffic signal.

Sometime in September or October 1975 in the afternoon during the rush hour I observed all the signals at the intersection of Holt Boulevard and Central Avenue on STEADY GREEN including all turn lanes. It was hectic going through the intersection because of the confusion.

I phoned the police station 15 to 20 minutes later and was told a police unit had been sent to direct traffic.

Also since that time I observed on numerous occasions the road department working on or testing the control unit for that intersection.

Perhaps Montclair's city engineer should check the maintenance and inspection records for that control unit because the "fail safe unit" was not working the date I observed it. —R.J., Claremont

She thought each might have happened because a driver wasn't paying attention until she was driving toward Pomona on Holt Boulevard recently and noticed that all lights in every direction were green at Central Avenue.

She went home, phoned the police and was told an accident had just happened at the intersection.

She gave us the date and approximate time of the accident. We asked Carl Sawtelle, city engineer, to look into the matter.

He said the police report of the accident showed cars were running a red light and one driver was cited for that offense.

Also, he said that when traffic signals fail to function properly the fail-safe unit switches them to flashing.

We sent Sawtelle a copy of your letter in advance of publication as a possible contribution to public safety.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Tuesday, March 23, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Normally you're pretty good at zeroing-in on specific targets, but today you could spread your forces too thin.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't delegate responsibilities today to those who can't be relied upon. It could cause you needless problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will have difficulty today in getting one who is indebted to you to ante up, especially if you try pressure tactics.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your mate and others of your family may have to be handled with extra tact today. Bend a little to keep them pleased.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't expect co-workers today to do more than you're prepared to do yourself. Set a poor example, and they'll follow it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you purchase something today from a firm you've never dealt with before, make sure you can return it if necessary.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make an extra effort to fulfill promises that are now due. Reneging on them could hurt your image.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't do anything today against your better judgment just to even-up an old score. It will only complicate the issue.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes you can be too generous with the wrong people. This may be such a day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could be spending too much time and effort on goals you may be displeased with, once they're attained.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Others may find you hard to understand today because of your reluctance to express what's really disturbing you.

Your Birthday March 23

A course you'll choose this year may not be an easy one, but you'll know better than anyone else its true values. Don't let others who are unaware of its merits discourage you.

Ann Landers

Overeating much like alcoholism

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are in our mid-40s. We have plenty of money and will soon be by ourselves. Jean (fictitious name) has always had a weight problem, but kept it under control until two years ago. This past summer she put on so much excess poundage that she weighs at least one-third more than she ought to.

I have this thing about fat people. I think they are disgusting, weak-willed, self-indulgent and stupid. Fat kills and they ought to know it.

When I see Jean waddling around, out of breath, looking like a stuffed sausage in her expensive dresses (splitting at the seams), I well up with resentment. Our sex life is almost nil, because I just can't get turned on by a fat slob. Then I feel guilty.

I've discussed my feelings with Jean and suggested several self-help groups, but she always ends up crying and insists I should love her the way she is.

Does the woman have a disease, like alcoholism? Please help me see this thing in the proper light. — Turned Off And Guilty

Dear T.O.: Overeating is very much like alcoholism. Your wife hates being fat, but she has some severe psychological problems that keep her mouth working overtime.

Urge Jean to get a complete physical checkup (to rule out an organic problem), then suggest help for her head because that's probably where the problem originates.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a secretary in a large agency office. There are only four people here, two executives and two secretaries.

My problem is the other secretary. As I write this letter, she's been on the phone with her mother for 40 minutes and is still going strong.

Last Friday I kept track. She made 20 calls to friends and relatives. Our desks are fairly close and her constant gossiping and yakking distracts me no end.

The woman has seniority, which poses something of a problem. But I'm sure her boss has no idea of the extent to which she is taking advantage of him. I feel like "an accessory to the crime." Am I? What should I do? — Ding Dong Fed Up

Dear Ding: If there's a "crime" it has nothing to do with you. Finking, however, is something else. In order to fink, you have to be one. I don't recommend it.

"Motor-mouth" must be a super-efficient dame, if she can get her work done and spend so much time gabbing. I wonder how she does it.

Dear Ann: Our 19-year-old daughter was married (against our wishes) to a fellow I'll call Fred. He's in the Navy. I'm ashamed to say she has been running around and is now pregnant. The baby cannot possibly be Fred's, because she hasn't seen him in a year.

The girl is getting maternity care at the naval base here. It is my understanding that when the baby is born the Red Cross notifies the father. How can we spare him the shock of knowing his wife gave birth to a child that he will know isn't his? — More Gray Hairs

Dear Friend: Your daughter should write to Fred immediately and tell him the facts. When he returns, the two of them will decide whether or not they can make a life together. But Fred should be told about the baby at once — by her.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Joe Firman

Baseball season a ho-hummer

Well, now that baseball season is over, it's time we got down to the annual awards for those who have done the most to baseball.

I have been an avid baseball fan since I first saw Babe Ruth loft one into the right field bleachers of Yankee Stadium — and that was quite a few years ago. (I could almost have caught the homer except that I was 30 rows away and holding a hot dog and a Coke. The hot dog cost my Dad 10 cents and the Coke a nickle, so I didn't want to drop them.)

But all this spring training delay, the players' strike and the owners' lockout have dampened my ardor for the game, and I really don't care if they play a season or not. There's always girls' volleyball.

The overgrown Little Leaguers in jockey caps and knee britches are not, of course, dragging their cleats over such mundane things as salary. The play-for-pay boys are happy as a cat with a dish of cream. Did you know that the AVERAGE major league salary is $48,000 a year? Just for catching fly balls and beating out bunts. That's more than the average newspaper columnist makes!

Furthermore, a baseball player who retires after 10 years of sliding into second, draws $1,200 a month at the age of 55. Now 55 is not exactly the sunset trail, right? You don't qualify as a senior citizen. And while $14,000 is not what it was 10 years ago (or last year), still it's a nice little stipend to be rolling in with your Social Security checks.

Most major league players are satisfied with their salaries, not exactly foot soldiers in the war on poverty. What all the furor is about is freedom of choice the American (and National) way — the option to jump to whatever club will offer the biggest bonus. This would obviously lead to a bank-night bidding competition in which the best players would go to the richest team. For example, the New York Yankees might buy a pitcher like, say Catfish Hunter, thereby guaranteeing themselves the pennant.

To simplify the whole matter for those of you who have been dozing in front of What's My Line, the agents of the players want to be able to cast off their bonds every five or six years and offer their services to any team. But the legal representatives of the owners told the union negotiators that the emancipation proclamation should come only every 10 years, and the number of teams the player could offer to play for should be limited to the bottom three in each league. This is known as one-on-one, or hand-checking. But the lawyers for the players told the mediators' representatives that they were going to insist that the tax agents of the owners tell the press agents of the conciliators that the baseball players, whatever THEY are, want to renegotiate every two years, four months and 13 days, whichever comes first. All players declared free agents will be sold to the San Diego Padres.

I hope that's clear. If it is, explain it to me. The season will start on July 4 with Marvin Miller's All-Stars taking on Bowie Kuhn's Commandos in Puerto Rico.

The way things are going, the "Heidi" show will pre-empt the World Series and nobody will care.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am very worried about my 3-year-old son. He has a very bad sore throat. I took him to the doctor and he told me he has quinsy.

I would appreciate it if you would explain what that is and what causes it. The doctor told me my son inherited it from me. As a child I had frequent sore throats and weak tonsils. I try to take the best care of my children's health as I can.

My son became sick on Monday, and on Tuesday he was a little worse. He said his throat did not hurt. Then Wednesday morning he tried to eat his breakfast and he couldn't swallow, so I took him right over to the doctor. How can a child get that sick so fast and not complain? I feel very helpless and bewildered. I asked the doctor and he just said it was a bad sore throat and that he hadn't seen such a case in years.

DEAR READER — The term quinsy is used for the development of an abscess around the tonsil as a complication of a severe sore throat, usually a strep throat. The tissue around the tonsil area is fairly loose and an abscess can form and become quite large. It may produce severe swelling of the neck. Certainly it's enough to cause difficulty for a child in swallowing.

The usual nature of quinsy is to cause a sudden change in illness just as you described. The child may be getting along very well with an ordinary sore throat and then have a sudden marked swelling of the throat, difficulty in swallowing, fever and evidence of severe illness. Just keep in mind that it is simply an abscess and it is caused by an infection. It can be treated and it is not that dangerous today because of the treatments which are available.

This was once a dreaded and fairly frequent complication of strep throat but since strep throats are largely controlled today with antibiotics it is seldom seen. That's why your doctor said he hadn't seen such a case for years.

Your son did not inherit quinsy from you. It is an infection caused by bacteria. What your doctor probably meant was that your son inherited a tendency to throat infections which allowed him to get the sore throat to begin with. It is true that some people seem to be more resistant to infections than others but the exact reasons for this are not always clear.

For more information on sore throats and colds send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 3-1, The Cold, Flu Group. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

THERE IS a wide variety of questions, comments and other things in my mailbag. Recently I received a printed statement from one of the readers which was short, simple and full of wisdom. It read as follows, "Don't be afraid to ask stupid questions. They're a lot easier to handle than stupid mistakes."

I'm inclined to agree and such a philosophy is certainly important where health is concerned. A simple question can sometimes solve important problems that have far reaching effects on one's life and health.

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverbs such as 'second hand low' for some time."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. Thus, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play.

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Jim: "If East produces the king of hearts, South can run five clubs and then go after diamonds. This time a wrong guess will cost him his contract."

Ask the Jacobys

We have several more questions about the bonus honors in rubber and party bridge.

The answer is that it is awarded to the side of the player who holds the honors whether he is declarer, dummy or a defender.

7 cities have streetcars

How can you call yourself a traveler of great experience, if you can't name all seven of those American towns that still have streetcars? You know about Boston, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Newark, New Orleans and San Francisco, certainly. But did you leave out Shaker Heights, Ohio? Newest of the streetcars running the tracks these days is 23 years old. The record shows more than 1,800 are still going strong or otherwise.

HURRICANES

Hurricanes in the year 1800 were named by some of the record-keepers in honor of saints. More recently, they've been named after women. The lady libbers object, though. So a bureau in Australia this year identified the first hurricane of the season there as Alan, a masculine moniker if ever there were one. New trend maybe. Seniors choose artists

The annual Seniors' Choice Show of art and art history students at Scripps College will be made up of the works of five Mexican artists who had a profound effect on the art in their country and abroad.

"Artists of the Mexican Renaissance" will be held in the Clark Humanities Museum Friday to April 29. The public is invited to the opening night reception from 7 to 10 p.m. Regular gallery hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. on week days.

Paintings and graphics by Jose Clemente Orozco, Jean Charlot, Ramos Martinez, David Alfaro Siqueiros and Diego Rivera will be on display. The artists were educated in Mexico and Europe and worked for a time in the United States.

Martinez was painting the "Flower Vendors" mural in the Margaret Fowler Garden at Scripps at the time of his death in 1946. The fresco was never completed. A blow-up of one of the Martinez panels will be included in the Clark Museum show. One of Orozco's more famous murals, "Prometheus," was painted on the wall of Frary Hall at Pomona College in 1930.

A catalog of the "Artists of the Mexican Renaissance" exhibit is being produced by students who are organizing and arranging the show under the direction of senior Ann Matteson. Many of the drawings and paintings in the exhibit are on loan from individuals and from the B. Lewin Gallery of Beverly Hills, the Dalzell Hatfield Galleries of Los Angeles and from Zeitlin and Ver Brugge of Los Angeles.

DOROTHY HWANG

Pianist to give recital

Concert pianist Dorothy Kwang, professor of music at Azusa Pacific College, will present a recital in the college's lecture hall at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Admission is free.

The program will include Shubert's Sonata in B Flat Major; Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11 and Concert Etude in F Minor; and Ravel's "Gaspard de la Nuit."

Mrs. Hwang holds bachelor and master of music degrees in piano from USC where she taught for two years. She has given concerts throughout Southern California and the Far East and teaches the Suzuki piano program at Azusa Pacific.

MSAC offers exhibit

"Works by Six Artists," an exhibition of contemporary pieces done in unconventional materials, will open with a reception in the Mt. San Antonio College art gallery at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The reception and show are open to the public without charge.

Gerald Brane, Michael Cochran, Michael Dvortcsak, Laddie Dill and Tom Fricano will exhibit their creative use of unexpected media in the Main Gallery. Steve Seemayer's mixed media and unusual perspectives will be displayed in the West Gallery.

Gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Special showings may also be arranged with Gallery director Michael Preble.

ON YOUR MARK . . . GET SET. . .—Cal Poly students line up for an Evel Knievel-type jump in the children's fantasy, "The Hide-and-Seek Odyssey of Madeline Gimple." The comedy will be staged in the University Theater at 11 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday and at 1 p.m. Saturday. From left are Craig Marshall, Christie Schultz, Scott Kiphart, Joan Minich and Steve Fowler.

TV star in new series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — McLean Stevenson, who quit "M-A-S-H" with the prospect of a musical series, will be doing a half-hour situation comedy instead.

Stevenson, who played Colonel Blake for three years, will star next season on NBC in "The Prime of Life," about a middle-aged businessman who is thwarted in his plans to retire early.

Organ recital set at Pomona church

Douglas Morehead, assistant professor of music at La Verne College, will present an organ recital at the First Christian Church, 1751 N. Park Ave., Pomona, at 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

Moorehead will play selections by Bach, Clerambault and Franck, and "When the Morning Stars Sang Together," a composition for electronic tape and organ by Daniel Pinkham.

Moorehead's principal teacher was Herbert Nanney, and he has had master classes with Catherine Crozier, Carl Weinrich and Flor Peeters. He taught at Contra Costa College and Stanford University, where he received his doctorate in musical arts. He is a member of the Pasadena chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

News show slated

"The Esienhower-Kennedy Years," a group of Fox Movietone newsreels covering 1953-1964, will be shown in Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is $2.50.

This is the sixth and final showing in the series being put on by the Curtain Raisers, support group for Garrison.

Mehta switches to New York

MRS. LEE BASHORE

Chapter elects officers

Mrs. Lee T. Bashore of Claremont has been re-elected to a second term as president of Chapter DV, PEO Sisterhood.

Other officers for the new year are: Mmes. Francis P. Rowlands, vice president; Oregon Smith, corresponding secretary; Robert Barry, treasurer; Lizabelle Schwenker, chaplain; and Alfred Dakin, guard.

Delegates to the state convention will be Mrs. Bashore and Mrs. Harold McGreight.

The chapter will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Zanin, Montclair, for a noon luncheon. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. N. G. Worsley and Mrs. L. A. Cline of Ontario.

"The Arts Today" will be the program of Mrs. A. L. Palmer of Upland.

April 10 nuptials charted

Miss Deanna Rae Keser of 4313 Francis St., Chino, and Joseph Melvin Rentz of 24033 Meadow Falls Drive, Diamond Bar, will be married on April 10 at the First United Methodist Church of Upland.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Raymond Keser of Chino and a 1975 graduate of Chino High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rentz of Diamond Bar, the groom-to-be is a 1974 graduate of Ganesha High School. He is employed by the Thrifty Corp.

Dental Society to meet

The Pomona Valley Dental Assistant Society will meet for a clinic session and dinner on Wednesday evening.

Dr. Robert H. Propper will discuss "Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery" at the meeting in the Arbor Restaurant, Upland.

Students from Chaffey College and Cora Harbushka will present clinic during the social hour at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be at 7:30 p.m.

Reservations are due by today and may be made by calling 593-1098 or 593-9609.

Christian Women to view fashions

The theme is "Wearing of the Green" for the Wednesday noon luncheon and fashion show of the Pomona Valley Christian Women's Club at Griswold's in Claremont.

Starting the meeting will be a fashion show by Fashion Boutique of Claremont. Special music will be presented by Beverly Maudy, vocalist.

The speaker will be Mrs. Marie Wiebe, a nurse and wife of a surgeon. Mrs. Wiebe grew up in China and later attended Kansas University. She now resides in Camarillo.

Mrs. Wiebe will talk about her mother's experiences in China before Mrs. Wiebe was born and also about her own recollections. She will compare "old" China and the present People's Republic.

The meeting is open to all women in the valley. Reservations are requested and should be made by today by calling 593-1254 or 986-4309. Free child care will be provided if the telephone chairmen are advised of the need when the reservation is made.

Hard to save

No matter what Poor Richard had to say about a penny saved being a penny earned, it's harder than ever to save money these days. While some gold-star savers manage a respectable reserve fund, the rest of us wonder where the money goes.

Luncheon set by PEO unit

Chapter PR, PEO Sisterhood, will meet Wednesday noon for a luncheon and program at the home of Mrs. John Burma, 114 Monterey Drive, Claremont.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS By Bil Keane

"If we ask you something will you say 'yes'?"

Miss Ketterman wed in chapel

MRS. LAWRENCE BROCKETT

The former Miss Diana Ketterman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Ketterman of Pomona. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brockett of Valinda.

Honor attendant was Kim Etherington of Walnut.

Other attendants were: Misses Gwen Osborn, Polly Lucas, and Kathy Williams, the flower girl was Barbara Etherington. The ushers were David White, Ed Godlewski and Michael Baughn.

The couple left the reception at Mr. and Mrs. Bill Berezik's home for a wedding trip to Yosemite.

Tone test

To choose the right tone of blusher or bronzer for your skin, look at your palms to determine your skin tone, or pinch your cheek to determine if your "flush" is tawny or pink or whatever.

A pellet of sleet and a hailstone may look very much alike, but there is a difference.

Sleet is simply rain or partly melted snow that freezes into hard beads of ice as it falls through freezing air on its way from the cloud to the ground.

Hail is formed differently than sleet. Hailstones start when raindrops formed in the lower part of a thundercloud are blown up to the colder top of the cloud where they freeze and are coated with snow.

As the bits of ice fall down through the cloud where more rain is forming, they are coated with more moisture. Again the wind flings them back up into the icy air.

Each time the hailstones rise and fall, new layers of ice and snow are added. Finally, the hailstones grow so heavy they fall to earth.

An easy way to tell if a lump of ice is hail or sleet is to split it in two. If it is made up of layers of ice it is hail. But if it is solid ice, it is probably sleet.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Twelve Year Effort Ends With Unprecedented Flavor In Low Tar Smoke.

The greatest challenge to cigarette-makers in recent years has been how to make a low tar cigarette with good taste.

Many have tried.

Philip Morris succeeded.

The cigarette is called MERIT. It delivers only 9 mg. of tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet MERIT delivers astonishing flavor.

Key Flavor Ingredients Of Tobacco Isolated

By isolating certain "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have developed a way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through for you.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Taste-Tested By People Like You

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

Muchos servicios proveidos para personas mayores

Pulcramente situada en la parte posterior del edificio del Juzgado Municipal de Pomona esta la Habitacion 120; pero las personas que alli concurren no lo hacen como testigos o para pagar alguna multa de transito.

Ahi esta situado el Centro de Informacion y Referencias para personas mayores, el cual cumple su sexto aniversario este mes, bajo los auspicios del municipio de Pomona y del Condado de Los Angeles.

ESTHER LANDIN

Hasta el ano pasado estuvo atendido solamente por voluntarios, pero mediante fondos obtenidos del condado y del la organizacion local CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act), actualmente los empleados son pagados.

G. Nelson Lortie es el cordinador de la oficina, un lider por muchos anos de las personas mayores en el Valle.

Los otros empleados son Harry Posnack, la Sra. Esther Landin y la Sra. Velma Rush.

La Sra. Landin es la miembro bilingue del grupo. Sus horas son de 8 a.m. a 12 m.

Mr. Posnack ayuda a los residentes hispano-parlantes a resolver sus problemas en la Seguridad Social y con los impuestos a pagar.

Los servicios que facilita el Centro incluyen ayuda en la preparacion de los formularios de impuestos, enfatizando los puntos favorables a los ancianos, tales como el programa de asistencia a los propietarios ancianos, por el cual una cantidad substancial de los impuestos pagados pueden ser restituidos.

Aunque la informacion acerca de los impuestos y los consejos son las requisitorias mas comunes en el Centro, el mayor numero de problemas que se la presentan estan relacionados con la Seguridad Social.

Y si la informacion no se tiene en el Centro, la persona mayor sera dirigida a la agencia local que puede proveerle de la ayuda solicitada.

Y como si esto no fuese suficiente, aquellas personas mayores que no pueden venir al Centro obtener la informacion por telefono. Si fuere necesario, el Centro puede inclusive acudir en auxilio del anciano a su propia casa.

"Los miercoles de 9 de la manana a 1 de la tarde tendra un abogado para auxiliar a los ancianos en sus cuestiones legales", dijo Lortie.

Starts Sunday, March 28.

A new course "Alcohol and Alcoholism," will be presented for 10 weeks beginning Wednesday at CAL POLY POMONA.

Classes will be at 6 p.m. in the Kellogg Mansion and will be taught by William E. Lombardo. Four units of upper division credit will be given.

The course, open to the general public, will be of special interest to individuals currently involved in professional and para-professional work dealing with the social, psychological, economic, and familial aspects of alcohol and alcoholism.

Registration can be made by calling Project SPAN, 598-4381, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Geoffrey Bell, one of Great Britain's foremost merchant bankers, will travel from London to deliver the International Telephone and Telegraph Lecture at CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE on Wednesday. The event is open to the public by ticket only, at 4 p.m. in Bauer Lecture Hall.

Bell, director of J. Henry Schroder Wagg & Co., Ltd., a merchant bank, and of Schroder International, Ltd., selected the topic "The Eurodollar Market and the Capital Shortage." He will discuss three important facets of the world capital shortage — floating exchange rates and their effects on international trade and investments; OPEC flows and the stability of international financial markets; and capital problems of the less developed countries on the international system.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 626-8511, ext. 2342.

"Mental Health Emergencies," AN EXTENSION COURSE designed for persons frequently involved in crisis situations, will be offered in Ontario starting Monday.

Suicidal, homicidal, alcohol, drug, juvenile and family emergencies are among the mental health problems considered in the Cal State San Bernardino extension course, offered in cooperation with the San Bernardino County Mental Health Department.

Meetings will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Mondays, through June 7 in the Ontario Community Hospital conference room.

Legal issues in providing emergency care will also be covered in the class, designed primarily for policemen, educators, clergymen, hospital employes and others who deal with crises.

Coordinator is Leopoldo Villela, psychologist with the San Bernardino County Mental Health Department.

Fee is $18 for the course, which carries three units of extension credit in psychology.

A free bulletin covering this course and those in other San Bernardino and Riverside county communities may be obtained from the Cal State Office of Continuing Education.

Beginning Tuesday, a four-session "Human Sexuality Education" workshop will be offered at the CLAREMONT COLLEGE Counseling Center.

The intent of the workshop is to provide a comfortable atmosphere in which participants can gain more basic knowledge, self awareness, opposite sex awareness, and acceptance and responsibility for themselves as sexual human beings.

Each of the four sessions will last three hours.

Leaders for the workshop will be Martin J. Thommes and Linda Ades. Thommes and Mrs. Ades have been conducting the human sexuality program at the Claremont College Counseling Center for the past two years.

Workshop dates will be: Tuesday, April 6, April 27, and May 4. All sessions will be from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Counseling Center.

To register, or for more information, persons may call Mrs. Ades, 626-8511 Ext. 3038. Workshop fee is $40.

Two physicist-philosophers will speak at the CLAREMONT COLLEGES Tuesday and Friday under the auspices of the Blaisdell Institute and the Center for Process Studies of the School of Theology at Claremont.

David Bohm, professor of theoretical physics at Birbeck College, University of London, will give a talk entitled "Krishnamurti Speaks to a Scientist" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Galileo Pryne, Harvey Mudd College. He is a board member of England's Krishnamurti Foundation.

Francis Zucker, who is on the staff of the Max Planck Institute in Starberg, Germany, and at the Center for the Philosophy and History of Science at Boston University, will talk on "Overcoming Reductionism in Science" on Friday at 3:30 p.m. in Galileo Hall.

Both talks are free and open to the public.

The fourth Zarem Lecturer at HARVEY MUDD COLLEGE this year is to be David Bohm of Birbeck College, University of London, who will deliver a free public lecture on Monday evening, and conduct a seminar Tuesday afternoon, April 6.

Bohm's teaching and research assignments have been abroad, first at the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil; Technion, Haifa, Israel; Bristol University, England; and finally Birbeck College of the University of London.

On Monday at 8 p.m. in Galileo Hall, Harvey Mudd campus, Bohm will lecture on the topic "Imagination and Reason in Scientific Research and in Life As a Whole." On April 6 at 3:45 in Galileo Pryne, he will conduct a seminar on the topic "A Sketch of a New Account of Quantum Theory, Relativity, Thermodynamics, and Statistical Mechanics."

EDWARD C. BANFIELD

Harvard prof at Scripps

Edward C. Banfield, professor of government at Harvard University, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, Claremont.

The professor, who has co-authored 11 books, many dealing with urban politics, will discuss "The Problem of the Cities: Real and Not So Real."

Open to the public free of charge, the lecture is sponsored by the Scripps Association for the Study of Freedom established last March by John Brown Cook, a member of the Scripps Board of Trustees, to encourage the teaching and study of political philosophy.

Useful tail

The beaver, which is descended from an 800-pound prehistoric rodent, resembles a groundhog, except that its tail, instead of being bushy, is flat and covered with horny plates that look like scales. This appendage is used primarily as a rudder but also serves as a mat to sit upon while grooming, as a prop to lean against while felling trees, and as a signal club with which to strike the surface of the water and warn other beavers of danger.

Registrations still accepted

Cal Poly courses begin Monday

A wide selection of courses is offered for credit and noncredit during the spring quarter beginning Monday by the Office of Continuing Education at Cal Poly Pomona.

Registrations for most classes will be accepted through April 7.

Courses in animal science include introductory horse production and a farrier science workshop. Commoidty trading and economics of food distribution are offered through agricultural business management. Also, a course in bee science is offered, covering the care and management of bees and the maintenance of apiaries.

Language courses include beginning and intermediate Japanese and a special noncredit workshop in Norwegian. English and literature courses are offered in folklore and mythology, detective fiction, and applied linguistics and ebonics.

A course covering the spectrum of building design and construction from client contact to completion is offered through the architecture department, as well as a workshop in solar energy, which will involve actual design and construction of solar heaters and collectors. Additional courses are offered in urban design in contemporary Europe and graphics for landscape architects.

Plant propagation, arboriculture, and plant materials for southern California parks are offered through the ornamental horticulture department and park administration department.

Beginning and intermediate folk guitar and a jazz guitar workshop for experienced players are offered through the music department.

Teacher preparation classes include evaluation techniques for the developmentally disabled; nonacademic deficiencies including visual, auditory kinesthetic and tactile perception difficulties; principles of adult education for persons interested in teaching in adult programs; photographic media for the classroom; a metric measurement workshop; and a course in self concept and behavior.

Other courses are offered in biological sciences, chemistry, foods and nutrition, physical education and psychology.

For further information on class location and times, persons may call the Office of Continuing Education, 598-4391.

Ferryboat damaged by blaze

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Work is being speeded up on a ferryboat under construction for the Golden Gate Bridge District in San Francisco.

Officials at the Campbell Industries shipyard said Tuesday that the gas turbine ferry Golden Gate would be rushed into service to replace the GT San Francisco, which was damaged by two engine room fires during sea trials off La Jolla.

A Coast Guard cutter and a Navy tank landing ship were called in to put out the fire Monday night and two of the 10 men aboard the ferry were treated aboard the USS Peoria for smoke inhalation.

The 165-foot craft, built to carry 750 passengers at a cost of $4 million, was to be delivered in three weeks to the Golden Gate Bridge District to carry commuters between San Francisco and Marin County.

Campbell president George Soares said he could not estimate the amount of damage done by the two fires nor could he pinpoint the cause.

GUIDING VOICE

Lions Club sponsors benefit horse show

Lions and horses combining their talents to assist blind people sounds rather improbable until the program is explained.

The Lions are members of the Pomona Host Lions Club who are sponsoring a benefit horse show on Saturday to raise funds for their major philanthropic project, assisting blind men and women in the valley.

The horses and their riders are from the Pacific Coast Walking Horse Association, a major equestrian organization which sponsors riding competitions that attract the best horses from throughout the state.

The arena is the Carnation Ring of the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds where benefit shows are scheduled at 8:30 a.m., 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. Featured in the show will be 150 Tennessee Walking horses from as far as Santa Barbara and San Diego. Trophies will be awarded in 39 classes and for Best of Show.

Maurice Williams of Pomona is general chairman for the benefit event and Marie Conklin of Diamond Bar is show manager.

There is no admission charge.

Lions Club members, directed by Bill Blackwell, will staff a morning snack bar, a luncheon snack stand, and an evening dinner.

The steak dinner will be served by the Lions Club from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Carnation Barn. Music for dining enjoyment will be provided by the Host Lions Club of Ontario's orchestra.

All proceeds raised through the cooperation of the association, the advertisers and the sponsors will be used to continue the club's program of transporting some 35 to 40 blind persons to the Braille Institute in Los Angeles each week.

For 11 years, retired club members have arranged for the driving the blind men and women to the Braille center from their homes in Pomona, Ontario and Upland areas. Club members pick up the travelers each Tuesday at the homes and take them to a church parking lot where they board a bus provided by the club for the trip into the city. Late in the afternoon, the members again meet the bus to see their guests safely home.

WALKING MULE

SHOW QUEEN

CANDY RUDY

Rudy and Mereda troth told

Miss Candy Rudy of Ontario and Phil Merenda of Montclair will be married May 22 in the Scripps College garden in Claremont.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Rudy of 652 Aurora Drive, Claremont, graduated in 1972 from Chaffey High School, Ontario. She also studied aviation at Mt. San Antonio College.

The son of Mrs. Lynn Mosely of Montclair, the groom-to-be is a 1972 graduate of Montclair High School. He was a basketball player in high school and at Chaffey College, where he graduated.

Right frames

Before buying eyeglass frames, consider the shape of your face. Oval frames suit round faces. Long faces look well in vertically deep grames and square faces are flattered in square or triangular frames.

De Hart-Beukelman vows exchanged

The Lincoln Avenue Reformed Church in Pomona was the setting for the marriage of Nalia Jeane Beukelman of Claremont and John Scott De Hart of Pomona.

Mrs. John De Hart

The couple was married by the Rev. Donald J. Brandt in a candlelight evening ceremony followed by a reception at the San Dimas Community Building.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Beukelman of Claremont. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Cliff De Hart of La Verne.

Best men were Glenn De Hart and Dennis De Hart of La Verne.

Other attendants were Sandy Brandt and Wendy Woodruff of Pomona, Glenda Jouwstra of Montclair, Ross De Hart of La Verne, Richard Katze of Pomona and Roger Beukelman of Claremont.

The newlyweds have made their home in Chino after a honeymoon in Arizona and Las Vegas.

State OES heads will be honored

Mrs. Donna M. Smith, worthy grand matron, and Stanley M. Love, worthy grand patron, of the Grand Chapter, State of California, Order of the Eastern Star, will make their official visit to the 59th District on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the Ontario Masonic Temple, 1025 N. Vine Ave., Ontario. They will be accompanied by their corp of grand officers.

Mrs. Smith is a past matron of Coachella Valley Chapter, which is in the Orange Belt Association. Mr. Love is a past patron of Escallonia Chapter in Escalon.

The theme for the evening will be "An Old Fashion Quilting Party," fitting in with the bicentennial year celebration.

Worthy matrons and worthy patrons of the 59th District planning the event are Mrs. Doyle Mann and James Westmoreland, Claremont; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Nichols, Ontario; Mrs. Roy Davis and Louis DeFelice, Star of the West; Mrs. Virgil Green and George Mason, Pomona; Mrs. Roland Phillips and Dr. Theodore Carow, Upland, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clark, Chino Valley. They have been assisted by Mrs. Doramae Hart, deputy grand matron of the 59th District.

Special escort will be under the direction of the members of Star of the West Chapter; Opening will be given by Claremont Chapter, Escort will be presented by Upland Chapter; Good of the Order will be the function of Pomona Chapter; Closing, Euclid, and Special Presentation will be planned by Chino Valley Chapter.

Mrs. George Redmond is general chairman for the evening assisted by Mmes. George Mason, Floyd Kellner, Arthur Laing, Carl Hooker and John DeMille.

Special corsages following the Quilting Bee theme are being made for the evening by Mrs. Roy Bowman of Star of the West.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT GRAY

Robert Grays mark golden anniversary

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray, 301 E. Foothill Blvd., Pomona, was celebrated at a recent reception and dinner.

Sixty guests attended the party honoring the couple at the Travel Lodge Clubhouse. Hosting the party were children of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gray of Claremont and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gray of Denver, Colo.

In addition to their two sons and daughter-in-laws, the Grays have five grandchildren.

The couple was wed on March 20, 1926, in Glenwood, Iowa, and have resided in the area for nine years.

They previously lived in Lincoln, Neb., where Mr. Gray was area plant supervisor with the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. before his retirement.

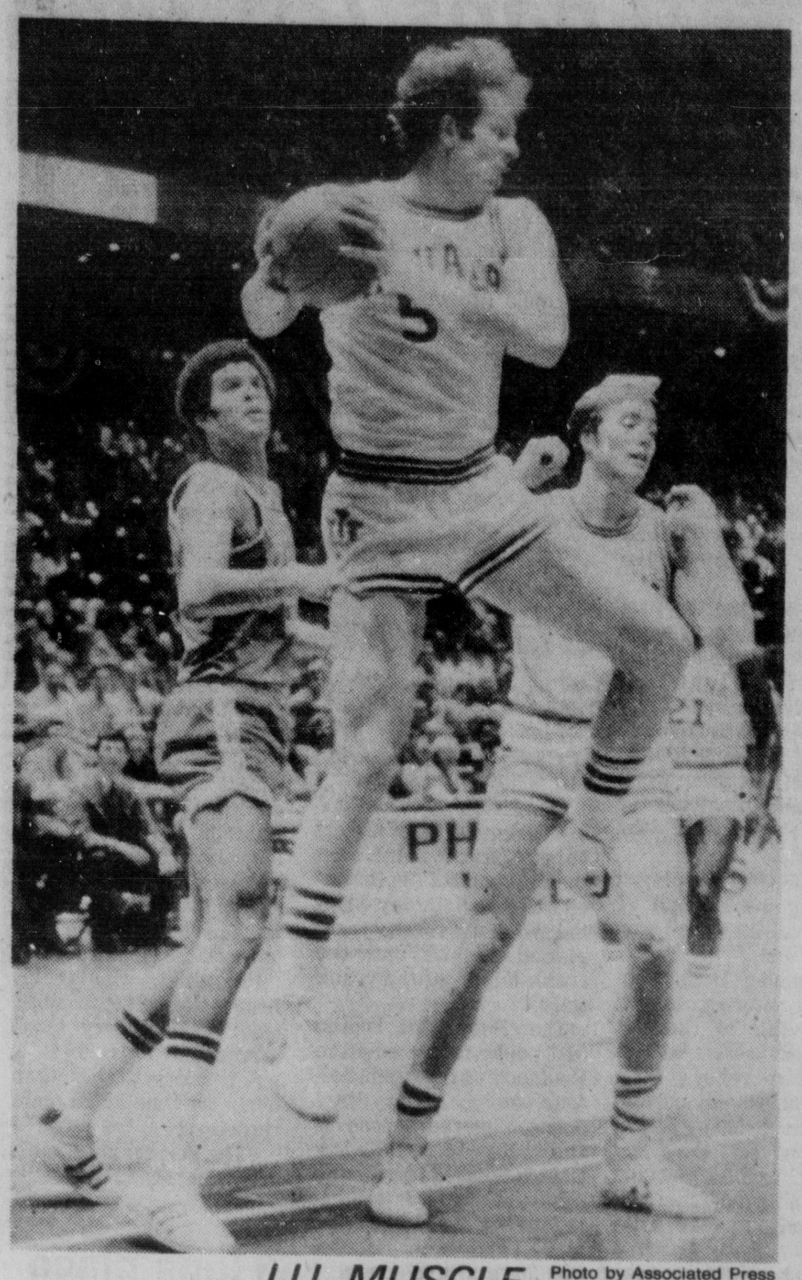
Indiana's 'Big D' dumps UCLA, 65-51

Abernethy, Wilkerson key win



I.U. MUSCLE Photo by Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Abernethy, who doesn't shoot much, and Bobby Wilkerson, adopted to new roles Saturday and triggered No. 1-ranked Indiana to a 65-51 victory over defending champion UCLA and into Monday night's NCAA championship final.

The unbeaten Hoosiers scored their 31st straight victory with the help of Abernethy's 14 points and Wilkerson's 19 rebounds.

Indiana's victory set up a Big 10 confrontation in Monday's final as Michigan routed previously unbeaten Rutgers 86-70 with the help of 20 points and 16 rebounds by John Robinson.

"I just had the shots today," said the 6-foot-7 Abernethy, a senior forward from South Bend, Ind.

"That's the way I play, taking a good percentage shot," said Abernethy, who hit on seven of eight shots from the field. Abernethy averaged just 8.6 points per game during the regular season.

"At the beginning of the year I was averaging only five or six shots a game," Abernethy explained. "Then he (Coach Bobby Knight) wanted me to shoot more. So for a while I was getting 12 or 13 shots a game. But I only take them if they're there."

Abernethy said that when he is scoring it adds another dimension to the Indiana offense.

The 6-7 Wilkerson, a senior from Anderson, Ind., averaged just 8.2 rebounds during the season, but he grabbed 19 as the Hoosiers beat UCLA for the second time this season.

Both Abernethy and Wilkerson had been playing in the shadow of All-American teammates Scott May and Kent Benson.

"The rebounding wasn't as difficult as it looked," Wilkerson said. "Because the forwards were blocking out, I was free to go to the boards."

Wilkerson said the key to the game was that he and fellow guard Quinn Buckner did a lot of helping out inside on defense.

"I went inside to pressure them, and that bothered them a lot," Wilkerson explained. "They couldn't do what they wanted to do."

"I got kneed," Abernethy said. "I was about three steps over the 10-second line and (Richard) Washington didn't see me and ran into the knee."

Abernethy pointed to the left side of his right knee on which he held an ice pack. He said it was just a bruise.

"I think I'll be okay," Abernethy said.

Knight, however, said, "We'll have to wait and see," when asked about Abernethy's injury.

Knight said he thought Indiana's comeback from early 7-2 and 9-4 deficits, and then the Hoosiers' ability to sit on their second half lead were the keys to the game.

Indiana led 52-46 when the Hoosiers went into the slowdown offense, looking only for the open shot. The tactic broke the continuity of a UCLA rally. The Bruins didn't score for a period of 4:48, and Indiana put the game away.

UCLA Coach Gene Bartow complimented the Indiana defense. "We felt with six to eight minutes left we still had a chance," Bartow said. "But I think Indiana did a good job keeping the ball away from Washington and (Marques) Johnson."

Bartow said Indiana "did a great job on defense. That was what lost us the game as far as I was concerned."

Indiana's May, the college player of the year, scored only 14 points.

"They played me tough," said May, "but we got the ball to the players who were opened. We knew they'd come out hard and tough. Everyone we play plays us tough for the first five to 10 minutes and we have to be ready to stay with them."

It was the second time this season that Indiana beat UCLA. The Hoosiers won by 20 points in a season-opener at St. Louis, spoiling the coaching debut at the California school of Gene Bartow, who succeeded the legendary John Wooden.

This latest triumph over the Bruins, however, denied UCLA a shot at its 11th NCAA championship in 13 years. Indiana's victory also set up the first championship game involving two teams from the same conference.

Indiana led at halftime 34-28 and increased its margin to 12 points early in the second half. With 13:20 to play, Indiana was in front by 13 at 45-32 and appeared ready to repeat its St. Louis rout of the Bruins.

But UCLA, always a poised as well as talented team, sliced the margin to six with 8:21 left, outscoring the Hoosiers 10-3 with Washington contributing three field goals in the surge. That cut the Indiana margin to 48-42.

Here, Abernethy drove for a layup and All-American Kent Benson followed with another to push Indiana's lead back to 10 points. UCLA, however, kept plugging and a pair of baskets by Gavin Smith brought them back to within six with 5:56 on the clock.

Indiana Coach Bobby Knight then ordered his team into a slowdown offense. The Hoosiers carefully moved the ball from sideline to sideline, into the base line and back as UCLA tried desperately for a steal.

Michigan stops Rutgers' streak

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Michigan's defense left Rutgers' Scarlet Knights red-faced after forcing them into repeated mistakes and their first loss of the season, 86-70 in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championship playoffs Saturday.

"I'm really embarrassed," said Rutgers Coach Tom Young. "We lost our poise for a period of 10 minutes, and when we did we lost the ballgame. It's a shame for Rutgers and for Eastern basketball."

The Wolverines, now in Monday night's championship game at the Spectrum, meanwhile were flushed with elation.

"Let me tell you, I am thrilled to be in the finals," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr. "I mean...gee whiz...these kids have come along so fast."

Michigan guard Steve Grote was more explicit. "The reason they played that badly was that we played that well," he said. "I'll bet if you ask Rutgers, they'll say we're the slickest, quickest team around. I've never seen us play as well on defense.

"A lot of people said if we slow down their fast break we could win. We did, but I was surprised we won that easily."

However, center Phil Hubbard thought it was all in a day's work. "I'm not real surprised we won so easily," he said. "We just worked hard to get the lead and we worked harder to keep it."

The Scarlet Knights, poised and smooth during their unbeaten regular season, lost their cool almost from the moment they met Michigan's strong defensive team. Led by Wayman Britt, the Wolverines hardly gave jittery Rutgers a chance at a shot. And when they did, the independents from New Brunswick, N.J., were unable to find the basket.

Rutgers, which normally shoots about 48 per cent from the floor, managed only 27 per cent in the first half while Michigan mounted a 17-point lead on a 48 per cent performance for a 46-29 lead at intermission.

"They became a little frustrated because of our defense," said Orr. "That's what we wanted to do. Defense was the deciding factor, no doubt about that."

John Robinson's 20 points and 17 rebounds keyed the Michigan to its surprisingly easy victory, which was virtually decided in the first half when Michigan held a 17-point lead.

While Rutgers was having trouble finding the basket in the first half, Michigan outscored the Scarlet Knights 22-6 and took a 26-14 lead with 7:43 remaining in the half as Robinson scored six of his game-high points. The Big Ten Wolverines then carved out a 10-4 streak as Robinson scored six more to make it 40-25 with 2:16 remaining.

Michigan took a 46-29 into the intermission as Robinson scored 14 of his points and grabbed 11 of his rebounds.

Trojans nab third swimming crown

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A University of Southern California swim team, overflowing with talent, won its third straight team title at the 53rd NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships at Brown University Saturday night.

Southern California was the clear-cut team standout with 398 points—second highest in NCAA history, way ahead of runnerup Tennessee's 237. UCLA was third with 213 points, followed by Indiana with 199 and Alabama with 135. There were a handful of swimmers who vied for the honor of best individual performances.

Tim Shaw, the freshman freestyle sensation from Long Beach State, on Saturday night won his second NCAA championship—his second in American record time. Shaw, who broke John Naber's American 500-yard freestyle mark Thursday night, erased Naber from the books in the 1,650-yard freestyle with a time of 15 minutes, 6.75 seconds.

Jim Montgomery of Indiana also registered a freestyle double Saturday night, winning the 100-yard freestyle—swimming's glamor event—in 44.39. Montgomery, world record holder in the 100-meter freestyle, had an American mark in the 200-yard freestyle one night earlier.

Then there was Naber, the friendly 6-foot-6 giant from Southern California who may have been dethroned in the freestyle but remained unquestionably the king of the backstrokers. Naber won the 200-yard backstroke Saturday night in near-American record time of 1:46.95 after taking the 100-yard backstroke one night ago. That gives Naber, a junior, all six backstroke titles in the past three NCAA meets.

Other gold medalists Saturday night were Great Britain's David Wilkie, swimming for the University of Miami, in the 200-yard breaststroke, Brian Bungum of Indiana in the three-meter diving with 542.19 points and Steve Gregg of North Carolina State in the 200-yard butterfly.

In winning its eighth team title, Southern California had three individual gold medalists while sweeping all three relays, two of them in American record time.

Bruins glum after NCAA debacle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The dressing room was quiet as the UCLA basketball players showered and slowly got into their street clothes. The smiles were thin, emotions drained.

"We battled them, we didn't quit," said senior guard Andre McCarter, expressing the team's disappointment at being dethroned as NCAA champions in the nationally televised semifinal game with Indiana, won by the Hoosiers 65-51.

There were some whispers that it might be the end of a dynasty, that the Bruins just weren't the powerhouse that had won 10 titles in the past 12 years and that things might be even leaner next season if junior stars Rich Washington and Marques Johnson make a hardship jump to the National Basketball Association.

"We'll be back! We'll be back!" countered Coach Gene Bartow, who had large shoes to fill when he succeeded John Wooden. "A lot of people like to think it's the end of a regime. But next year we expect to make the championship final in Atlanta."

Bartow said undefeated Indiana won by keeping Washington and Johnson away from the basket, and forcing UCLA to take too many bad shots.

"Indiana is a great team...they are the toughest defensive team in the country," Bartow said. "They kept the ball away from all our players who have done well all year. This was a great factor in the ballgame."

Another obvious factor was UCLA's disappointing 34 per cent shooting.

"Look at the statistics," Bartow said. "We've only shot like that once or twice in the last 15 or 16 ballgames. But basically the game was lost in the way Indiana defensed us...

"Our guards had plenty of shots, but they only hit four out of 24—and that's not good."

Expos down Dodgers, 3-1

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bomb Rivera slugged a home run and non-roster pitcher Wayne Granger retired 10 straight batters Saturday as Montreal handed Los Angeles its first exhibition loss, 3-1.

Rivera hit his homer in the fourth inning off starter and loser Burt Hooton and then successive singles by Gary Roenicke, Jim Cox Pepe Frias produced what proved to be the decisive run.

The Expos added a third run in the fifth off controversial reliever Mike Marshall who reported to the Dodgers Thursday and was pitching for the first time since injuring a rib last Aug. 31. Larry Biittner walked, one of the three walks issued by Marshall, and eventually scored on a single by Barry Foote.

Los Angeles got its only run in the sixth when Dave Lopes walked, took second on a balk by Don Carrithers, third on a wild pitch and came home on a single by Bill Buckner.

Kings skate by Canucks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forwards Tommy Williams and Butch Goring scored two goals apiece and assisted on two other in leading the Los Angeles Kings to a 7-3 win over Vancouver in a National Hockey League game Saturday night.

Both of Williams' goals were of the unusual variety. He scored on a 70-foot shot that eluded Canuck goalie Gary Smith, then beat him from 20 feet out on the second goal.

The latter goal was disputed as it went through a hole in the net. It was not until Bob Meyers conferred with his two linesmen that the goal was allowed.

The win moved the Kings back into second place in the Norris division, one point ahead of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Despite the loss, Vancouver remained in first place, one point ahead of Chicago in the Smythe division.

Nolan Ryan falters in 1976 debut

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Cleveland scored five times in the first three innings Saturday to mar Nolan Ryan's first spring outing and the Indians rang up 13 hits for the second straight day while routing the California Angels, 11-4.

Ryan, in his first appearance since undergoing elbow surgery last fall, was betrayed both by faulty support and erratic control, throwing 76 pitches before he was removed with two out in the third inning.

Cleveland scored two runs in the first inning without benefit of a hit as Ryan walked two, uncorked a wild pitch and the Angels committed two errors behind him. Another walk, another Angel error and Alan Ashby's two-run single gave the Indians three more runs in the third.

Rick Manning paced the Indian attack with a double and single while Buddy Bell, Rico Carty and Vassie Gardner collected two singles each.

Bobby Bonds delivered a two-run homer and a double as the Angels managed 10 hits against four Cleveland pitchers. Andy Etchebarren added a pair of singles.

Ryan gave up three hits and five runs, four of them earned, while walking four and striking out one.

California hosts San Francisco today at Palm Springs with Frank Tanana due to start against John Montefusco.

"I was pleased with the way I felt, but not with the control I had," he said. "I felt OK, there was no pain, but my rhythm was off. There were times I had good velocity."

Lakers lose, fall into fourth place

OAKLAND (AP) — Rick Barry, bouncing back from a two-point performance in his last game, scored 26 points Saturday night and led the Golden State Warriors to a 113-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The loss dropped the Lakers into fourth place in the Pacific Division, one-half game behind Phoenix and Seattle, who are tied for second. The three clubs are battling for two berths in the NBA playoffs.

The Warriors, who lead the division by 15½ games, took control by outscoring the Lakers 12-0 midway through the second half. Barry made two jump shots during the streak, which began with Los Angeles trailing by just 74-73 with 2:33 remaining in the third period. Golden State moved ahead 86-73 1½ minutes into the final quarter.

Jamaal Wilkes was second to Barry among Golden State scorers with 18 points and Phil Smith had 15, all in the second half. The Warriors went ahead to stay when Smith scored seven straight points in the third quarter to wipe out a 56-55 Lakers lead.

The Lakers' top scorer was Corky Calhoun, with 18 points. Star center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was held to 11 points.

UCLA coach Gene Bartow's feelings are clearly visable Saturday as his squad dropped 65-51 decision to Indiana's unbeaten Hoosiers in NCAA semifinal game in Philadelphia.

Plunkett headed for 49ers?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Quarterback Jim Plunkett will become a San Francisco 49er within a week, probably Thursday, it was reported Saturday.

A story in the Palo Alto Times said the 49ers have completed negotiations on the long-rumored trade for Plunkett and only have some minor details to work out on his contract before making an announcement. The 49ers have declined comment repeatedly on the trade reports.

Plunkett, who lives in nearby San Jose and won the Heisman Trophy as Stanford's quarterback in 1970, had asked the New England Patriots to trade him to a National Football League team on the West Coast, and his No. 1 choice was the 49ers.

The Patriots had talked to the Los Angeles Rams as well as the 49ers.

San Francisco's offer to the Patriots reportedly included young quarterback Tom Owen and at least two future first round draft picks. The Patriots also were interested in obtaining defensive end Cedrick Hardman or linebacker Willie Harper for Plunkett.

Broncos win in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—Cal Poly-Pomona, behind a 10-hit barrage, trounced Hawaii 8-4 Saturday night in the opening game of a series-closing doubleheader.

The victory upped the Broncos' record to 16-14-1 and also enabled the visitors to take the five-game series.

Connors in finals

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Jimmy Connors easily defeated Bjorn Borg 6-1, 6-4 Saturday to gain the finals of the $200,000 Tennis Games at Mission Hills Country Club against Roscoe Tanner.

Connors, who said "I just went out cranking," broke the third-seeded Borg twice in the first set and then turned back the 19-year-old Swedish ace in the second set before Borg could get his second wind.

The first-seeded Connors will met Tanner in the finals today with the winner collecting $35,000 and the runner-up $17,500.

Tanner qualified for the finals by upsetting second-seeded Arthur Ashe 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 in the opening semi-final match.

The seventh-seeded Tanner was the surprise player of the week-long event which began Monday with a field of 64. Tanner did not lose a set in his first three rounds, defeating Geoff Masters of Australia and New Zealanders Onny Parun and Brian Fairlie before facing fourth-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania in the quarter finals Friday.

Tanner, of Kiowah Island, S. C., became the crowd's favorite when he downed Nastase 6-3 in the first set of their match. He was leading 2-1 when the Romanian defaulted by walking off the court.

Nastase, who uttered abusive words at referee Charles Hare of Chicago, defaulted when he left the court and sat down in a box seat. Tanner was later awarded the set at 3-1 and the match.

In the match with Ashe, Tanner came out smoking with a booming serve and broke his opponent in the second game. Tanner took a 5-2 lead with a game that went to deuce twice, and after Ashe held his serve, Tanner won his serve at 40-love with a crisp volley for the first set.

Ashe, of Miami, Fla., returned the favor in the second set. He broke Tanner in the second game and held his service for a 6-3 win to tie the match.

With Tanner serving first in the final set, the two players held serve until Tanner led 5-4. Ashe got into trouble on his serve at 30-40 but fought off four match points before Tanner slammed a forehand down the line to win the match.

"After winning the first set," Tanner said, "I had a mental let-down but I tried to build a fire to key myself up and play consistently." He said Ashe was not up to his usual game and may have been flat after winning a three set match in the hot sun Friday over John Newcombe.

Ashe said Tanner played a steady game, but said, "I still felt all the time I was going to win."

In subduing Borg, Connors also came out charged up, moving to the net behind his serve to put away sharp volleys. Borg held his serve only once in the first set, losing 6-1. In the second set, Borg and Connors traded service breaks until the American broke Borg to take a 5-4 lead when Borg netted a shot. Connors then won the set and match at 40-15.

Borg said he was still tired after Friday night's three set duel with Rod Laver.

On the other hand, Connors said, "While Borg was out there breaking his back, I was at home watching television."

Connors said he was disappointed that he would not be facing Ashe in today's finale of the games, which are sponsored by American Airlines. The last time Connors played Ashe was at Wimbledon last year when Ashe won.

Sun Devils win tourney title

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Arizona State captured the Tenth Annual Riverside Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament Saturday night by pounding Stanford 13-0 behind the strong pitching of Floyd Bannister.

Bannister limited the Cardinals to four hits while striking out 13 en route to his eighth victory in nine decisions this season. Bannister, who was named the outstanding player of the tournament, was in complete command and walked only two batters. His teammates collected 19 hits off starting pitcher John Yandle and reliever Bruce Fiala.

ASU shortstop Bob Horner had a three-run inside-the-park homer to go along with teammate Gary Allenson's two-run homer. The Sun Devils had three doubles and two triples in addition to their two home runs, and Horner joined center field teammate Ken Landreaux on the all-tournament team.

The victory, the second for Arizona State in tournament history, boosted the Sun Devils' overall record to 32-7, while Stanford's loss dropped them to 20-13.

Coming into the championship game, Arizona State had a 6-1 tournament record while Stanford was 5-2.

Earlier in the day, all-tournament pitcher Steve Glaum came into the game in the eighth inning to preserve UC Riverside's 11-10 victory over Stanford.

Arizona State also lost earlier in the day when a ninth-inning rally fell short as Eastern Michigan bested the Sun Devils 7-6.

All-tournament shortstop Frank McCann of Delaware established a new tournament record by hitting five triples.

Owls, Chaffey post victories

Citrus and Chaffey brought home wins in Mission Conference baseball action Saturday afternoon.

Citrus beat visiting San Diego City College 4-2 while Chaffey outlasted Palomar 13-12 in 14 innings.

The Owls boosted their M.C. record to 7-1 and their overall mark to 15-4 Saturday. Roy Naas, with a nifty relief job by Gene Marzo, picked up the win.

Bonita High product Rich Ortega drove home the winning run in the game with a third inning double. Randy Hogan slugged a two-run homer for SDCC.

Chaffey evened its league record at 4-4 and its season ledger at 10-10 with the marathon win over Palomar.

A one-hit relief job by Larry Bell over the final three and two-thirds innings helped the Panthers past Palomar in a wild game. The winning run came in the last of the 14th as Rufus Thompson and Greg Walton walked, Thompson stole third and scored as the Palomar catcher threw the ball into leftfield.

A big seven-run rally by the Panthers in the last of the eighth enabled the locals to erase a 9-3 Palomar lead. A bases-loaded double by Thompson and a two-run single by Randy Pitts highlighted the inning.

Sports briefs

ARCARDIA, Calif. (AP) — Stravina was fourth entering the stretch but broke through traffic and drew clear rapidly to take the $65,600 Santa Barbara Handicap by 2½ lengths at Santa Anita Park Saturday.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker rode Stravina at light weight of 109 pounds and finished the 1¼ miles on turf in 1:59 3-5.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Lusia Harris scored 27 points and Ramona Von Boeckman led a second-half come-back that helped Delta State defeat Immaculata 69-64 Saturday night and clinch its second straight college women's basketball championship.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mark Roth captured his second title when he defeated Larry Laub Saturday in the nationally televised championship of a $100,000 Professional Bowlers Association open tournament.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — T.V. Vixen extended her winning streak to eight by scoring a 1½-length victory over Answer in the $121,950-added Fantasy Stakes at Oaklawn Park Saturday.

DENVER (AP) — Charley Johnson, who quarterbacked the Denver Broncos to the only two winning seasons in their history, officially ended his 15-year playing career, both he and the National Football League club announced Saturday.

Swiss driver nabs L.B. pole

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Clay Regazzoni emerged from the punishing final qualifying session with the pole position for today's inaugural U.S. Grand Prix West, which is expected to be a brutal test of the fragile Formula I machines.

The Swiss driver, who usually takes a back seat on the Ferrari team to world champion Niki Lauda, hurtled around the 2.02-mile street course in 1 minute, 23.099 seconds, averaging 87.51 miles an hour.

Lauda, the 26-year-old Austrian, was a disappointing fourth behind Frenchman Patrick Depailler, the fastest after Friday's practice, and England's James Hunt. Lauda's Ferrari, which Friday broke an engine, was disabled with transmission problems near the end of Saturday's closing session.

Depailler, in a Cosworth-powered Tyrrell 007, was timed in 1:23.292, 87.31 m.p.h., with Hunt, the dashing Englishman who has been Lauda's closest challenger this year, at 1:23.420, 87.17 m.p.h., in a McLaren M23-Cosworth.

Lauda, who had the fastest "trap" speed of the day at 191.08 m.p.h. on the course's long backstretch, had a best lap of 1:23.647, 86.94 m.p.h.

Mario Andretti, who had been fifth and the fastest American driver after Friday, lost an engine in his Parnelli VPJ4-Cosworth in Saturday's untimed morning session, and the new engine never ran well in the final session. He slipped to 15th starting place.

Regazzoni, winning his first pole in some time, said: "I like very much driving for Ferrari. It is much more stable than other cars and much more responsive.

"The Ferrari gives me a great deal of confidence."

Claremont spikers top relays

COACHELLA VALLEY — Claremont High's girls varsity track team won their division of the Coachella Relays Saturday while the Wolfpack varsity team placed second and the frosh-soph squad took third.

The 'Pack girls scored 59½ points to second-place Redlands' 48 by winning all four relays while Staci Johnson placed second in the 100 (11.9), Kathy Orozco finished third in the shot put with a school-record throw of 34 feet, 8½ inches and Beth Fossum tied for third in the high jump at 4-10.

Claremont's 440 relay team of Teri Murphy, Fossum, Kim Stanley and Johnson set a meet record of 52.2 seconds and the distance medley squad of Cherry Henry, Julie Finnegan, Jennifer Cole and Susan Atencio set another meet standard in 14:45.0.

Blake Wood was second in the two mile in 9:56.4 while Claremont's distance medley, sprint medley, high hurdle, two mile, 880, shot put and long jump relay squads all placed third. Derek Britton had the 'Pack's best shot put of 42-11 and Derek Mowell had a 20-4 long jump.

MSAC's Chapman downs Grossmont

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Thanks to an outstanding pitching effort by freshman righthander Kevin Chapman, Mt. San Antonio College held on to a share of first place in the South Coast Conference Saturday with a 3-1 win over visiting Grossmont.

The win ups the Mounties' SCC ledger to a 5-2, the same as Cerritos, Cerritos blasted Fullerton 11-2 Saturday. Grossmont drops to a 4-3 league mark with the loss to MSAC. Chapman was brilliant against the hard-hitting Grossmont nine. He allowed only five hits in the game, fanned six Griffins and did not walk a man.

He was at his best in the middle innings, as he retired 21 straight Griffins until Phil Williams singled with one away in the ninth.

Chris Jones and Bob Casanova followed with one-baggers to plate Williams, but Chapman bore down to retire Kevin Akenson on a fly to left and Jim Suter on a ground out to end the contest.

"Chapman has improved remarkably," noted Mountie coach Art Mazmanina after Saturday's effort. "I really didn't think he would held us that much when he came here in September, but he's 5-0 now and has been a life-saver for us."

In explaining Chapman's success, Mazmanian noted, that Mountie pitching coach Marcel Lachemann (a former relief pitcher for the Oakland A's) is the big factor in the Workman High product's improvement.

"Marcel worked with Kevin all winter long really taught him how to pitch," Mazmanian said. "Kevin's succes is a tribune to both of them. It shows how a kid can really come around if he's well-coached and wants to work at it."

The Mounties gave Chapman a 2-0 lead after two innings Saturday and that was all he needed, as he stopped Grossmont on only 90 pitches.

MSAC scored twice in the last of the second to give Chapman all the runs he needed, as the Mounties took advantage of wildness by Griffin starter Bob Watkins.

Watkins led off that frame by walking Danny Gans and Forrest Brown. He then fell behind to Larry Marsh, and and to come in with a 3-2 fastball.

Marsh drilled that delivery on one hop over the distance leftfield fence for a ground-rule double, scoring Gans and moving Brown to third. From there Brown came in on Val Primante's sacrifice fly to center.

The Mounties margin increased to 3-0 in the fourth, as Tracy Cowger led off that inning with a double down the leftfield line, moved to third on a ground out, and scored a Marsh banged a single to left.

The score stayed that way until Grossmont dented Chapman for the run in the ninth, but the Mountie hurler had enough left to nail down the win.

MSAC and Cerritos, the two SCC front-runners, will meet at Cerritos Tuesday afternoon. Mazmanian indicated he would start righthander Bob Veselic against the Falcons.

Telly's Pop shoots for Derby win

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Television actor Telly Savalas bought a one-half interest in a race horse a couple of years ago and finds himself with the Santa Anita Derby favorite today — Telly's Pop.

The gelding also appears to be the strongest western candidate for the Kentucky Derby and then the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

Savalas, star of the Kojak television series, paid $3,000 for his share of the now 3-year-old when Walter Matthau turned down film director Howard W. Koch's offer to buy a half interest.

Matthau knows that Telly's Pop so far has earned $343,870 which would make it a 100-1 return at this point.

The Santa Anita Derby will gross $157,700 with $97,700 to the winner, $24,000 to second and $18,000 to third. Fourth place collects $12,000 and even fifth gets $6,000, the original price paid by Koch for Telly's Pop.

In post position order the field will have Double Discount, An Act, Life's Hope, Telly's Pop, Samburu, McKenzie Bridge, Pindoro, Classy Surgeon and June's Blazer.

An Act, Life's Hope and June's Blazer all are stakes winners. The others are longshots at early odds of 15 to 30-1, and probably will be longer shots at post time.

Telly's Pop will have his regular rider, Francisco Mena aboard and all of the 3-year-olds must carry 120 pounds over the 1⅛-mile distance in this 39th renewal of the Santa Anita Derby—the richest of them all.

Bill Shoemaker is listed to ride June's Blazer although the originally assigned rider, Don Pierce, gained a Superior Court order that his suspension be lifted until a full court hearing on April 8.

Pierce went to court opposing the suspension handed out by the stewards because of alleged careless riding last Sunday in the San Luis Rey Stakes.

CAC wins SCAA title

LONG BEACH — The Tigersharks of Chaffey Aquatic Club set several records and outswam the other 16 teams in the Southern California Aquatic Association winter finals held recently at the Belmont Plaza Olympic pool.

CAC's 542-point team total was more than 100 points better than the score of second-place Artesia.

Karen Kostoff, 12, broke two meet records while winning three individual events and anchored CAC's freestyle relay team to a record-breaking time of 1:54.4 for another victory in the 11-12-year-old division.

She set standards in the 100-yard freestyle (2:08.0) and the 100 individual medley (1:07.7).

Jeff Kostoff swam to three wins in the 9-10 age bracket and Sheila Bellomo was a triple winner in the 6-and-under age group.

CAC's 11-12-year-old girls set meet records in both the medley relay (2:08.5) and the freestyle relay.

Green (who else?) leading Sea Pines

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hubert Green was tired, weary from the mental strain of his almost-constant lead over the last three weeks.

A lead that once had grown to five strokes suddenly had diminished to two. There were six tough holes to play and, "I was tired. I was beginning to feel sorry for myself," he said. "I was starting to make excuses to myself. I was mentally down."

And, with Bob Murphy breathing down his neck and Jack Nicklaus making a move, Green drove into a fairway bunker on the 13th. His second shot hit a tree and he came up short of the green. He was staring straight into the leering face of bogey No. 3.

"If I'd made bogey there, I'd have headed for the stand and started selling hot dogs," he said.

But Green, the winner of the last two tour titles and determinedly seeking a rare third consecutive crown, calmly punched his chip shot four feet from the pin, dropped the putt and had one of only five pars he scored in a wildy erratic round of 66, five under par.

"That turned my whole day around," said Green, who finished with a five-under-par 66 and a commanding four-stroke lead Saturday through 54 holes of the $215,000 Sea Pines Heritage Golf Classic.

The chunky, red-haired Murphy managed a three-under-par 68, was alone in second at 205 and sounded a warning for Green, seeking to become the first man to win three in a row since Johnny Miller turned the trick at the start of the 1974 season.

"You can't play conservative on this golf course," Murphy said. "It's a lot like a U.S. Open course. A lead can disappear in a hurry."

Australian Graham Marsh and Gibby Gilbert, each with a third round 69, shared third at 207.

Nicklaus and Roger Maltbie were next at 209. Maltbie, the 1975 rookie of the year, shot at 71.

Hale Irwin, a two-time winner this season who was in second place just one shot back of Green through two rounds, blew to a fat, six-over-par 77 that included a triple bogey seven on the 13th hole. He hit his second shot out of the woods into an unplayable lie, dropped, was short in four, on in five and two-putted.

Meeting set for softball loops

POMONA — Organizations interested in entering teams in the Pomona Park and Recreation Slo Pitch, Fast Pitch or Semi-Pro baseball leagues will meet Thursday in the Emerson Junior High cafeteria.

As well, an optional player's medical plan is offered at $20 for softball and $25 for baseball.

Leos, Stags sweep

Claremont-Mudd's Norm Richards threw a no-hitter against Pomona-Pitzer Saturday afternoon as the Stags and the La Verne Leos each swept a doubleheader to throw the Southern California Interscholastic Athletic Conference standings into a jumble.

The Stags belted the Sagehens, 11-1 and 19-6, while the Leos handed the Whittier Poets two conference losses, 4-0 and 10-3.

La Verne, 4-1 in SCIAC play, technically took over first place with an .800 percentage mark. Claremont-Mudd, 6-2, is second at .750 and Whittier, 8-3, ranks third with a .727 mark.

Jim Vallone of the Leos scattered seven singles and three walks to shut out the Poets in the first game. He fanned six while running his record to 3-6.

La Verne scored three runs off losing pitcher Phil Roddy in the first inning. Mike Page reached on an error and stole second before Tim Bruzette walked. John Edwards then doubled in Page and Wayne Redfearn singled home Bruzette and Edwards.

La Verne jumped on Whittier for three first-inning runs again in the nightcap on two walks and singles by Mike Laubhan, Steve Polan, and Pat Proulx.

Edwards went three for four in the second game, making him five for eight in the doubleheader. Polan was three for five with a run batted in and Proulx drove in two while going two for four. The Leos outhit the Poets, 14-8, in the nightcap after each team collected seven hits in the first game.

C-M's Richards fanned four and walked two while recording his no-hitter in the Stags' 11-1 first-game victory. The Sagehens scored in the top of the ninth when Chris Dialynas walked, stole second and scored on a pair of groundouts.

John Begerow of the Stags had a single, triple and home run, stole two bases, scored twice and drove in six runs.

Bob Phee and Steve Rodriguez combined for the win in the nightcap while Wynn Moore and Bob Turek had four hits each and Jamie Opatrny and Mark Roque had three apiece. Jim Busterud had three hits for Pomona-Pitzer.

The Stags outhit the Sagehens, 36-10, for the day while Begerow finished with five hits in nine tries, stole four bases and scored four runs, and drove in eight.

Moffet, Jang pace NBA

CORONA — Mt. Baldy Aquatics' John Moffet won the 50-meter back and breaststroke and the 100 freestyle and individual medley for 11-12-year-old boys and Curtis Jang did the same for 9-10-year-old boys recently as MBA participated in a tri-meet with Bellflower Aquatics and the Corona Swim Club.

In the 7-8-year-old division MBA's Doug Twitty won the backstroke, breaststroke and freestyle and placed second in the butterfly (all 25 meters) for boys while Kathie Haase won the butterfly and freestyle (25 meters) and took second in the 50-meter freestyle and 100-meter individual medley for girls.

Tee to Cup

He loves the ladies now

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer

Years ago, caddies headed for the hills in droves on Tuesday mornings when the ladies came out to play their weekly nine. At Rolling Green Country Club, in Illinois where I packed many a bag, only the fellows who needed money very badly, those who could stand to listen to constant chatter, those who didn't mind two and a half hours for nine holes, and a ten-cent tip came out to caddy on Tuesdays.

The scores were high, the talk was dreary, and the tips were low in the late 1930s and early 40s. What's more, the girls didn't have enough sex appeal to budge a hermit off a wind-blown cliff, as Philip Wylie puts it.

But times have changed. Wow, have they. I've watched sharp shooting women around the valley play as fast or faster than the men, and they can move the ball. And what's more, they're a whole lot better looking.

The women pros come to Palm Springs this week, and the gals every year put on a good show. I'm just going to sit back and watch those pretty pros belt that ball, but forgive me if once in a while I recall the chattering, God-awful players who used to make the rounds years ago on Tuesdays, mostly carrying their own bags.

* * *

When fans turn their TV dials to the final rounds of the $200,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle golf tournament Saturday and Sunday, they'll see all the top women golf stars — defending champion Sandra Palmer, favorites like Judy Rankin, JoAnne Carner and Jane Blalock, veterans Carol Mann and Kathy Whitworth — plus a new and very pretty face.

Stephenson is frank, candid, and determined. Staked with about $4,000 that she'd saved, she left her homeland two years ago for the U.S. pro tour, never having a doubt she'd strike it rich.

Then reality set in.

"The money ran out so quickly," she says. "Of course, my phone calls back home didn't help my finances any. But at times during that first year I was so lonely I had to talk to someone."

The loneliness stemmed largely from her competitiveness. "I felt I had to concentrate on beating the other girls, so I was aloof. But when I did well, I noticed them rooting for me. I was stunned. After all, I was already awed by playing against people like Sandra Palmer and JoAnne Carner. But to have them as friends, too! That's when the loneliness eased."

Then her golf clubs were stolen. "I was heartbroken. I'd had the same set for years. I wanted to pack it in. But I didn't want to disappoint all the people back home who thought I was so good."

Then things began to turn around. When she had played in the Colgate Far East Women's Open in Melbourne, the sponsoring company immediately recognized that her superb golf talents were matched by a most photogenic face and figure. She was signed by Colgate-Palmolive as one of the LPGA golfers who would do product commercials. Now, this endorsement money began coming in.

"It costs $30,000 to $35,000 a year to stay on the tour," she points out, "and without those endorsements you just can't make it on prize money alone. That's why the Colgate-Dinah Shore is so important. It's the big money. That first prize of $32,000 can pay for your whole year!"

Jan's first two years here weren't all loneliness and stolen clubs. Playing in 28 events, she earned over $16,000 in 1973, quite unusual for a first year player. Last season she reached $20,000 but has yet to win her first LPGA event.

BETTY FORD presented the American Cancer Society's Courage Award on Friday to golfer Gene Littler, praising him for his comeback after undergoing a cancer operation.

The first lady, who underwent a cancer operation herself, is serving as national honorary chairman for the Cancer Society's 1976 campaign to raise more than $109 million in its fund-raising drive.

Littler, 45, of La Jolla, Calif., said he had one piece of advice as a result of his experience in discovering a tiny tumor under his left arm that turned out to be malignant.

"Have periodic checkups," he said.

Net winners were Alta Hutchins, Doris Allen, Mae Wellborn and Gloria Soupcoff.

THE WESTERN Amateur Golf Association (WAGA) will hold a Golfathon on Monday, April 26, at Via Verde Country Club in hopes of raising enough money to keep the two-year-old organization operating.

WAGA president Jim Vernes announced that 50 golfers, all WAGA members, will take part in the Golfathon and that they are seeking financial pledges for the number of holes they play. The format of pledges has been approved by the United States Golf Association, according to Vernes.

Pledges may be made in writing or by telephone. They should be sent to WAGA, 1571 W. Katella Ave., Anaheim 92802, or by calling (714) 635-9362. The pledges are tax deductible and WAGA will send a bill and a statement after the pledges are made.

Vernes says he expects all the golfers to play close to 54 holes, or three rounds.

NFL's expansion draft set to go

NEW YORK (AP) — After spending close to two months in limbo while the merits of the National Football League's expansion draft were debated in court, the new Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks franchises finally get a chance to dip into the player pool and stock their teams this week.

The veteran draft is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday with the two new teams each selecting 39 players from the other 26 NFL clubs.

Tampa Bay and Seattle will get their first looks at the lists of players being protected by the other clubs at noon, EST, Monday. They will begin making their selections 21 hours later, at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The established clubs will be permitted to protect 30 players from their active and reserve lists and two more players from their over-all reserve lists which includes injured and retired players.

Seattle will have the first choice in the veteran draft. The teams will then choose in turn until each is stocked. Tampa Bay owns the first pick in the April 8-9 college draft.

None of the 26 clubs will lose more than three players in the expansion draft. The new clubs aren't quite sure what they will find when the lists are supplied and the old teams aren't telling in advance, either.

"We will not reveal the names of players we plan to make available," said Jim Finks, general manager of the Chicago Bears. "We might put up a name that would surprise everyone and then not have the player drafted."

Finks, however, didn't seem too concerned about the damage the draft would do to the Bears. "We're a young club with a long way to go, so we're not concerned about losing three veteran players in the expansion draft," he said.

New Coach Hank Stram said the New Orleans Saints' list has been ready for some time. "We made our assessment several weeks ago," he said. "We graded everyone on the team and figured in their potential and age factor. We are concerned about keeping as many players with potential as possible."

Essentially, those are the criteria all clubs use in determining which players to protect and which to make available. The draft list should be dotted with familiar names such as offensive linemen Joe Scibelli and Charlie Cowan, both 15-year veterans with Los Angeles, running back Ron Johnson of the New York Giants, and quarterback Earl Morrall and linebacker Nick Buoniconti of Miami.

"We expect to find some surprises," said John Thompson, general manager of the Seattle club.

Halos going with power

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — California's Angels tried the speed concept a year ago and their rabbits met the same misfortune as the fabled hare against the tortoise. So now they're going to power.

The Angels stole bases in 1975 but finished last in the American League West.

This time General Manager Harry Dalton has gone to the trading marts and landed outfielder Bobby Bonds from the New York Yankees and third baseman Bill Melton from the Chicago White Sox.

Both were acquired during an eight-hour period last Dec. 11 and last season the two accounted for 47 home runs, only eight fewer than the entire Angel squad.

To get Bonds and Melton, the Angels gave up Mickey Rivers, the league stolen base leader with 70 swipes, 16-game winning pitcher Ed Figueroa, outfielder Morris Nettles and former 20-game winner Bill Singer. The latter was sent to Texas for Jim Spencer who then was used in the Melton trade.

Now Manager Dick williams, who didn't worry about starting pitchers a year ago, must assemble a new rotation. He also has to settle on a shortstop.

Right-hander Nolan Ryan, beset with arm miseries a year ago, underwent surgery to remove bone chips from his elbow after an injury-shortened 14-12 record last season when he lost his three-year strikeout crown to Tanana.

A wide open battle exists for the remaining spots. Don Kirkwood, the bullpen leader a year ago with seven saves, bids to become a starter. So do Steve Dunning and Gary Ross who were top pitchers last season in the American Association and Pacific Coast League respectively.

Dunning arrived in the Melton trade and Ross was acquired from San Diego for Bobby Valentine and Rudy Meoli.

Other candidates include Dick Lange, Gary Wheelock from the Salt Lake City roster and Andy Hassler who went from the league's third best ERA in 1974 to a 3-12 record last year.

Dalton also gave up three youngsters to get veteran reliever Dick Drago from Boston and the aging Jim Brewer is trying to continue a major league career that dates back to 1960.

Andy Etchebarren, the veteran catcher, gets the shot to be the starter. Another veteran, Ed Herrmann, could win the job.

The Angels bought him from the Yankees.

With those two on hand, the Angels sold Ellie Rodriguez to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In addition, to Melton, Williams has young infield talent in Bruce Bochte at first, Jerry Remy at second and Dave Chalk at third. Remy is 23, Bochte and Chalk each 25.

Dave Collins and Rusty Torres battle for the third starting spot. Torres, who has had trials with New York and Cleveland, batted .306 at Salt Lake and .266 with the Angels last year.

Joe Lahoud and Adrian Garrett, both left-handed hitters, provide bench strength and the Angels acquired first base candidate Ed Kurpiel from Detroit. Dan Briggs and Gil Flores each hit better than .300 at Salt Lake City.

Williams feels that his club has better than adequate speed with Bonds, Collins and Remy. They might each steal 30 bases.

"But we aren't thinking in terms of one-run innings anymore," declared the skipper who is starting his second full season with California after winning pennants at both Boston and Oakland.

Angels at a Glance
By The Associated Press

1975 finish—Last in American League West.

Strengths—Young team that gained experience in 1975 and acquisition of some power hitting.

New faces—Outfielder Bobby Bonds and infielder Bill Melton who combined for 47 home runs last season. Also catcher Ed Herrmann.

1976 forecast—Chance to move up notch or two.

Shaw earns French honor

Improved Chisox, young Giants may be contenders

Chicago offers new look

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are going to offer a new look this year from their owner to their manager right down to their hot pants.

Aside from the pitching staff, the only familiar faces at their same positions as last year will be catcher Brian Downing and shortstop Bucky Dent.

Everything else will be shuffled because of a flurry of trades made by owner Bill Veeck and the managerial shift from Chuck Tanner to Paul Richards.

Jorge Orta, the .300-plus hitter, will be at third base instead of second, filling in for the traded Bill Melton. Jack Brohamer, acquired from Cleveland, will be at second.

Ralph Garr, a speedster acquired from the Atlanta Braves, who could become the team's leading hitter, will be in left field. The other two outfield jobs are up for grabs from a list of candidates including Nyls Nyman, Morris Nettles, Bob Coluccio, Chet Lemon, Buddy Bradford and Pat Kelly.

Jim Spencer and Lamar Johnson will split duties at first base with Spencer facing righthanded pitching and Johnson against lefthanders. Carlos May will be the designated hitter.

Nyman, Nettles and Coluccio are speedsters battling for the center field job which becomes significant because Veeck has torn down the canvas fences and gone back to the original walls. That adds 40 feet of depth and makes inside-the-park home runs more of a reality than an almost impossible shot into the bleachers.

Veeck also has torn out the artificial infield in favor of natural grass which means quicker gloves and stronger arms are needed on defense.

Lemon, who was expected to take over for Melton at third base, hasn't impressed Richards with his glove. But the new manager likes his bat and because he swings from the right side of the plate, a commodity lacking in the Sox scheme, Lemon is being given a shot in right field.

Richards admits that most of the decisions on the players have already been made and adds "Yes, I know it's unfair but with only three weeks of spring training, we don't have any choice but to pre-judge."

Richards' primary concern is pitching and he said "I can get five men ready in three weeks' time to open the season."

The mainstays of the pitching staff include Wilbur Wood, Rich Gossage, Bart Johnson, Claude Osteen, Terry Forster, Clay Carroll and Dave Hamilton.

Gossage is being converted from a reliever to become a starter. The same thing could happen to Forster if he has recovered completely from tendonitis. Carroll, acquired from Cincinnati, and Hamilton will anchor the bullpen.

Jesse Jefferson is another pitching candidate but after looking him over the first few days, Richards said "For some reason or other he hasn't come along as well as he might have. He hasn't been throwing too well."

Other possible pitchers include such youngsters as Jack Kucek, Pete Vuckovich or Chris Knapp.

Reserves include veterans Bob Oliver and Cleon Jones, both of whom are trying to make the club. Richards is high on Alan Bannister who came from Philadelphia and can play second, third, short and the outfield. Bill Stein is another reserve infielder.

White Sox At A Glance
By The Associated Press

1975 Finish—Fifth in American League West.

Strengths—Team speed and solid hitting led by Ralph Garr, Jorge Orta and Carlos May. Bullpen of Clay Carroll, Dave Hamilton and Terry Forster, if recovered from arm trouble. Starting pitchers Wilbur Wood, Claude Osteen and Bart Johnson, if recovered from back injury.

Weaknesses—Might have trouble scoring a lot. Lack long ball threat. Defense in both infield and outfield only ordinary for a big ball park where tight defense is a must.

1976 forecast—Fourth place.

S.F. pitching looks strong

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, who were within one court decision of moving to Toronto over the winter, instead are returning to Candlestick Park with high hopes.

New owners, Bob Lurie and Bud Herseth, have brought back Bill Rigney as manager and given him a young, talented team to guide.

"The name of the game is outs, and we've got the pitching staff and gloves to win," says the 58-year-old Rigney, who managed the team which Horace Stoneham moved from New York to the West Coast in 1958 and later spent several seasons as an American League manager.

Rigney refamiliarized himself with the National League last season, working with the San Diego Padres as a scout.

He liked what he saw of the Giants, particularly the young pitching staff featuring 1975 Rookie of the Year John Montefusco, no-hit hurler Ed Halicki and steady Jim Barr.

The 1975 Giants, third place finishers in the Western Division, had a vulnerable defensive spot, third base, where 35 errors were committed by the players Manager Wes Westrum put there.

This season, San Francisco native Ken Reitz will man third. The infielder, acquired from St. Louis for pitcher Pete Falcone, is considered one of the league's best glovemen at his position.

The rest of the regular lineup should be the same as last year's—Dave Rader catching, Willie Montanez at first base, Derrel Thomas on second, Chris Speier at shortstop and Gary Matthews, Von Joshua and Bobby Murcer in the outfield.

Murcer, whose 30th birthday is in May, could be the oldest player on the club and Barr, 28, could be the senior member of the pitching staff.

Murcer, Matthews and Montanez, who all reported to spring training camp unsigned for the coming season, will make up the center of the batting order. They combined for only 33 homers last season but drove in 250 runs, even though Matthews missed one-fourth of the season because of an injury.

Rigney, who has been around enough to be realistic, says the Giants have a good shot at second place and an outside shot to win the division. The Cincinnati Reds finished 20 games ahead of second place Los Angeles and 27½ ahead of the Giants last year.

There are signs of a rebirth of baseball interest in San Francisco, and bigger crowds at Candlestick Park should perk up the Giants.

But the owners and Rigney know that it will take good performances to keep the interest alive. The Giants are shooting for a million attendance year after two straight seasons just over the 500,000 mark.

Giants At A Glance
By The Associated Press

1975 finish — Third in the National League West.

New faces — Reitz at third base, where Giants were weakest defensively in 1975. Rookies making bids for jobs include pitchers Rob Dressler and Bob Knepper and infielder-outfielder Jack Clark.

Starsky and Hutch

Shooting into your heart

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Through much of this TV season, the top-rated new show has been ABC's Starsky and Hutch. Critics hate it, but the public seems to love it. Maybe one reason it's popular is because it is pure escapism.

"It's a comic strip," says Starsky, alias Paul Michael Glaser. "And I see nothing wrong with that. I'm tired of slice-of-life theater, slice-of-life films, slice-of-life television.

"I live a slice-of-life existence, and so does everybody else. I think movies and TV should be bigger than life, like comic strips, like Starsky and Hutch. That way we can all have an hour or so of escape."

So Starsky and Hutch go about their business, living a life removed from reality, and garnering high ratings as they indulge in the most improbable kinds of adventures.

PAUL MICHAEL GLASER

There have been other escapist attempts that didn't work, of course. This one works, Glaser thinks, due to three main reasons.

"I think," says the introspective young actor, "that the first reason is the chemistry between David Soul (who plays Hutch) and me. Second, we have outstanding editing, which keeps the show at a fast pace and the public likes that. And, third, I believe the public likes to live vicariously through our adventures and our brushes with violence."

He says that the violence of the show doesn't trouble him. He belongs to the school of thought which holds that the public gets rid of its violent urges by watching the violence of others.

"Everybody's life," he says, "is usually pretty drab. There's seldom any real excitement, and I think people need excitement. They see us and imagine they are living our lives and that's good and helpful."

There's been plenty of excitement for Paul Michael Glaser lately. Nothing like a hot hit to run a young actor into a sizzling commodity. Fortuntely, he recognized the danger inherent in that transformation and has taken steps to see that he isn't harmed by it.

"I realized," he says, "that being associated with such a big hit could change me. So I started therapy, so those changes wouldn't be harmful."

Glaser thinks the therapy, which is continuing, has helped him. He believes now he can cope with all the fame, the adulation and the money that is coming his way on the strength of Starsky and Hutch. Now, he says, he can cope with whatever comes his way.

And a lot is coming. Until very recently, his telephone number was listed. Until this year, he had had no reason to request an unlisted number. But now he has had to make the change, to guard his privacy.

"I kept getting gifts shoved into my mail chute," he says. "And people ringing my bell day and night. A few times girls showed up at my door, but my girl friend got rid of them pretty fast."

All in all, this has been a momentous year for Glaser. He says it's been a "hard year, but a growing and exciting one."

He admits he went through one stage, during the year, when he began feeling he knew everything about everything — and started ordering people around on the set, telling them all what to do.

"My producers knocked that out of me," he says, "and I was smart enough to realize they were right."

He and his co-star, David Soul, had their ups and downs, too. There was a period when their relationship was marked with jealousies. They'd compete, week after week, to see whether Starsky or Hutch would get the best scenes, the best lines, the best action, the pretitiest girls, the most laughs.

"But now," he says, "we've gotten over that. Now we work those things out between us. It's hard to keep a balance, because Starsky is basically the more outgoing character of the two. But we've learned to give and take."

Glaser and Soul had known each other casually for a few years, but had never worked together. When the show was being cast, Soul was the first one hired and the producers spent weeks auditioning actors to play Starsky. When Glaser came in to read, everybody recognized immediately that the chemistry was right.

Glaser comes from Massachusetts, where his father, who just recently retired, was a noted architect.

"I think," he says, "that if my father hadn't been an architect, I would have become one. I love it — but there was no way I was going to compete with my father. So I had to find something else to do with my life."

The something else turned out to be acting, of course. He graduated from Tulane, then received a master's degree in acting and directing from Boston University and has been working at it ever since.

Oscar time again

Film academy plans 48th awards show

A glittering array of celebrities will attend the 48th annual awards presentation of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center Monday night.

The show will blend outstanding entertainment with the suspense engendered by the opening of sealed envelopes to reveal winners for best cinematic achievements of 1975. There are 21 basic categories for which Oscars will be awarded during the evening.

A record audience is expected to view the program which will be telecast live and in color by ABC-TV beginning at 7 p.m. The world-wide total audience may top the quarter billion mark, with some 42 foreign countries presenting live (via communications satellite) or delayed telecasts of the event.

Gene Kelly, Walter Matthau, George Segal, Robert Shaw and Goldie Hawn will serve as emcees for the open-end program which will run approximately 2½ hours. Close to 45 film notables will be featured in the cast.

Three leading industry figures — directors William Friedkin and William Wyler, and Motion Picture Association of America President Jack Valenti — and writer Gore Vidal will also present awards.

SONG AWARDS

The five nominated songs will be sung by Keith Carradine ("I'm Easy"), Kelly Garrett ("Richard's Window"), Steve Lawrence ("Now That we're in Love"), Bernadette Peters ("How Lucky Can you Get") and Diana Ross ("Do You Know Where You're Going To?") Miss Ross will sing the theme from "Mahogany" by satellite from Amsterdam, The Netherlands, performing her number sometime between 4 and 5 a.m., Amsterdam time. It will be the first time in Academy history that a performer has appeared live on the Oscar-cast from overseas.

There will be one musical spot, an eleborate production number featuring veteran stage and screen star Ray Bolger and two dozen Hollywood dancers.

Apart from the drama and supense of the awards themselves, other program highlights will be the music of the Academy Award Orchestra under the direction of John Williams, a fashion parade on camera with models displaying the nominated costumes, and a grand finale involving everyone — presenters, entertainers and winners — on stage.

A record number of nominees in the four acting categories is expected to appear this year including Isabelle Adjani, Ronee Blakley, George Burns, Brad Dourif, Louise Fletcher, Lee Grant, Carol Kane, Ann-Margaret, Walter Matthau, Burgess Meredith, Sylvia Miles, Jack Nicholson, Chris Sarandon, Lily Tomlin, Brenda Vaccaro and James Whitmore.

FIVE SPECIALS

Five special awards, voted by the Academy's board of governors, will be presented during the evening. Mary Pickford will receive an honorary award in "recognition of her unique contributions to the film industry and the development of film as an artistic medium."

Academy President Walter Mirisch presented the award, an Oscar, to the actress in a ceremony filmed last week at her Pickfair estate in Beverly Hills. This film will be projected on a 20-foot screen at the Awards if the actress does not appear in person. Either way, it will constitute her first public appearance in nearly a decade.

Jules C. Stein, founder and head of MCA, Inc. and its subsidiaries including Universal Pictures, will receive the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award. Veteran director-producer Mervyn LeRoy will receive the Irving G. Thalberg Memorial Award.

Two other special awards, for special visual effects and sound effects, will go to the film "The Hindenburg."

The program was written by Hal Kanter, William Ludwig and Leonard Spigelgass.

The set was designed and created by art director Ray Klausen. Ray Aghayan, Bob Mackie and Ret Turner designed the costumes, and Walter Painter was the choreographer.

Getty Museum sets concert

Music Only, a flute, cello and harpsichord ensemble, will present a Gallery Concert at the J. Paul Getty Museum in Malibu at 2 p.m. April 7.

The group, made up of Anthony Brazier, flute; Larry Corbett, cello, and Neil Roberts, harpsichord, will present works by Bach, Blavet, Balbastre, Marias, Rameau and Joplin.

Brazier, who studied at USC and Immaculate Heart College, teaches at Immaculate Heart and has performed extensively on the West Coast. Corbet has played with several orchestras in Los Angeles, as well as on radio and television. Roberts, who has two degrees in musicology, has given recitals in the Pacific Northwest, Southern California and in Central Europe. He has recorded several albums.

There is no charge to attend the Gallery Concert, but advance parking reservations are recommended for guaranteed admission into the museum. Reservations may be requested by telephoning the reservation office at (213) 454-6541. The museum is located at 17985 Pacific Coast Highway.

Youth art work on view

Some 3,000 paintings by children celebrating the Postal Service are on exhibition through May 2 at the California Museum of Science and Industry, Exposition Park, Los Angeles.

The exhibit features the most representative pieces selected from those submitted by more than 750,000 elementary school students who participated in the nationwide program to celebrate the Postal Service Bicentennial.

The exhibit is the result of a national program conducted by the Postal Service in cooperation with the National Art Education Association.

The program was designed to call attention to the Postal Bicentennial and to the creativity expressed in children's art programs in schools throughout the country.

Subjects range from the days of the first postmaster general, Benjamin Franklin, to concepts of futuristic means of communication.

Artist to talk on work

Artist and critic Peter Plagens will lecture on his painting at the Rembrandt Lecture Hall, Pomona College, at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Admission is free.

Plagens is a critic for Artforum magazine and the author of "Sunshine Muse," the first critical history of West Coast art.

PBS plans opera

The New York City Opera, conducted by Judith Somogi, will present "The Ballad of Baby Doe" on the television series, Live from Lincoln Center, at 8 p.m. April 21. It will be seen nationally on Public Broadcasting Service.

The two-act opera was composed by Douglas Moore with John Latouche as librettist.

The opera will star Ruth Welting as Baby Doe, Richard Fredricks as Horace Tabor, and Frances Bible as Augusta Tabor. Set in the gold and silver fields of Colorado during the height of their activity in 1880, "Ballad" recounts the story of the classic triangle among Elizabeth Doe, Tabor and his wife.

Future programs on Live from Lincoln Center, supported in part by the National Endowment for the Arts, will include the New York Shakespeare Festival, and performances by the American Ballet Theater.

Chino group slates show

The Chino Art Association will hold its fourth annual Arts and Crafts Show at The Wooden Shoe, 13134 Central Ave., Chino, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 11.

The show is open to all artists and craftsmen in the Chino area, as well as association members. Entry blanks and exhibition rules are available at the Chino branch library, Central Avenue and D Street, and at the Chino Recreation Department, 13013 10th St. Proceeds from the show will go to the association's scholarship fund.

Artist finds poetry in paint

Barbara Vandale is an artist who looks upon her painting as poetry.

"I do mostly watercolors, mostly landscapes," said the Montclair artist. "I try to capture a mood in the scene, just like writing poetry."

Mrs. Vandale will try to convey her theories to pupils in two watercolor classes to be held in the studio of her home at 5062 Rosewood Court. Classes will be held daily from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The first session, May 3-7, will take up perspective, color and composition. The second class, May 10-14 will go into creative techniques.

A native of New York, Mrs. Vandale grew up in Southern California, graduated in art from Cal State Long Beach, and did graduate work there, at Cal State Los Angeles and at UCLA. She studied with Rex Brandt and Robert Wood. She taught at her alma mater, Santa Ana High School, for two years.

During her art education she has done metal sculpture, woodwork, pottery, textiles, silkscreens and works in other media. She has exhibited in Los Angeles, Long Beach, Beverly Hills and Laguna Beach, and currently has 14 works at Cullott'as Gallery in Claremont and two on exhibit at the Riverside Art Center. She is a member of the Pomona Valley Art Association and the art association of San Bernardino, Riverside and Chino.

Persons interested in enrolling in her classes can write for a free brochure or call 624-9455.

Campbell divorced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Glen Campbell has been divorced by his wife of 16 years.

Superior Court Commissioner Hugh E. Macbeth granted the divorce to Billie Jean Campbell Thursday but delayed a decision on division of property and custody of the couple's three children.

MUSIC — ART — DRAMA

ARTIST AT WORK — Barbara Vandale, Montclair, shown at work in her home studio, feels that painting is like writing poetry. She will teach private classes in watercolor at her home May 3 through 7 and May 10 through 14.

SAN CLEMENTE TOWNHOMES — A grand opening is being held on the first phase of Summer Place, a private townhome community in San Clemente. The 55 units were built on a 20 acre site by Charles T. Smith and Associates. The adults only development offers a private, gate-guarded community. Buyers may select from four models and floor plans. These are priced from $59,500.

Summer project is open

The Summer Place townhouse community in San Clemente is featuring convenience and comfort for its residents.

A grand opening is now being held for the first phase of 55 units. Buyers have their choice of four model homes containing from 1,301 to 1,590 square feet of floor space. These are priced from $59,000.

"The maintenance-free community is completely walled and the entrance has a security gate," said George Wright, project manager.

"Public transportation is just outside the gate, the high school is just five minutes away, San Clemente Pier is 10 minutes and the Dana Point Marina and harbor are about 10 minutes.

"In addition, Saddleback College is nine miles away and the UC Irvine campus is less than a half hour's drive," he added.

Within the community is a recreation center with a tennis court, swimming pool and a therapy pool. A landscaped parking court serves each cluster of homes and all maintenance is provided by the Summer Place Home-owners Association.

One home plan offered is the Windward. This is a two-story home with three bedrooms and 2½ bathrooms. The living room and dining room overlook a private patio. The home also has a fireplace, wall-to-wall carpeting and such kitchen appliances as a range, self cleaning oven, dish-washer and disposal.

To reach the development, persons may take the San Diego Freeway to Camino de Estralla, turn right to Camino Mira Costa, then left one block to Summer Place.

Builders, buyers see an uncertain future

With only 15 per cent of the nation's families able to afford today's average priced new home at $42,000 to $43,000, would-be homebuyers and builders face an uncertain future, reports Industry Week, a magazine for managers.

Last year saw new housing starts sink to a 29 year low while homebuilder bankruptcies set records. And while some conditions that caused the downturn — high taxes, tight money and unsold inventory — are still present, builders estimate an upturn to 1.4 to 1.6 million new units this year as the recession ebbs, it added.

But serious problems cloud the longer term housing outlook. While many traditional housing stimulants such as population growth, family formations and demolition of older units continue, escalating land costs may soon swallow up even the $50,000 homes, stated the magazine.

"In addition, local anti-growth groups are driving up costs and driving out developers and the federal government's cautious housing policy is providing little support," it observed.

Some builders, however, condemn government housing aids. "We could have had a good construction decade if the government hadn't gotten involved," said one construction analyst.

Based on its oft-stated estimate of 2.5 to 3 million new units each year needed in housing during the 1970s, government was pumping money into housing at an unprecedented rate in 1972, the magazine reported.

"The result was that supply was pushed beyond demand, especially in multi-family units. And the ensuing decline was absolutely abnormal. We never had such a sharp decline — ever," stated the analyst.

"Everyone says the downturn has been the result of tight money, but it was simply the result of supply and demand. Without the government subsidies of the early 1970s, conventional housing starts would have peaked at about 1.8 million starts and stayed there. And if the government gets involved again, we're going to feel it in the 1980s just as we are now," he added.

For some, the government staying out of housing would be one optimistic sign. But there are others. While the U.S. population will grow only .8 per cent annually during the next decade, household formations will increase two per cent a year as families grow smaller. Predictions based on the traditional relationship between money flow into savings and loan associations and housing starts also are bright, predicts the magazine.

Century 21 offers new realty service

The Century 21 Commercial Co., Inc., is the newest real estate company to open under the Century 21 banner.

The office will specialize in apartments, commercial buildings, land business opportunities, mobile home parks and industrial developments.

Specialists in each of these areas will handle purchases, sales, leases and exchanges.

The company will also serve as the centralized listing and sales office for the Century 21 offices in the San Gabriel Valley for nonresidential transactions.

The new office contains features such as computers and private client conference rooms. It is located on the ground floor of the U. S. Life Savings building at San Bernardino Freeway and Barranca Avenue, West Covina.

Bruce H. McLoud will head the operation as president and director of sales. For the past four years, he has been a partner in Century 21 U. S. Realty in Covina.

Other staff members are Curt Hearnsberger, Tel Gabaldon, Veronica Adix, Bob Robertson, Marjorie Graham and Sharon Krueger.

They will be serving clients from Pasadena to Whittier and Palm Springs.

Since moving into the new office on March 1, the staff has more than $15 million of commercial property for sale in the San Gabriel area.

Members will be holding investment seminars soon. Investors are invited to visit the office to discuss the buying, selling or exchange of commercial and investment real estate property.

Real estate

Bill will aid tax appeals

Homeowners appealing their property tax bills could examine and copy county assessor files under legislation introduced by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist.

"Present law now makes this information available only where the assessed valuation of a home exceeds $25,000. I think every homeowner should have an equal opportunity to contest his property taxes," he added.

McVittie said the information to be made available would include all evidence compiled by the assessor in arriving at his opinion of market value.

Retired citizens given aid

Several dozen retired carpenters, plumbers, electricians and other tradesmen are assisting their homeowning peers in Lincoln, Nebraska.

The city, using Labor Department funds, pays the workmen $4 an hour. Using their own tools, the workers paint, repair plumbing and install door peepholes and bathtub rails. The workers, who range upward from 60 years of age, complete about 300 jobs a month. The elderly citizens of Lincoln who use their services reimburse the city for part of the cost.

Bicentennial exhibition

The show covers the period from the signing of the Declaration of Independence July 4, 1776, to July 4, 1826.

Conservation march begins in West End

Southern California Gas Co. employees will be visiting residents in several Montclair and Upland neighborhoods for four days this week to personally spread the word about energy conservation.

According to Ben Wilson, local district manager, this grass roots public contact campaign is called "Operation Stretch."

"The objective of the campaign is to explain — face-to-face with our customers — the tightening energy supply situation and the urgent need for energy conservation," he said. "We will show residents how to help 'stretch' existing energy supplies by using home appliances most efficiently."

Montclair and Upland are the first San Bernardino Communities to be visited by Operation Stretch canvassers. Several other county communities will be canvassed later this year.

Gas company emplpyees conducting the door-to-door conservation counseling are giving people they contact a home energy planning guide. The guide contains material designed to help residents develop their own home energy conservation program.

While reviewing the contents of the guide, gas company counselors will offer to show residents the proper ways to use furnace thermostats, set water heater controls, change furnace filters, turn off or relight pilot lights on gas appliances and offer to turn off non-essential gas appliances such as patio heaters or tiki torches.

Counselors will also invite residents to visit the gas company's Home Energy Conservation Center — a special mobile exhibit that will be at the Montclair Plaza for five days beginning April 2.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Cost of housing still going up

The prices on existing homes are continuing to go up and up.

So reported Ira Gribin of Sherman Oaks, president of the California Association of Realtors.

And based on the results of a monthly survey of existing home sales, he urged persons interested in purchasing homes to "buy now."

One of the best investments a person can make now is the purchase of a home, he noted. "Here equity is built in and affords a couple an opportunity through the equity to afford an even better home.

"The cost of an existing home seems to be escalating according to our research department figures over the last six months."

For example, the median price of a single family home last July in a representative cross-section of the board of Realtors was $43,000.

This compares to latest figures supplied by the research department of January where the median price has now jumped by $1,200 to $44,200, he reported.

"Further, the average monthly price from July through December of 1975 for an existing home was $42,200. That's exactly $2,000 less than January's figures" He pointed out that the pattern holds nationally as well.

"Two years ago the median price of an existing family home nationally was $30,600. One year ago, it was $33,210. Today, it's $36,300 or about a 20 per cent increase in two years. No one can accurately predict what it will be a year from now, but chances are it will rise, not fall.

"Therefore, a couple should buy when they find the home they want and it is priced in a range they feel they can afford."

Gribin said the survey reveals that while the $30,000-$39,999 category with 24.8 per cent of the buyers is still the leader, the next higher category ($40,000-$49,999) is fast closing in with 23.4 per cent.

The survey is based on information collected in January from representative cross-sections from 33 boards of Realtors in California. CAR is composed of 175 boards. The 33 used in the survey constitute about 40 per cent of CAR's members.

The monthly report shows that two bedrooms or less constituted 19.8 percent of the existing home sales in January; three bedrooms, 53.6 percent; and four bedrooms or more, 26.6. percent.

The comparable December figures for two bedrooms or less was 19.5 percent; three bedrooms, 56 percent; and four bedrooms or more, 24.5 percent.

New savings to assist housing

Net new savings have been flowing into savings and loan associations at a "bristling pace" since the start of the year which suggests there will be an ample supply of mortgage funds to finance a strong level of housing activity for the rest of the year.

The National Association of Realtors also noted the favorable supply of money improves prospects that mortgage interest rates will dip to the 8.75 or 8.5 per cent range. The prevailing interest rate is in the 9 to 9:25 per cent range.

The association noted pluses and minuses in new single family home construction and sales. Single family home starts in February increased 37.2 per cent from January but new home sales in January slumped 15.7 per cent.

Seasonally adjusted annual rates for new single family home construction was 1,303,000 and new home sales, 552,000 units.

In addition, the supply of new homes available for sale in January totaled 384,000 units, up 6,000 from December. The association noted that the 384,000 units is about an 8.5 months' supply at the current sales rate.

Starts of multi-family units continued to drop on a month-to-month basis. February's construction starts totaled 252,000 units on a seasonally adjusted annual basis, down 8 per cent from January's 274,000 units.

Because of the low level of multi-family housing production, rental vacancy rates have declined sharply.

The report also indicated that sales of existing single-family homes, which slumped in January, rebounded in February to recover part of the previous month's lost ground.

Preliminary tabulations for February indicate that the seasonally adjusted volume index rose to the 120 to 122 range (1972 equals 100) from January's 116 level. That level was 15 points below December's.

2nd unit started by Lewis

Lewis Homes has begun construction on the second phase of its residential development in Claremont although the initial unit of homes has just been opened for preview showing.

"We have launched construction on the Phase II group ahead of the originally scheduled starting date because of the interest in the community being expressed by home seekers," said Richard A. Lewis, president of Lewis Homes.

The large size of the lot sites at Lewis Homes-Claremont is a major factor in generating buyers' favor, Lewis said. Each home is on a lot measuring 13,000 square feet or more.

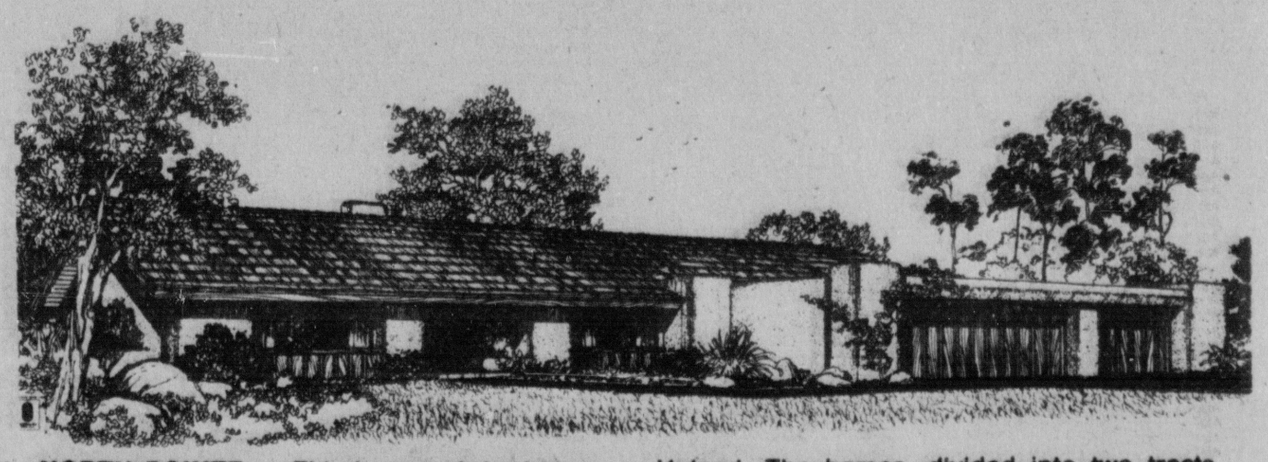
"This strikes today's home buyer as unbelievable," Lewis stated. He noted that spaciousness abounds within the homes also, for plans measuring as much as 2,194 square feet of livable area.

Three and four-bedroom plans at Lewis Homes-Claremont are priced from $54,750 with the price including refrigerated air-conditioning. The homes display two or two-and-one-half baths and two or three-car garages.

One section of Lewis Homes-Claremont has been designated as Equestrian Estates, homes in that section being set on lots zoned for horsekeeping.

Lewis noted that the foothills area in which the development is situated abounds in riding trails.

Lewis Homes-Claremont is reached from the San Bernardino Freeway by exiting at Indian Hill Boulevard and driving north to Base Line Road, then east 1¼ miles to the homes. Sales office is open daily till dusk.



NORTH POINTE — This is one of the homes featured at the North Pointe development in Upland. The homes, divided into two tracts, were built by Armstrong Development Corp.

Low down payments accepted at Pointe

Ten per cent down on the purchase of homes at the North Pointe development in Upland is being accepted by the developer.

"The 90 per cent financing allows families to move into a spacious, three or four bedroom home and immediately enjoy all the advantages of owning a home in a desirable neighborhood," said Roni Armstrong, marketing director for Armstrong Development Corp.

The development is divided into two tracts -- one on 20th Street and San Antonio Avenue and the second on 22nd Street and San Antonio Avenue.

Prices on the homes on 20th Street range from $57,300 to $60,300. The homes have from 1,900 to 2,111 square feet of floor space and are built on 15,000 square foot lots.

Homes on 22nd Street are priced from $67,800 to $69,800 and are built on half acre lots. These have from 2,219 to 2,581 square feet of floor space.

Families may select from six floor plans and 18 custom exteriors. The homes feature separate family rooms, formal dining rooms, fireplaces, built-in kitchen food centers and large master bedroom suites.

They also have wet bars, sunken living rooms and indoor planters. The private master bedroom suites include dressing areas and bathrooms, walk-in closets or mirrored wardrobe closets and some plans feature room-size bathrooms with Roman tubs.

Kitchens have self-cleaning double ovens, ranges, dishwashers, luminous overhead lighting, ceramic tile counter tops and kitchen dinette areas.

The homes include separate laundry rooms, wood shake roofs, wall-to-wall carpeting, vinyl flooring, concrete driveways, refrigerated air conditioning and forced air heating.

The sales offices are open daily at the 22nd Avenue tract. Persons may reach it by taking San Antonio Avenue north from Foothill Boulevard to 20th or 22nd Street and turning east.

Welfare no basis for rent

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Landlords are not allowed to evict a tenant or refuse to rent housing to persons because they are on welfare, Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger says.

Younger added in his opinion that it appears proper under the Unruh Civil Rights Act that there should be "reasonable requirements" to determine whether a prospective tenant can afford to pay rent.

Judicial decisions and prior opinions by Younger's office have consistently held that the Unruh Civil Rights Act was intended to prevent all arbitrary discrimination by businesses against Californians, Younger said.

The opinion, which does not have the force of law, was prepared by Deputy Atty. Gen. Carole Kornblum. It was requested by Sen. Peter Behr, R-Tuburon.

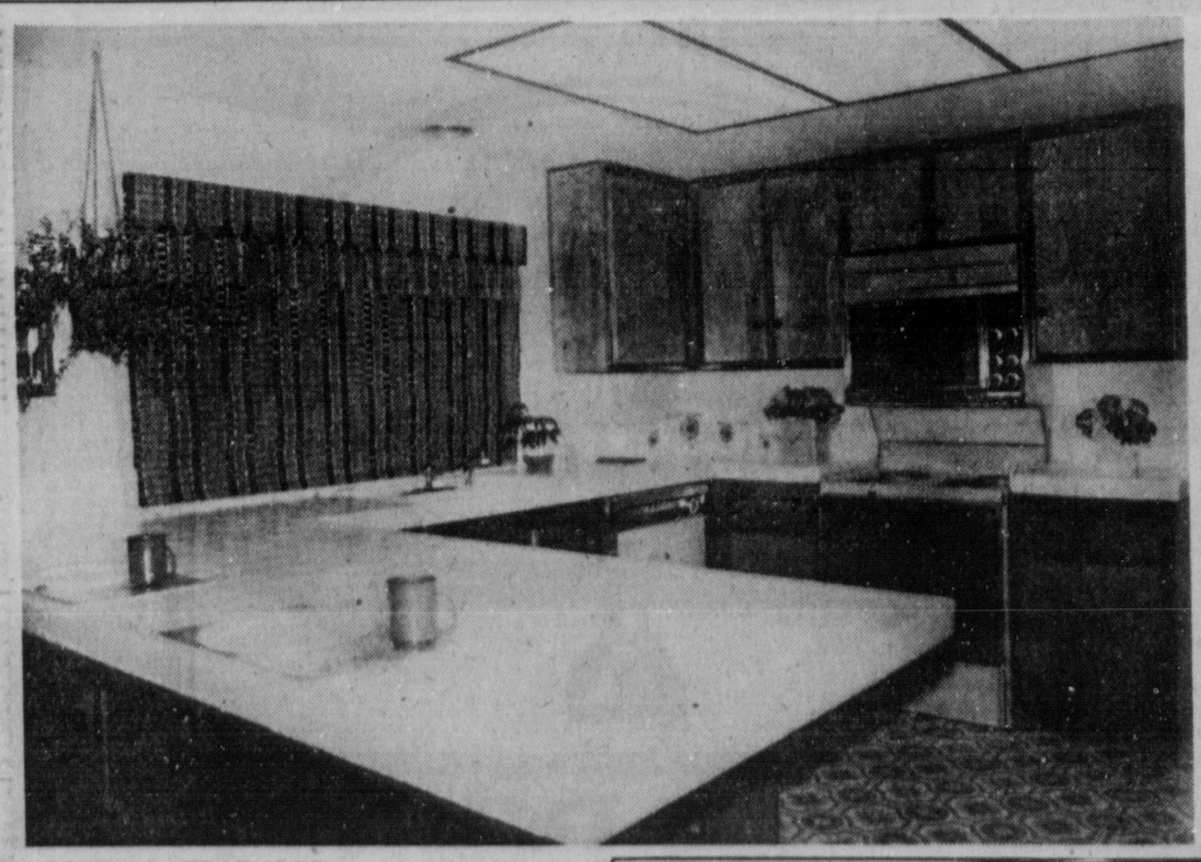
The cardinal is the state bird of Illinois.



KITCHENS FEATURED — Lewis Homes features the spacious kitchens in its new homes in Claremont. The first unit of homes is having a preview showing, with construction starting on the second phase. The homes are built on 13,000 square foot lots.

A family reunion

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Joe Peake is back, and he says he had the most glorious time he's ever had in his life.

"I was treated like visiting royalty," said the 87-year-old Welshman, who recently returned from a reunion in Llandudno, North Wales, with his sister, Mary Peake, 90.

Business briefs

MIAMI (AP) — In a major step toward labor peace, National Airlines has signed a nostrike agreement providing for binding arbitration with its largest employes union.

National President L.B. Maytag and M.B. Wigderson of the 3,300-member Air Line Employes Association (ALEA) Thursday called the pact a "milestone in industrial relations in the airline industry."

The agreement with ALEA provides that unresolved economic issues will be submitted to a federal arbitrator to assure contract settlements without disrupting operations. His decision would be binding for up to two years.

"This is recognition by the union and the company that everyone has been badly hurt by strikes. No one benefits by a strike," Maytag said.

National has been closed down by strikes 13 times in the line's 40-year-history--11 in the past 20 years. The latest was a four-month strike by flight attendants that ended Jan.6.

Maytag told a press conference that National is negotiating with the other unions for the same type of agreement as the one with ALEA.

The ALEA is National's largest union. Six other unions represent another 3,500 employes of a total labor force of 7,000.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Twist Drill Co., a division of Acme-Cleveland Corp., and Clarkson International Tools Ltd. have agreed in principle for Clarkson to buy the Cleveland firm's Scottish company, the firms report.

No purchase price was disclosed for Cleveland Twist Drill Ltd., the firm in Peterhead, Scotland, that employs 600 persons in making expendable metal cutting tools.

An official of the Cleveland parent company said the Scottish operation was profitable but, if retained, would require major investment in the European market to remain competitive.

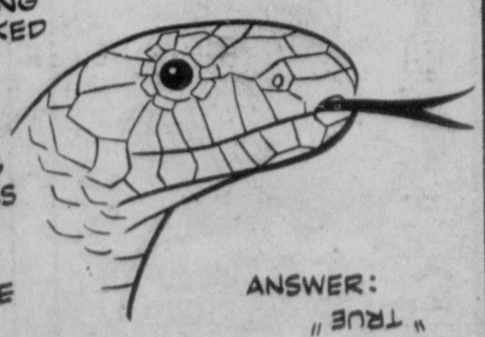
☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

ALL SNAKES ARE DEAF.

SNAKES

A SNAKE CAN'T STING WITH ITS FLICKERING TONGUE. THE FORKED TONGUE IS FOR TOUCHING THINGS AND FOR HELPING THE SNAKE TO SMELL BY PICKING UP ODOR CHEMICALS IN THE AIR.



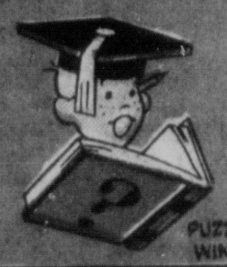
COLOR THE SNAKE BROWN

ANSWER: "TRUE"

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

THERESA BENNETT OF CAMBRIDGE, MD, ASKS:

"WHAT IS QUICKSAND?"



QUICKSAND IS A DEEP MASS OF SAND SO MIXED WITH WATER THAT THE SAND WILL SUPPORT LITTLE WEIGHT. QUICKSAND FORMS WHEN WATER IS FORCED UPWARD THROUGH THE SAND, MAKING IT A THICK, SOUPY LIQUID. IT USUALLY FORMS ON THE BOTTOMS OF STREAMS AND ON SAND FLATS ALONG SEACOASTS. PEOPLE WHO STEP INTO QUICKSAND NEED NOT SINK OUT OF SIGHT. SINCE IT CONTAINS SO MUCH WATER, QUICKSAND WILL ENABLE THEM TO FLOAT IF THEY DO NOT PANIC. BUT, BECAUSE IT IS SO THICK, IT IS HARD TO MOVE IN QUICKSAND.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — To protect my wigs and hairpieces from dust or being mussed up while on the closet shelf, I keep each one covered with one of those inexpensive (sometimes free) plastic rain caps. They work perfectly. — GERRI.

DEAR POLLY — I find that commercial cat litter (dried clay pellets) is ideal for soaking up oil drips from autos in the garage. Spread a liberal covering over the spot, let stand for an hour or so and then sweep up. — P.J.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, % this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — An old but still-firm toothbrush works fine for cleaning out the thickened particles in a paint brush. It also works well for cleaning a paint roller and then for brushing up the nap on the roller. — MRS. G.L.

DEAR POLLY — When working in the yard or garden and you want to be back in the house at a certain time, put an alarm clock in an open window, set it to ring at the time you want to go back into the house. This saves a lot of steps, running back and forth to see what time it is. — DOROTHY.

●

DEAR POLLY — I wash my flannel-backed plastic tablecloths in with the towels, hang them on the line until almost dry and then press with a warm iron on the flannel side. (Use only warm water.) — MRS. J.C.H.

●

DEAR POLLY — I discovered that spraying my spatula with a nonstick product before using will keep food from sticking and makes cleaning it easier. — DORIS.

DEAR POLLY — I use ¾-inch-wide masking tape for labeling canned and frozen foods. This serves the purpose very well and a roll goes such a long way. — MARY LOU.

●

DEAR POLLY — When I want to open an overcrowded kitchen drawer I insert a spatula through the crack at the top to hold down the protruding object until the drawer can be pulled open. — DOROTHY.

●

DEAR POLLY — A paste made of one of the cream substitutes, rubbed in well and then rinsed, will often remove ballpoint ink stains from fabric. — H.B.

●

DEAR POLLY — When lining a shelf or drawer with adhesive paper, remove only about an inch of the protective backing from the paper after it is cut to size. The paper will stay in place but is much easier to remove when need be. — DOROTHY

Important message from Art Linkletter

Dear Friend,

Now, you can protect your family with one of the finest values in supplemental hospital protection -- National Home protection. National Home pays out over 50,000,000 dollars every year to families like yours under our group and individual insurance plans.

These days, that's important. Especially when more and more people are going to the hospital every year. Over 35 million Americans are expected to enter hospitals in 1975.* If you're one of them where will you and your family turn?

You and I both know that hospital-medical prices are moving by leaps and bounds to price-tags few of us can afford. They've already doubled since 1968 and show no signs of slowing down.*

That's why National Home wants your protection to serve you in as many ways as possible . . . to provide the protection you need these days for your family and your future.

So take a moment now and learn about all the benefits of one of the most popular insurance plans of this type in America. Then send in the Enrollment Form on the back page with your reduced first month premium.

Your policy will arrive in the mail. If you don't feel completely happy and secure with your protection after you receive it, you can send it back within 10 days for a complete refund . . . and there's no further obligation on your part.

Sincerely,

Art Linkletter

* American Hospital Association

YOU'RE PROTECTED WITH ALL THESE FEATURES . . . AND MORE.

YOU RECEIVE- up to $1,200.00 a month—$40.00 a day for every covered hospital stay.

FIRST DAY PROTECTION—Cash benefits add up from the very first day. There are no deductibles or waiting periods . . . and no limit to the total amount you can receive.

YOU SPEND IT—Benefits are paid direct to you. You decide what medical bills to pay.

PAYS BENEFITS—regardless of any other plan you have, including Medicare, Medi-Cal, and Workmen's Compensation.

RENEWAL AND RATE CHANGE PROVISIONS—Once you have enrolled in this plan from National Home Life Assurance Company, your policy is guaranteed renewable. Your rate can be increased individually only if there is a rate increase on all our policies of this class in your state. It cannot be increased because of how much or how often you receive benefits from us—or because of advanced age. We will issue you only one policy of this class.

DON'T BE CAUGHT SHORT!

Many group insurance plans like Blue Cross or the one you have at work may not pay all the bills. That's why millions of Americans today have some form of additional protection, to give them the benefits they need when they're laid up. Ask anyone you know who's been in the hospital lately how tough it can be to make ends meet.

Many medical plans don't pay for a whole list of things. Outside specialists. Transfusions. Special nurses. Surgery. Medicines. Special equipment. A private room. Ambulance. And much more.

That's why everyone from 16-79 should have this National Home protection.

THE NATIONAL HOME HOSPITAL PLAN

PLAN A

PLAN A

FIRST DAY PROTECTION PAYS BENEFITS OF

$1,200.00 A MONTH ($40.00 A DAY)

NO DEDUCTIBLES

NO WAITING PERIODS

Hospital Benefits $1,200.00 a month ($40.00 a day) cash benefits

when you are hospitalized . . . for each covered illness or accident starting the very first day in the hospital, and continuing for as long as you stay, no matter how long that may be.

If you are 65 or over, you also receive full benefits of $1,200.00 a month ($40.00 a day) for as long as you are hospitalized . . . even for life! Unless you request otherwise, these benefits are paid directly to you and regardless of Medicare, Medi-Cal, or any other company's coverage you may already have.

Increased Hospital Accident Benefits $4,800.00 a month ($160.00 a day)

$2,400.00 a month ($80.00 a day) for you —and $2,400.00 a month ($80.00 a day) for your spouse . . . when a covered accident hospitalizes both covered husband and wife at the same time. Yes, you collect at the rate of $4,800.00 a month ($160.00 a day) in all (regardless of age) while you both are hospitalized as a result of injury—no matter how long that may be.

Important Feature

All cash benefits are not taxable, according to Internal Revenue Service rulings.

Accidental Loss Benefits $2,500.00 or $5,000.00 for complete accidental loss of limbs or eyesight. If you suffer complete loss of a hand or foot or the sight of an eye within 90 days of the covered accident, you receive $2,500.00 or $5,000.00 for the loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes.

Nurse at Home Benefits

$12.00 or $18.00 per shift for a nurse at home if your doctor recommends you hire one within five days following a covered hospital confinement. Benefits are payable at the rate of $18.00 per shift for a Registered Nurse or $12.00 per shift for a Licensed Vocational Nurse (both up to 3 shifts per day), continuing up to one year.

We Also Pay All Your Premiums

that come due after you, the policyowner, have been confined for a covered hospitalization beyond 8 weeks in a row. We pay the premium for your entire family plus your monthly benefits until you leave the hospital. And, we pay them for life if necessary . . .

Optional Coverages

Children's Benefits $1,200.00 a month ($40.00 a day) cash benefits

when your child (from birth through 18 years) is hospitalized for any covered accident or illness, when you have Coverage for Children, no matter how long the confinement may be. Coverage for illness or accident begins the very first day in the hospital.

Maternity $40.00 a day cash benefits

$40.00 a day, for maternity care in the hospital when Coverage for Children and Maternity have been added to the basic plan. The adult woman must be covered for the entire pregnancy.

Thousands of people have paid $5.85 to $32.90 for Hospital protection like this . . . Now you can try it for the first 30 days with no obligation for $1.

A Company you can rely on!

Over 1,350,000 Americans are enjoying National Home Cash Protection.

- National Home has been serving American families for over 50 years.
- National Home is currently paying benefits at the rate of $50,000,000.00 (50 million dollars) a year under various group and individual insurance plans.
- National Home insures all Americans—from every walk of life, without discrimination as to age, color, class, creed or sex.

E. Vargas, Oakland, says . . . "I am very well pleased with the fast and prompt service and payment. I will recommend National Home to anyone."

W. Wellington, San Dimas, says . . . "I am very pleased with the prompt way you handled my claim, especially since it was the second in one year. Thank you again."

T. LaRocque, Hesperia, says . . . "We wish to express our sincere thanks for the fast service which we have received from you. It was a "God send" to have this insurance along with our Medicare. Many of our friends have your insurance and I will certainly tell them about your prompt service."

"At National Home . . . We Care!"

'LUCY GOES STRAIGHT'

Just when Lucille Ball would seem to have mastered every trick of her trade and earned the right to rest high on a mountain of laurels, she comes up with something new.

In A Lucille Ball Special: "What Now, Catherine Curtis?," airing Tuesday at 10PM, she plays "straight" in a serio-comic trilogy of brief dramas about a woman who has just been divorced after many years of marriage and is faced with building a new life alone. Her co-stars are Art Carney and Joseph Bologna.

It marks the first time the veteran comedienne has worked in a one-camera film show for television. "We made this special like a motion picture," she says, "with high hopes—and high budget."

"Lots of women everywhere will be able to identify with the Catherine Curtis character," she comments. "Women who have been married 20 or 25 years and suddenly are divorced and alone for the first time.

"It's not a Lucy Show and it's not drama. It is some of each, I guess, but primarily it's a slice of life—which is always a blend of comedy and tragedy, isn't it?"

"What Now, Catherine Curtis?" affords Lucille Ball, actress, yet another excursion into new fields for her talents to conquer: a one-woman tour de force in the opening playlet wherein she is seen in a ten-minute monologue on the occasion of Catherine's first night alone in a new apartment—and in a new life.

Lucille Ball and Art Carney star in A Lucille Ball Special: "What Now, Catherine Curtis?," a trilogy of short plays about the comic experiences and emotional adjustments of a divorcee in her middle years.

COVER CLOSE-UP

Jack Warden (right) and Alan Feinstein.

Not long ago a senior citizens' group called NBC to protest that when Jigsaw John was shown as a TV movie ("They Only Come Out at Night") the leading character, as played by Jack Warden was older than Jigsaw John is in the new NBC series (Mondays at 10PM). Not so! cried the network, "Jack Warden played Investigator John St. John as a guy in his middle or late fifties in the pilot, and in the series St. John remains the same age. Chiefly because that's how old the real John St. John of the Los Angeles Police Department is, and secondly because Jack Warden makes no bones about the fact that he was born in 1920.

Then why do we think he was older in the pilot, they asked? Glad you asked. In the first place, he shaved off the mustache he wore in the pilot (the real St. John is clean-shaven). In the second place, Warden wore a contact lens in the pilot to duplicate St. John's almost-blind eye. Most of the time on-camera you couldn't see the lens, but it was terribly uncomfortable and for a series, which lasts a lot longer than the ten or twelve shooting days for a TV movie, to wear a contact lens of that kind would have been excruciating.

But the most important thing about Warden's appearance as the veteran homicide investigator was that he has lost quite a bit of weight after going on a health kick. Not only does Warden play tennis every day of his life, but he has started to watch his consumption of carbohydrates and there is a notable lack of bread, potatoes, alcohol, sweets or anything which puts on poundage. Evidently it must show.

That the senior citizens noticed so minutely the changes in Warden's performance is not surprising when you consider the manner in which he goes about creating a character. It doesn't hit you right between the eyes in the first week, but is a subtle ongoing characterization which gives bones and sinew to a role. Is it the Stanislavsky Method?

Yes, as a matter of fact, there is quite an element of that theatrical pundit in Warden's approach to any role, whether it be the aging lecher he played in "Shampoo," the irritable salesman in "Twelve Angry Men," or the role of Coach George Halas in "Brian's Song." Warden was trained in classical theater with Margo Jones in Houston. This training came after ten very colorful years in his teens and early twenties during which he was successively: a streetwise kid on the Newark waterfront, a 16 year old professional boxer, a 17 year old sailor in the U.S. Navy stationed in China, a 21 year old longshoreman and merchant mariner pre-World War II (during which repeated bombings of the merchant ships on which he was working as a water-tender below decks convinced him that he would never again do such a job), a 21-year-old U.S. Army paratrooper, and a 22-year-old hospitalized veteran, making his first acquaintance with theater through USO shows and printed play collections.

Having once been bitten by the theater bug, Warden was fortunate enough to learn the craft from every angle. This included acquaintance with Stanislavsky's basic techniques, but this was overlaid with every other kind of practical training. In addition, he brought to his new career his long-standing habit of "people watching." And, having traveled the world in every strata of society, he had observed a myriad of types. It is this background he draws on when building a John St. John or any other role he essays. People notice how he walks (is he older? is he younger?) They notice whether he wears or doesn't wear a toupe (vanity is not one of his vices, so he uses or doesn't use hairpieces depending on whether he thinks the role demands it, not because he wants to look handsome.)

The relationship with fellow actor Alan Feinstein, who plays his partner Investigator Sam Donner, also will emerge slowly as the series goes along. On the show's debut it was impossible to indicate the extent of their rapport. In subsequent episodes, the byplay between the forever-dieting St. John (they worked in Warden's preoccupation with paring pounds) and the always-eating Donner; the always-working St. John and the forever-yearning-to-have-a-night-off Donner, builds an easy relationship. These things take time and don't spring full-blown onto the TV screen.

One change from the onscreen and offscreen Warden which was incorporated into scripts, was St. John's supposed great love for Chinese food. Many of the scenes are shot in a Chinese restaurant to which the fictional St. John repairs at the end of a hard day. Actually, given his choice, Jack Warden would hark back to the great Italian food he knew as a boy in Newark (and won't eat often these days when he ponders the carbohydrate count).

Although Investigator John St. John is probably Los Angeles' best-known homicide investigator (he is credited with a 90 per cent conviction rate because of the painstaking way in which he builds his cases, piece-by-piece as in a jigsaw), it was not possible to use real cases on which to base the scripts. It might have been too painful for the families of the victims, should real names and places have been used. And if unflattering portrayals had to be done, there is always the threat of legal action. Therefore, the scripts deal with areas in which an LAPD investigator might work, but specific cases are not used. Real Los Angeles locales are, however, employed and the show films from one end of the city to the other—often in areas not seen previously in TV series.

Once or twice a week a quiet, balding man with grey-sprinkled sideburns drops by the set. He is greeted by the star, a laconic fellow himself, and both go about their business. It is the real Investigator John St. John taking a look at the fictional one. Does he approve? Who knows? Detectives are silent fellows.

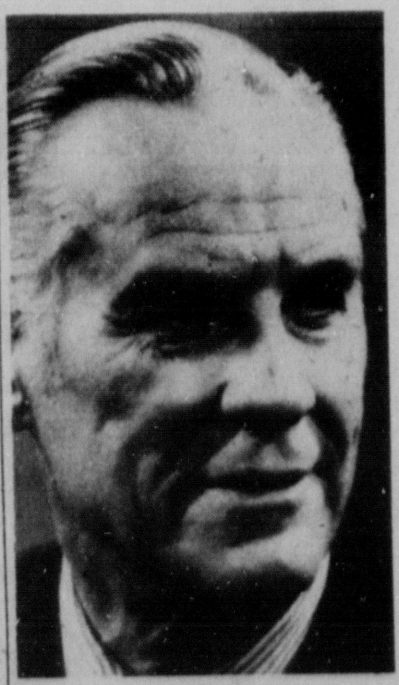
Original cast members Helen Wagner and Don MacLaughlin, who portray Nancy and Chris Hughes, celebrate the 20th anniversary of As the World Turns, on Friday (April 2) The serial, which premiered in 1956, is seen weekdays at 12:30PM on CBS.



Overweight and overwrought, one of Dr. Bob Hartley's patients (Cliff Osmond) insists that Carol (Marcia Wallace) go out on a date with him to prove she doesn't hate heavy people, on The Bob Newhart Show, Saturday (April 3) at 9:30 PM on CBS.

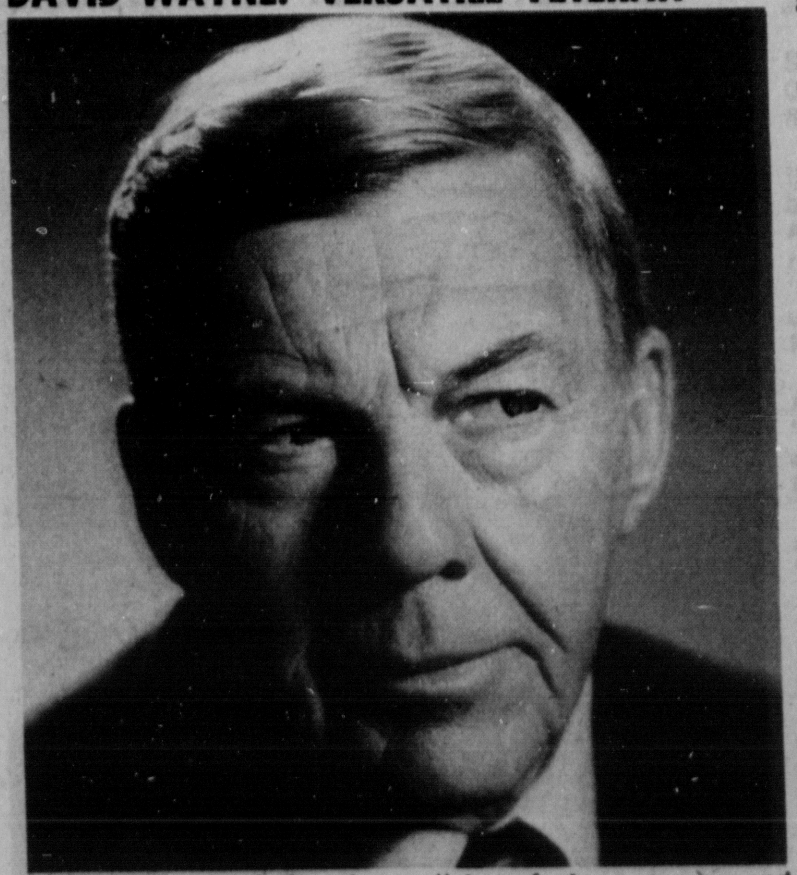
DAVID WAYNE: 'VERSATILE VETERAN'



Whoever coined the phrase "star of stage, screen and television" could have been thinking of David Wayne, co-star of NBC's Ellery Queen series. The versatile veteran not only has extensive credits in each of these theatrical areas but, as frosting on the cake, a nice sprinkling of award citations.

Wayne's first professional appearance as an actor was in Shakespeare's "As You Like It" with the Globe Players at the Cleveland Exposition in 1936. Three years later he played his first substantial Broadway role in "The American Way."

Following a tour of duty in the U.S. Army, he appeared in the Broadway musicals "Park Avenue" and "Finian's Rainbow." For the latter, he won his first Antoinette Perry (Tony) Award for his performance as the singing leprechaun. He received critical acclaim for his portrayal of Ensign Pulver in "Mister Roberts," then was awarded his second Tony statuette for his performance in "The Teahouse of the August Moon."

He also starred in "Say Darling," "Send Me No Flowers," Arthur Miller's "Incident at Vichy" and Eugene O'Neill's "Marco Millions," among others. His most recent Broadway musical was "The Happy Time," for which he received his third Tony nomination.

Wayne, having made a practice of interspersing screen roles with his Broadway work, has appeared on film in "Adam's Rib," "How to Marry a Millionaire," "Portrait of Jennie," "The Tender Trap," "The Last Angry Man" and "The Andromeda Strain." He is currently starring in the movie "The Front Page," playing the effete dandy of the police press room.

Wayne also has appeared as a guest star on nearly all of the major television dramatic shows. He was nominated for an Emmy Award for his performance in the Gunsmoke episode, "Do Good."

Wayne's big hobby is river-fishing for salmon. Each summer he and his wife Jane trek from their apartment in Westwood, Calif. to their home in Westport, Conn., pack up their fishing gear and head for the waters around Montreal, Canada, for at least one month.

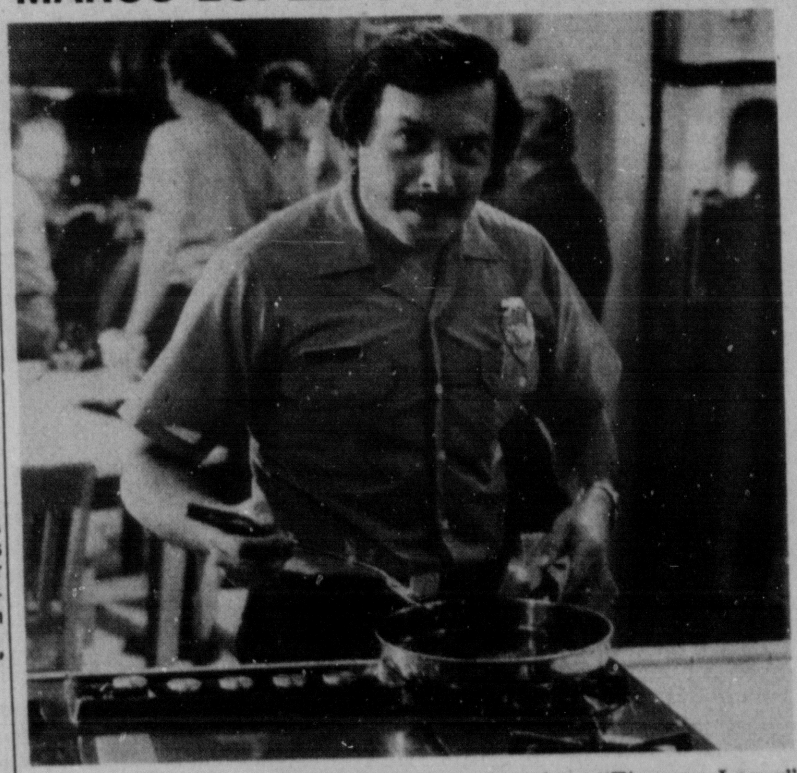
'MARCO LOPEZ: CHIEF CHEF'



You might say that Marco Lopez, who plays "Fireman Lopez" in NBC's Emergency! series, Saturdays at 8PM, has cooked his way into the hearts of the cast and crew of the action-adventure series.

"In fact, you might say that I've cooked my way all the way from Dragnet to and through Emergency!, Lopez says. "It all started as a dare back during Dragnet, when we would talk about hobbies between takes and I admitted I liked to cook. The guys said, 'Prove it.' I set up a hotplate backstage on Stage 33 and whipped up a couple of Mexican dishes. That was the start."

In the Dragnet days, Lopez used to double for Jack Webb in long shots, as well as performing in small roles. Webb is a great one for keeping the same actors on salary in various capacities, whatever show he is doing. So when Webb's Mark VII productions began Emergency!, Lopez was retained, this time as a full regular in the cast, a member of the fictional "Fire Station 51" crew. And in the Fire Station is a fully operative gas stove, which meant that Marco could turn out a complete Mexican meal, rather than an occasional hors d'oeuvre. Now when the cast and crew are on Universal Studio's Stage 41, the Rampart General Hospital set across the street from Stage 33, Lopez will seize the opportunity for fixing quesadillas (fried tortillas filled with jack cheese, avocado slices, onions . . . but no meat), homemade refried beans, rice fixed with onions, garlic, mushrooms, peas, fresh coriander, sour cream and sliced hardboiled eggs, plus either a pumpkin torte or an authentic Spanish flan. As an hors d'oeuvre he will fix his own version of guacamole.

The recipe follows:

6 to 8 avocados (for 6 people . . . obviously he multiplies for the crew)
1 minced clove of garlic
1 finely chopped medium size onion
a handful of finely chopped fresh coriander
3 fresh yellow chilis (not canned)
3 medium size tomatoes - peeled.
1 handful salted peanuts
6 slices crisp bacon
4 tbsp. sour cream

Mash the avocado and add all spices. Mash peeled tomato into the avocado and add a handful of chopped salted peanuts and crumble the six slices of crisp bacon. Add sour cream until you approve of the consistency (some like it runny—some rather stiff).

Marco says he prefers taco chips for dipping the guacamole, but potato chips or crackers will do nicely.

About six times during the season it's a Mexican fiesta on Emergency! and, if anybody suffers heartburn, the place is loaded with paramedics.

MARY WICKES: A HEALTHY RESPECT FOR NURSES

In October 1939, Mary Wickes was called "Miss Bedpan" by the irascible character Sheridan Whiteside in the classic Kaufman-Hart comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner." As Nurse Preen, Miss Wickes became the overnight darling of New York's nursing corps and was dutifully inducted into their ranks as an "honorary nurse." Happily, she's never been able to live it down.

Today, she's still wearing nurse's "whites" every week on the comedy series Doc, broadcast (Saturdays at 8:30PM) on CBS. There's more to her portrayal than simply doing her job as an actress, however.

"In those early days when I appeared with Monty Wooley in 'The Man Who Came to Dinner,' " she says, "I got to know many of the New York nurses quite well. As part of the publicity for the play, I became more than a little interested in the nursing profession. Early on, I developed a healthy respect for nurses. Since that time, I've reprised the role of Miss Preen in the motion-picture version of the play and twice for television adaptions. And I guess I've done some dozen or so other major nurse roles down through the years.

"I've always insisted on playing a nurse with dignity and respect, although it has been mostly in the comedy vein. Happily, they've listened to me here at Mary Tyler Moore Productions with regard to my role of Miss Tully, Doc's nurse. Originally, they considered the role less formalized than the nurse I'm now doing. I opted for more authenticity to dignify the profession. Instead of a more casual attire, I asked for the regulation cap, whites, cape and so on. A nurse is privileged to serve and the uniform is a sort of badge of honor as far as I'm concerned. I also make suggestions to keep the nursing references accurate."

Miss Wickes knows what she's talking about, and not just as an actress. She works closely with nurses on a volunteer basis as an official chaplain's aide. She's a graduate of the volunteer Chaplain's Aide Institute, which is conducted by the Department of Spiritual Therapy and Pastoral Care of the University of California at Los Angeles Center for Health Sciences. She has served for some eight years as a volunteer at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles and at the UCLA Center for Health Sciences.

"I haven't been able to do as much as I've wanted to since joining the Doc show, she says, "because we work such concentrated hours. However, I'm planning on resuming my duties at the Medical Center as soon as we take a vacation break from the series. I consider this work an honor to perform and an opportunity to give something back to the society that's been so good to me."

MACKENZIE PHILLIPS: PUBLIC vs. PRIVATE EDUCATION

Mackenzie Phillips is faced with a problem that school-age actors and actresses have been faced with since the authorities acknowledged the fact that young actors were often over-worked and under-educated. Mackenzie, who is sixteen, co-stars on the comedy series, One Day at a Time, airing on CBS, Tuesdays at 9:30PM.

"I first started working when I was thirteen," says Mackenzie "and up until that time, I had attended public and private schools with co-educational classes varying in size from 10 to 30 students. However, after I appeared in the movie 'American Graffiti,' my career shot off into high gear and my life hasn't been the same since. I have been working regularly and I've gone from one film to another and from one television guest appearance to another.

"Now that I'm on a regular series, One Day at a Time, my life has settled down somewhat but I still want an education and that's a difficult thing to get when you're working.

"The law states that an actress my age cannot work more than four hours per day and she must have three hours of schooling per day. With a law like that,I couldn't possibly attend a public school and so I have a private tutor for three hours every day. When the series finishes taping for the season, I go back to a professional high school but most of my education since the age of thirteen has been through private tutors. Now this has bad points as well as good points!

"I kind of regret not going to school dances, rooting for a football team and competing for grades and class offices. That's an important part of growing up but I do lead a very fulfilling life as it is and I can't have everything. It's worth giving up some of those things to get what I do have and enjoy.

"With a private tutor, I get personal attention. There is no question of mine that goes unanswered. This may sound immodest but it seems to me that both my vocabulary and knowledge surpass that of other young people that I've met who are of the same age.

"I keep hearing stories of Hollywood child actors of the golden 30's and 40's who took to pills and grew up too fast too soon by not attending public school with nonprofessional students. Those young actors lived in some studio cocoon world with no thought to their futures. Fortunately, that type of studio world no longer exists.

"TELE-TALK"

James Whitmore Jr. honestly doesn't know if being the son of a famous actor has helped or hurt his own acting career. "I haven't been aware of it either way," said young Whitmore. "I do know Dad was very much against my being an actor because he knows what a hard business it is, and how devastating it is waiting for your next job."

Whitmore fortunately hasn't undergone too much of that kind of strain recently. He is a guest star on The Blue Knight, (Wednesday at 10PM) on CBS, playing a rookie cop who gets a liberal education on the beat from veteran Bumper Morgan (series star George Kennedy).

He said his family is currently swept up by the excitement of his father's Oscar nomination for his superb one - man performance in "Give 'em Hell, Harry." A younger brother is in college studying drama education and the youngest is a forest ranger.

"When people ask if I've learned from my father, I have to say it's been an unconscious kind of process," Whitmore said. "I was his stage manager when he was developing his first one-man show as Will Rogers. For three days, he was my father working out a part and then suddenly, there was the character and I couldn't tell you how it happened."

The younger Whitmore, who is in his late 20s, has been acting eight years. He studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, did theater work in the West Indies, where he met and married his wife, Salesha, and performed with Ralph Waite's Los Angeles Actors Theatre.

His television credits include the new television film, "Law and Order;" "Guilty or Innocent: the Sam Sheppard Murder Case;" Doctors Hospital, Medical Story, MacMillan and Wife and Joe Forrester. His future plans include returning to Trinidad to make films. He likes the exotic locale there, in contrast to the familiar surroundings of New York and Hollywood.

"Surprise is a very important part of my life," said young Whitmore. "I want to try new things in different places."

When the "bomberos" (fireman) from South of the Border came to Los Angeles as guests of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, who was the main attraction of the final night's prize-giving? Marco Lopez, who plays the role of Fireman Lopez on NBC's Emergency! series (Saturdays, 8-9PM), that's who! The 125 firemen who visited Los Angeles recently chatted with their hosts and revealed that Emergency! is "Numero Uno" among the favorite shows for fire fighters who labor in municipalities that are often poor and inadequately equipped. Lacking the funds for special training, many of the men watch the show as an educational aid in learning techniques of life-saving. Spanish-speaking instructors were provided by the County during the week of special training and, happily, "Fireman Lopez" qualifies on all counts as a good spokesman. He was on hand also when special certificates were presented to the bomberos from the various states of Mexico.

Production has begun on "Kramer's Drugstore," a half-hour comedy development project for NBC starring veteran television, film and stage performer Herschel Bernardi.

Bernardi, who starred in the comedy television series, Arnie, portrays the owner of a Brooklyn drugstore in the 1930s. Michael LeClaire plays Woody Kramer, Bernardi's 12-year-old son, who spends most of his time helping his father in the store, playing punchball, going to school and trying to avoid homework.

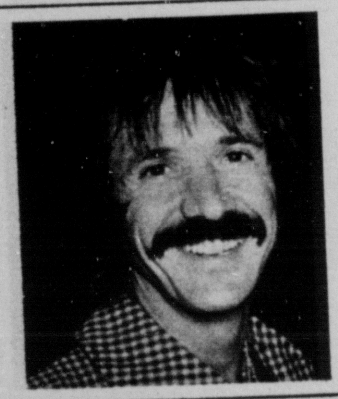
Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.



FOR SONNY BONO

I'm a father who's about to be divorced. Can you tell me how to make things easier on our daughter, who's 4?—H.R., Chattanooga, Tenn.

● I can tell you how we worked it with Chastity. Kids accept the split-up better if their hours with Dad after the divorce match the time spent with him before it. Dads who get kids on weekends are forced to pack a week of play into a few hours, and sometimes they'd rather be home watching the ball game. Kids sense the unreality, and Dad resents it because the weekend is his only time to relax, as it was before. It's important to preserve the pre-divorce atmosphere. When Chastity is with me for weekends or days at a stretch, I don't spend every second with her. I never did that before; if I did now, it would be unnatural. We do what we did when Cher was around—watch TV, go to dinner or out for ice cream, play games, see a movie, sit in the park and go shopping. That's why Chastity is so well-adjusted. Her lifestyle hasn't changed.

FOR F. LEE BAILEY

There have been many rumors about how you got into the Hearst case and how much money you were being paid. What's your story?—Robert Downey, Atlantic City, N.J.

● Mr. Randolph Hearst asked me to defend his daughter. When I agreed to do so, I had no idea what the fee would be because I didn't know how much time it was going to take. Even if we had agreed on a fee, it wouldn't be up to me to say what it was. That would be up to the discretion of the client.

FOR BERNADETTE STANIS, star of "Good Times"

When you first arrived in Hollywood from New York, was it all you thought it would be?—E.H., Asbury Park, N.J.

● The city was—the people weren't. I couldn't believe that most (not all) of the performers were so crude—and as hard as nails. They're envious of everyone who is making it. I don't know why I should have been the cause of anyone's resentment. I'm not jealous; I believe that sooner or later we all have to pay our dues in life. I'm addressing these remarks to no one in particular but everyone in general.

FOR REP. SHIRLEY CHISHOLM (D.-N.Y.)

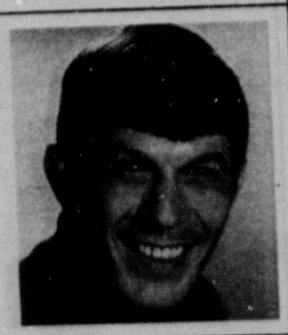
I hear you recently bought a home in upstate New York some 450 miles from New York City. Are you going to make a dramatic move away from Brookiyn?—Peter Neville, Brockport, N.Y.

● There is no political motive behind my real-estate investment in Amherst, N.Y. I bought the house there for investment purposes. My residence is, as it has been during most of my lifetime, in Brooklyn.

FOR ART LINKLETTER

After what happened to your daughter Diane [who committed suicide in 1969 after taking LSD], are you in favor of legalizing marijuana?—M. Macaione, Escondido, Calif.

● I'm against legalizing it. I hope and pray it never will be legal because it's just another chemical crutch. On the other hand, I don't believe anyone who smokes pot should be sent to prison as a felon, thus ruining his (or her) life and making society guilty of overkill. I believe in the California law: a person with less than an ounce in his possession is fined and cited for a misdemeanor.



FOR LEONARD NIMOY of "Star Trek"

I recently saw you on the "$10,000 Pyramid," and I wonder what makes dramatic actors appear on game shows.—J. Morgan, Grand Rapids, Mich.

● I can't answer for others, unless it's to keep themselves in the public eye. As for me, it happens to be one of the few games that I play well. I always watch it when I'm home, too. I knew it would be fun, and fun isn't that easy to find these days. Some game shows (and I won't mention any names) are an embarrassment, and I often wonder why people get into them.

FOR BARBARA WALTERS

You once said you wanted to change your name to Babs Elliott. Were you serious?—Michael K. Yannetta, Pinckneyville, Ill.

● No. I said I disliked my name when I was younger because it sounded so ordinary. I thought "Babs Elliott" seemed so sophisticated and crisp. However, these days I accept myself—and my name—with much more comfort.

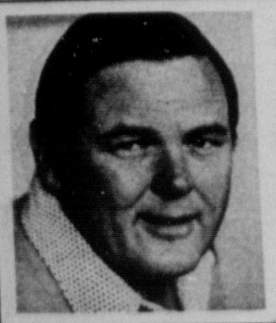
Is your own real-life personality like that of Caroline Ingalls on "Little House on the Prairie"?—D.M., Racine, Wis.

● I believe in many of the same things Caroline believes in, such as the importance of family and friends. But I'm single and have no children, so my way of life is quite different. I'm interested in books, plays, politics, women's rights and dozens of other things that poor Caroline never would have had time or money for.



FOR KEITH JACKSON, sportscaster

Who would you choose as the greatest athlete of the last 10 years?—Mary Solty, Chicago, Ill.

● The most complete athlete I have watched in the past decade is O. J. Simpson. His fame has come primarily as a football player, but at the University of Southern California, he was once a member of a track relay team that set a world record. I believe he could have competed in the Olympics or played baseball successfully or done almost anything he wanted.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I want to be a writer. Is sex an absolutely essential ingredient of a successful novel?—J.R., Tuscaloosa, Ala.

● We talked to three successful writers. Louis L'Amour, author of 62 Western books and 33 stories, says not one of them contains racy passages or obscenities: "I don't think it's important to explore the sex lives of my characters. It's not the No.-1 thing in our lives, even though it's essential and interesting." But Harold Robbins says: "Sex is as necessary in a book as in real life. Portraying the world without it is avoiding the issue. But, like a good steak, it should not be overdone." Rona Jaffe says: "If the novel is about cannibalism, you don't need sex. If it deals with personal relationships, you do. It all depends on the plot."

The Richard Nixon I Know

By Charles W. Colson
Formerly Special Counsel to the President, 1969-73

Charles Colson was one of the five men closest to President Nixon. After a Watergate conviction and a brief prison term, he turned to religion—and he describes his Nixon years and subsequent conversion in intimate detail in his new book, "Born Again" (Chosen/Revell, $8.95). Here, exclusively for FAMILY WEEKLY, he examines the nature of the man who was for years his guiding light and who, he says, is still his friend.

Artwork by Blake Hampton

Richard Milhous Nixon, 37th President of the United States:
Villain ☐ Martyr ☐ Manipulator of people and power ☐
Dishonored the Presidency ☐ Cold ☐ Compassionate ☐
All of the above ☐

It was near midnight of May 8, 1972. North Vietnamese divisions were slicing through the heart of South Vietnam. The White House was ablaze with lights, with chattering teletype machines in the Situation Room flashing "eyes-only" reports while waves of American planes sprinkled Haiphong Harbor with mines and rained tons of bombs on North Vietnam.

Richard Nixon had just announced his decision to do these things—live over three networks. The Soviet Summit, three years in the making and a cornerstone of our ingenious grand design for world peace, was in instant jeopardy. Both Nixon and Kissinger believed then the Soviets would cancel.

But what if Nixon were wrong and the Soviets did more than cancel the Summit? What if they retaliated? And what of the Chinese, with whom we had just begun a suspicion-laden dialogue? Would there be World War III? I felt nauseated. And the election in a war-weary nation was but six months away. The President was leading by a shaky six points in the public opinion polls.

"Mr. President, I am afraid this could cost us the election," I said ruefully.

But Richard Nixon's jaw tightened. "So what? It's the right thing to do," he said. "If I didn't do it, the Presidency wouldn't be worth getting re-elected to!"

This gritty stand will go down in history as but one fleeting moment in President Nixon's grisly and futile effort to save South Vietnam. But I will remember it as a time when the Richard Nixon I knew showed selfless courage, the stuff of which great men are made.

The Russians flinched, South Vietnam was for the moment spared, and the Summit came to pass. This and his Marco Polo-like trip to China were two diplomatic triumphs in fast succession, and Nixon's noblest dreams seemed within reach. "Chuck, what I want when we're through, more than anything, is to leave this a little safer world than we found it four years ago so your boys and others like them won't have to fight," he said wistfully as we dined together one summer evening on a stone terrace of his palisade estate at San Clemente, staring at the dazzling blue vastness of the Pacific below and beyond.

But politics could easily figure in even critical foreign policy decisions. One autumn day in 1971, the President, Bob Haldeman and I were reviewing plans for the China and Russia visits. I mentioned a "coincidence": Nixon would be returning from these trips on the eve of the New Hampshire and California primaries. "No coincidence," Haldeman snapped, unsmiling. "So what if New Hampshire advances the date of the primary?" I chided. (Such a proposal was before the New Hampshire legislature.) "We'll move up the China trip," Nixon laughed. We all smiled at the joke—but I was never sure if it was a joke.

That a man seeking greatness could be at times consumed with pettiness is but one of the many paradoxes of Richard Nixon. Once he called me after a TV interview in which Dan Rather of CBS had stung him with a string of snidely worded questions. "Get a hundred people to call Rather and complain," he commanded. Then he proceeded to dictate precise messages which these callers should convey.

He was blowing off steam. I knew it; but I also followed his orders. Soon we had one Republican Committee employee assigned full time to carrying out such assignments, which included carefully orchestrated "letters to the editor" campaigns across the country. (The technique was not invented by Mr. Nixon. I'd seen similar devices employed in the six political campaigns I'd worked in since 1956.) Nixon asked for and received weekly reports on our success.

As a one-time heel-clicking Marine Captain whose spine tingled every time the National Anthem was played, I followed my orders unquestioningly. Even as I came to know Nixon well, I never lost my reverent awe of the President, or the Presidency, which for me were synonymous. "Chuck, I want this on the best-seller list," Nixon told me once, slamming a red-and-black jacketed book on his massive polished desk. I must have looked startled. His order came in the middle of a chain of instructions about a press briefing on strategic arms talks.

I saw at a glance that the book, "The News Twisters," written by a New York TV critic, was destined to preserve the author's obscurity. It was chock-full of charts and graphs showing the anti-Nixon bias of TV coverage of the 1968 campaign. Well done and scholarly—but it was definitely not bedtime reading.

But an order is an order. At my staff meeting that morning, I asked if anyone knew how to get a book on the best-seller list. One enterprising staffer discovered that some best-seller lists were based on weekly phone surveys of several key New York bookstores. Once we knew that, it was only a matter of logistics. I sent $8,000 in campaign funds to a stalwart supporter in New York. He recruited several young volunteers who roamed the streets, buying out one by one the total supply of a dozen stores. The following Monday, I proudly strode into the Oval Office and laid Time magazine on Mr. Nixon's desk. There on the best-seller list was "The News Twisters." The Commander-in-Chief's orders were carried out, and an excited publisher rushed into a second printing (which doubtless resulted in the largest book-remainder sale in history).

I have never encountered a more brilliant mind than Richard Nixon's. I watched him on countless occasions listen to lengthy and complex briefings, staring impatiently and occasionally pulling a single, folded sheet of yellow legal-pad paper from his pocket to jot down notes (usually reminders to himself of things which had nothing to do with the briefing). Invariably when it was over

Nixon would cogently tick off the critical points, distilling an hour's worth of words to their absolute essence.

I always marveled at his capacity and was sometimes embarrassed by it. One day I was outlining my plan for a critical legislative issue. "But wait a minute," he interrupted, "that isn't what you recommended in that memo you sent me. . . ." Then he paused, looked at the ceiling and recalled, "It was about seven or eight months ago, I think." He then summarized what I had written. Flustered, I bluffed my way through the rest of the conversation, scurried back to my office and found my file copy. It was nine months old; Nixon's recollection was uncannily precise. I had to learn to prepare more carefully for my meetings with him.

But such brilliance failed him when it came to the Watergate tapes. "It was all Bob Haldeman's idea—stupid, utterly stupid. I told Bob to take the system out, but he didn't. You know Bob," he lamented to me one day in the midst of the Watergate maelstrom just before Christmas 1973. Yet, of course, as history must conclude, he knew of the tapes before their disclosure, deliberately decided not to destroy them and kept them until the very end of his Presidency. Then ultimately he was forced, as he must have known he would be, to turn over the proof of his own lies. To this day I do not understand it—nor does he.

Nor can I understand how a man who trusted so few could put his life into the hands of a man—John Dean—whom he scarcely knew. Secretive, lonely, often distrustful, Nixon shared his innermost confidences with only a handful of people—secretary Rosemary Woods, daughter Julie, talking companion Bebe Rebozo, Bob Haldeman and often me (though not so often as I thought then, now that I have read many of the Watergate tapes). Hardly anyone could say they knew him—maybe five or six of us believed we did. He told me many things, some so personal I shall never repeat them, but it was only after he trusted and tried me for a year. And yet, from the middle of February to the middle of March 1973, he allowed himself to become a coconspirator in the cover-up of the Watergate break-in with John Dean, a young, untried member of the White House staff he had seen in his office on only three prior occasions. Criminal conspirators, smart ones anyway, do not make mistakes like that, and even his worst detractors credit him with intelligence. Why, then?

The modern-day Presidency is the result of 30 years of steadily inflating public expectations. A President is expected to be guardian of the Nation's morals, commander of the armies, negotiator of treaties, provider of jobs and the one who sees that Social Security checks are delivered on time. Impossible.

John Neubauer

Colson and his wife, Patty.

Note how each new President vows to maintain a small staff, then hires a larger one than his predecessor. Given the inhuman demands of the office, it is unavoidable. Add to that Mr. Nixon's own penchant for public relations and his insistence on quiet and solitude for his tough decision-making. The result was a system created by computerlike Chief-of-Staff Haldeman in which orderliness was an end in itself.

The White House became one grand theater. "At 3:07, Governor Evans will enter the Oval Office; move to the right; Ollie Atkins will enter from the side door for photos. . . . You may tell the Governor you recall his letter of January 24 . . . at 3:11 call for John Whittaker . . . 3:14, hand out gifts—Presidential cufflinks. . . ." Such detailed instructions were contained in comprehensive briefing papers governing every minute of the President's public day. There was no room for the pesky intrusions of policy dissenters, or of nonconspirators sounding alarms.

Often, in the quiet of his private office, puffing on his meerschaum pipe (never in public), folded into an easy chair, he would read or muse over a tough decision. Then at the appointed time he would change from a baggy sports jacket, wash his face, slap his cheeks to restore their healthy glow and begin his walk to the Oval Office. Shoulders erect, a smile across his face, he stepped to a Presidential rhythm. On stage. Lights . . .

Nixon had an uncanny ability to rise to his role. I recall one Saturday morning when staff morale was low because of reverses in Vietnam and slumping opinion polls. Nixon had a bad cold, his face was sallow, his eyes watering, his voice cracking. "Let me call the doctor in," I urged. "No, no, no, I'm fine. You know, Chuck, the leader has to be 'up.' He can't afford to be 'down.' I've got to set the tone. Look at Henry's [Kissinger's] face and you know we're getting the tar beaten out of us." An hour later I returned to the Oval Office where Mr. Nixon was meeting with a group of Congressmen. He was buoyant, not a trace of his cold remained except for a slightly husky voice. Later we walked through several offices. He stopped to compliment a secretary on her dress, joked with the police and then returned to the residence; and only then collapsed, gray-faced into an easy chair.

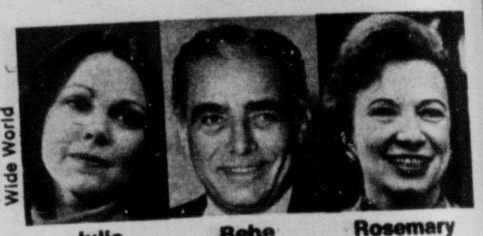
Only occasionally would spontaneity burst through. Like the time the President was greeting a blinded war veteran. He was suddenly embarrassed when he found himself describing the great seal of the United States embroidered into the rug which the man could not see. Nixon took his visitor by the hand, got on his hands and knees and guided the man's fingers over the surface of the seal. That wasn't in the script.

His most heroic dealings were in the field of foreign policy. For four years he masterfully manipulated the strings of world power. He told one thing to the Soviets and another to the Chinese, playing power bloc against power bloc. Such high-powered diplomatic maneuvering simply must be done in secret. Deceit is deliberate among the world leaders who play high-stakes poker (a game at which Nixon had, by the way, always excelled).

Some say he was plastic, all veneer. True, the public President's mannerisms had a sort of mechanical and deliberate quality; but backstage he was the average middle-class citizen from Whittier who tucked a napkin under his chin when he ate, with all the human foibles most of us have, and maybe a few more.

The private Nixon could wriggle and squirm ("save the plan, stonewall it") in private conversations with Haldeman and Ehrlichman. But at the same time he could march into the Press Room, a smiling and confident President, to tell the nation he knew nothing of a Watergate cover-up. This was, in fact, gross deceit. But for those of us who walked on and off the stage with him, it was not as bewildering as it might seem; there had been four years of dangerous conditioning.

Then, too, he was at his weakest point when his greatest crisis came. In late 1972, when Vietnam negotiations broke down, massive bombing was resumed, relationships with Kissinger were strained near their breaking point, and vicious press abuse was heaped upon him. The private Nixon showed signs of serious stress. Fatigue caused his voice to slur on occasions. His face aged markedly.



Wide World

Julie Bebe Rosemary

"Nixon shared his innermost confidences with only a handful of people—secretary Rosemary Woods , daughter Julie, talking companion Bebe Rebozo, Bob Haldeman and often me (though not so often as I thought then.)"

Richard Nixon was a man of many, often irreconcilable, parts: so gentle he could never bring himself to fire a subordinate (even when Nixon summoned Interior Secretary Walter Hickel to his office to dismiss him, it was John Ehrlichman who had to swing the axe) or correct a secretary's misspeling; yet Nixon was so cold that he relished calling then-Gov. Nelson Rockefeller to congratulate him on his decisiveness in ordering state troopers to assault rioting prisoners at Attica prison where 42 men died. He was also so loving of his Quaker mother that he held her up as a saint. He cared fervently about future generations being spared war, and yet, knowing many men would die, he unhesitatingly ordered B-52's to do their bombing. He was unable to be charitable to his enemies, even in the moments of his own triumphs.

In this brief space, I can give but a glimpse of the man. I can't offer justifications for his moral failures; I was too much a part of them myself. Nor could I catalog his accomplishments; future historians will tend to that more charitably, I believe, than any contemporaries.

Mr. Nixon's greatest contribution still may be unrealized. For perhaps the significance of his fall was that it proved the bankruptcy of our nearly sanctified notion that man can do anything. Some day the country may understand that.

The fact is that all men and women—Richard Nixon and all 200 million of us—are fallible, possessors of a nature both good and evil. It is only the Power beyond ourselves that can rescue us from our darker sides. Richard Nixon might well have listened to the plaintive words of a President named Lincoln: "Without God, I must fail." From Lincoln's humility came strength, and from his prayer came the firm hand of the Almighty to lead a people from darkness. Maybe it will be Richard Nixon's failure which will cause a nation to remind itself anew that without God we too must fail.

Final Net vs. Aerosols: a head-on comparison

In the first place, (1) Final Net is not an aerosol. There's no wasteful propellant mixed in. Final Net gives you concentrated power, for a really great long-lasting hold. (2) Final Net holds your hair in any weather without leaving it tacky. (3) Final Net spritzes exactly where you want it—no need to spray and spray in hopes of hitting the right place. (4) If aerosol hairsprays bother you here, Final Net won't. You'll find (5) in your pocketbook, because 8 ounces of Final Net go as far as 24 ounces of aerosol hairspray. (With aerosols, you're paying for a lot of propellant.) Final Net over aerosols. Really, there's no comparison.

Piping hot Chicken 'n' Biscuit Pie.

Smart Cooking
Day Before Payday

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a delicious chicken pie with an economical homemade mix. "Homemade mix is cheaper than ready-made," says Marilyn. "And you can use it for waffles and pancakes, too."

HOMEMADE BISCUIT MIX

9 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup baking powder
2 cups solid all-vegetable shortening

1. Combine flour, salt and baking powder.
2. Add shortening. Using a pastry blender, cut shortening through dry ingredients until mixture is mealy.
3. Store in tightly covered containers in cool area. Makes about 12 cups

CHICKEN 'N' BISCUIT PIE

2 cans (10¾-oz. size) cream of chicken soup
½ cup chicken broth
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
⅛ teaspoon thyme leaves
Dash pepper
2 cups cooked chicken chunks
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen peas and carrots
1 cup frozen small white onions
1½ cups Homemade Biscuit Mix (recipe above)
½ cup milk

1. Preheat oven to 425°F. In 2-qt. casserole, combine chicken soup, broth, parsley, thyme and pepper. Add chicken chunks.
2. Cook peas and carrots and onions together according to package directions; then drain and add to chicken mixture.
3. Bake uncovered for 20 minutes until bubbly.
4. Meanwhile, combine biscuit mix and milk, stirring with a fork until all of mix is moistened.
5. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls on top of heated chicken mixture and bake an additional 25 minutes. Makes 4 servings

OPEN FACE MEAT PIE

2 cups Homemade Biscuit Mix (recipe above)
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 lb. ground beef
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 can (10¾ ozs.) cream of mushroom soup
½ cup frozen small white onions
½ cup diced sharp cheddar cheese
2 medium tomatoes, sliced

1. Preheat oven to 425°F. In medium bowl, combine biscuit mix and milk, stirring with fork until well mixed.
2. Turn dough out onto lightly floured board and knead about 6 times.
3. Roll out dough to about ¼-inch thick to fit a 9-inch pan. Place dough in pan and flute edge.
4. In medium skillet, heat oil until hot. Add ground beef and, breaking up meat with spoon, cook until it loses red color. Drain off fat.
5. Stir in Worcestershire, salt, pepper and cream of mushroom soup, frozen whole onions and cheese. Spoon into prepared pie pan. Arrange a circle of thin tomato slices on surface.
6. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes until crust is golden brown. Cut into wedges and serve hot. Makes 6 servings

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

How You Can Be A Bigger "Social Asset"

True or False? When an overage dowager asks you coyly, "Guess how old I am?"—never do it. (See number 4.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. There is no better social asset than establishing a reputation as a brilliant conversationalist—and nothing is easier if you handle it right.

2. A person can't expect to be popular with others if he doesn't like himself.

3. You should refuse to listen to gossip.

4. When an overage dowager asks you coyly, "Guess how old I am?"—never do it.

5. It's usually impossible to find out what other people really think of you.

ANSWERS

1. True. Stanford University studies show that you don't need to be a brilliant conversationalist to gain a reputation for being one. You will seem to be a good conversationalist to most people if, no matter how dull the other's remarks, you contrive to nod your head agreeably now and then, interjecting an occasional "So?" "H-mmm" or "Indeed!" at appropriate intervals. Since what most people are looking for is a good listener —and are overjoyed when they find someone who will shut up and let them talk—virtually all you have to do is hold still and go through the motions of acting interested while they bend your ear.

2. True. A team of University of Oregon investigators conducted psychological studies which revealed that a person's opinion of himself—and his own worth —markedly affects the way others feel about him. Some people are so low in self-esteem that they practically hate themselves. If you get acquainted with them, you may find that you can't blame them! For more often than not, a person's view of himself is pretty well justified.

3. False. You'll miss out on a lot of fascinating happenings if you do. Besides, there is no surer way to affront—and often completely alienate—an acquaintance than to turn a deaf ear to the chatty, informal talk concerning the various activities of others. Vicious gossip, of course, is to be deplored. But studies have shown that gossip which is not vindictive can serve as a safety valve for the emotions and provide release for psychic tensions. "As an analyst," says one leading specialist, "I have learned to listen to gossip for the simple reason that it often contains a great deal of truth. Much that people will not say directly, they say through the channels of gossip."

4. True. The fugitives from senility who put you on the spot with a question like this usually suffer the delusion that they look 20 years younger than they are. So if you "guess" only 10 under, you've alienated her. Instead of committing yourself, parry the question with something like, "I just couldn't guess because you're the type who simply doesn't show her age." Then when she breaks down and tells you she's 71, all you have to do is register amazement.

5. False. According to psychological studies, one of the most effective ways to determine how various people honestly feel about you is to find out what they say about you when you're not present. This is not at all difficult if you employ the following technique: Make a pact with someone you can count on who shares your interest in finding out what the various others really think and say about him. Then take turns being the one who leaves before anyone else at various gatherings and group affairs. It's axiomatic that the person who leaves early is most likely to become the subject of extremely candid comments. Subsequently, you and your associate have merely to compare notes about who said what about each other. The only drawback to this game of social sleuthing is that although you will find out who your friends are, you may also find out other things that will leave your ego feeling like a flat tire.

We were in his dressing room at the Palace Theater in New York. Eddy Arnold was casually dressed in a brown turtle neck sweater and matching brown slacks. His face was weather-beaten, his hair graying. Immediately, you could see that the key to him was his modesty, reflected in his approach to his work and his philosophy of life.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Do you ever get stage fright?

ARNOLD: I get a little bugged, especially on opening night. I think without that, you're hopeless–there wouldn't be a challenge. But it doesn't take me but a few seconds to calm down. That's because I think I know my craft pretty well. I don't mean as a musician but as a showman.

FW: Well, you certainly had a long apprenticeship. . . .

ARNOLD: Yes, I've learned a lot, but do you know something? I've possibly learned more from amateurs than I have from professionals.

FW: Why?

ARNOLD: Because I can go and watch an amateur and if he does something that makes me uncomfortable, I know right away. I tuck it into my little chest of things-not-to-do. For example, does he move awkwardly, or talk too long between songs and lose the audience, or not look at the audience, or not take the audience into his confidence? You know, there are a lot of things that a performer does psychologically to an audience when he's performing. I just tuck this information away in the back of my mind and say, "That's not good," or, "That's in bad taste–I shouldn't do that."

FW: You've always kept your act very simple with no gimmicks. Do you think that's a reflection of your personality?

ARNOLD: That's right! I'm a very simple man, really. I live a very simple life. I'm like the average guy you meet on the street. On Saturday night I like to have a little shot of Scotch. I'll cook a steak, have a couple of friends in. I have a little station wagon for hauling my dogs around. I have two bull mastiffs. Then I've got one dog that's just a mutt. We call her Isabelle.

FW: Do you think most people tend to clutter up their lives too much?

ARNOLD: It's much easier if you keep it simple. Sure, I get "down" just like everybody does. But, you know, there's always a good side to everything. I've said many times that people have it in their heads that they have to run to head shrinkers and all of that. But if they'd just open up the "Good Book" and read a little bit every day, it would help. You don't have to go off the deep end on religion, either. Just read a little bit.

FW: Let's talk about your family. . . .

Money can't buy the car-buying facts you'll learn in this free book.

Times are changing. This time you have different concerns. Inflation. Gas prices and mileage. The cost of maintenance.

Because of this, you have to know a lot before you buy a new car today. And Ford Motor Company wants you to know a lot.

So we'll give you something money can't buy. A free 128-page book that will help you choose the right car for these times and your needs.

It's the 1976 edition of "Car Buying Made Easier." Millions have read and learned from previous editions. Because there's no consumer guide quite like it.

Part I is about cars in general — styles, engines, options — advantages as well as disadvantages. And these facts apply to any make of car you buy. For example, where else could you find the pros and cons of full-size, mid-size and small-size cars?

You haven't read a better, more helpful book lately. Just fill out the coupon for your copy. It's free.

Dick. He's been with me all week. He had a serious automobile accident about three years ago. I couldn't tell you all he's been going through. He was hurt very badly and was in a coma for nine and a half weeks. He travels with me from time to time, and we have a lot of fun together. We have a great relationship. My daughter is older and has two children; she lives seven minutes away from our house. We have about 90 acres outside of Nashville.

FW: Do you find you need quiet time away from your performing?

ARNOLD: I do. I'm a very private person. I don't like to go to night clubs. I don't relish big parties. I like to have small groups of good friends in. We have some good conversations and giggle a little and tell a few stories. If you invite me to a party and tell me you're going to have 200 or 300 people, I will say, "Thank you very much, but I won't be there." People pull on me and drag on me all the time. That's why I avoid big Hollywood-type promotion parties. I'm no movie star or anything like that. I'm just a performer!

FW: What did your mother instill in you?

ARNOLD: Truth, honesty, simplicity. She was a very ordinary kind of rural woman—very honest, a Methodist, very simple. People like my mother don't expect too much out of life. They just work and take care of the family. I learned a lot from her. I learned from my father, too, but he was in bad health and died when I was 11, so I didn't get too much from him. . . . I used to want to get so close to my children, particularly my son. When he came home from school or college, I'd say, "Save your old man a day. Spend a day with me." Well, seldom would he ever save me a day. He was always busy with his buddies or girlfriend, and that really hurt. I never said anything to him about it, but I wanted to go fishing and hunting with him. Now, his situation has changed. Since he got hurt, we're very close. There's an unbelievable bond between us. I talk to him every day.

FW: You cherish privacy so. Do you have an unlisted telephone?

ARNOLD: Yes, and I'm careful who I give it to. A fella called me the other day who was just an acquaintance. I didn't know he had my home telephone number. I said, "Before you say anything, I'd like to know who gave you my home number." He told me a lady gave it to him, but wouldn't say who she was. I told him, "I'll call you back from my office." I refused to talk to him!

FW: When did you start learning to separate your business and personal life?

ARNOLD: I've always done that. I can't stand people sneaking around and getting other people's unlisted numbers just to call them. I had a fella come to me recently with a fly-by-night deal. You see, I get all kinds of people who come to me with deals. Many of them think I'm stupid. They forget that I'm a businessman and that I understand the bottom line.

FW: What has been your wife's role through the years. How did she help you?

ARNOLD: She's been very supportive and understanding. Through the years, I've had to travel a great deal. Often she had to be both mother and father to our children, and she did it. We have something, you know. As you get older, companionship with your mate is so important.

FW: Johnny Cash once described his relationship with his wife, June, as "a sea anchor."

ARNOLD: I'd like to say he's right. You see, he had a problem I didn't have. June was, and is, like a sea anchor to him because she helped to bring him up out of the bottom. I've never had that problem.

ARNOLD: I really don't do much of that. Sure, we play music, but I don't come up to my family and say, "Hey, I'm going to sing you a song." I say, "Sit down. Let's talk." There have been times, of course, at an open house when someone might sing. But it's whatever hits the mind, and it's always done spontaneously. That's the way I live—an uncluttered life.

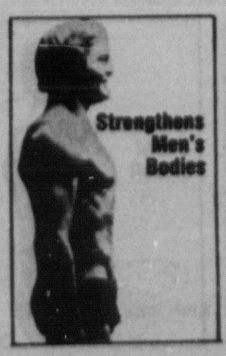
USES EXACT SAME PRINCIPLE AS UNITS ADVERTISED ON T.V. FOR $7.95 AND $9.95

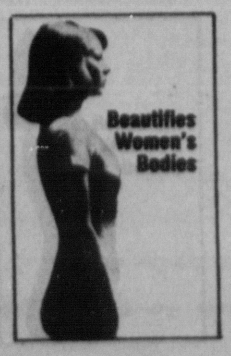
AT LAST — the ingenious easy new physical fitness system, to help you: lose inches and pounds, improve the shape of your body, increase your sex appeal and feel and look years younger — and now at a great new low, low price!

An Easy, Proven System That Takes Just Minutes A Day

It's easy—because you exercise while you lie on your back and do just 3 basic routines. And yet you exercise and tone every muscle in your arms, legs, abdomen, waist, back, neck and tummy—all the important, problem spots that you want to help keep trim, firm and beautiful.

We recommend you start at a moderate 2 to 3 minutes a day. You'll soon find that you want to increase this to 4, 5 and up to 15 minutes at a time. But, and this is important, you do it at your own pace and you find it easier and easier to exercise for longer periods. The rhythmic movements you use are so simple that any child of 5 can master them in one minute, because all you do is lift and bend your arms and legs and the "Figure Trimmer" won't let you make a mistake. A simple, fully illustrated instruction booklet for the basic exercises is included.





Use "The Figure Trimmer" Anywhere

Yes, use it in your bedroom, living room, office, even while you're away from home (it's so compact, it folds to fit right in a handbag or attache case and weighs only a mere 10 ounces). You never have to miss your regular exercise . . . use it anywhere you can lie down. Simply attach to bedpost, doorknob, etc., and it's ready to use.

To Help Weight Loss . . .

We recommend a moderate and sensible temporary 15 to 20% reduction in your normal food intake (while still eating exactly the same kinds of delicious foods you normally eat and like). We don't send you any fad or crash diet, because your own doctor will tell you that these are harmful. We suggest you continue this moderation until you reach desired weight loss. After that, just eat normally and continue exercises to feel and look better and younger.

Important Note:

Dear Reader,
Don't be confused: The competitive exerciser models you've seen on T.V. and in magazines for $7.95 and $9.95 work on exactly the same principal and in the same way as ours. By a special purchase from a manufacturer, we've been able to break the price wide open and offer "The Figure Trimmer" at this amazing low price!

White House Press Aide

The Truth Behind Her "Lucky" Success

"It was my earliest ambition to be a U.S. Senator. It is still my ambition, but the longer I work, the farther away it seems. But one never knows."

By Frances Spatz Leighton
FAMILY WEEKLY Contributing Editor

Many people know that each morning a 20-page condensation of the news is ready for the eyes of the President. What they don't know is that the person in charge of that report is a 38-year-old woman named Margita White. She does not write the report personally—four persons on her staff of 14 do that—but as director of the White House Office of Communications, Margita is responsible for the news summary.

Many also know that every morning there are two top staff meetings at the White House. But what they don't know is that there is one woman present at each of these meetings—and Margita is that woman. The first one, at 7:30, is a meeting that Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen holds to review the hot news of the day and the questions the press will be apt to ask. She is there. Then she hurries to the 8:00 senior staff meeting of the President's top aides. She is the only woman there.

Margita began the climb to her lofty $36,000-a-year position by working for Herb Klein, Nixon's campaign press secretary and for a time Press Secretary at the White House, and Presidential aide James Keogh. She was assistant director of the U.S. Information Agency before going to work for Ford.

Klein gave Margita her first job in 1959 when she was a college girl looking for a summer job and Nixon was Vice President. It was a lucky accident that she wandered in at the moment they needed someone to fill in for girl staffers going on vacation.

It was also a lucky accident—in fact, a lucky error—which that same day in 1959 brought her Mr. White. She had applied first for a job at what she thought was the office of the Congressman representing the district of her college, Rutgers. She had the wrong office, but she met the right man, Stewart C. White, a law student and summer intern. White offered to let her know if he heard of anything and took her address. That night when she got home, White was on her doorstep. They later married, and Stewart is now a lawyer with the Washington firm of Hamel, Park, McCabe and Saunders.

Margita and Stewart have two children—Suzanne, 9, and Stewart Jr., 4. "I'll show you how lucky I am," she says. "Stewart says the best Christmas present I ever got was a cookbook, because he's the one who uses it. But he doesn't have to unless he wants to, of course." At their lovely McLean, Va., home, they have a live-in housekeeper who has a 9-year-old child of her own. It's a nice arrangement.

This year Margita expects to be exceptionally busy, trying to get Ford elected. "I'm convinced President Ford will be elected," she says, "because he really has proved to be a strong and effective leader. I think he has come up with common-sense solutions to our economic problems, and the solutions are working. Besides, I think the American people trust and admire him as an individual."

Does Margita have political ambitions of her own? "Eventually, yes," she confesses with a laugh. "It was my earliest ambition to be a U.S. Senator. It is still my ambition, but the longer I work, the farther away it seems. But one never knows."

Margita has advice for college youngsters who would emulate her. "Get out there and try, don't be afraid to apply, to be turned down, to ask questions. But if you get your chance, just be sure you have some basic knowledge to help your luck along."

The Museum of Indian Heritage's

The American Indian Collection

FROM THE MUSEUM OF INDIAN HERITAGE AND THE HAMILTON MINT... A GLORIOUS COMMEMORATION OF THE INDIAN LEGACY... MINTED IN SOLID STERLING SILVER AND LIMITED TO NO MORE THAN 5,000 PRIVATE COLLECTIONS!

SHARE THIS REMARKABLE TRIBUTE TO THE FIRST AMERICANS...

Today, both serious collectors and the general public are showing growing interest in Indian history, art, sculpture and jewelry.

The Hamilton Mint invites you to share now in a special tribute to this heritage: The American Indian Collection...36 magnificent medallions... the first ever minted by The Hamilton Mint in Solid Sterling Silver...in a collector's Limited Edition of only 5,000!

STUDY THE FIRST MEDALLION RIGHT IN YOUR HOME...

Each medallion contains one full troy ounce of Solid Sterling Silver. When your first medal arrives you'll marvel at their exquisite "proof finish" beauty...at the sensitive renderings of people, places and events from Indian history!

With each set, you receive The Hamilton Mint "Certificate of Authenticity"—certifying the silver content as well as the exclusivity of your private collection.

To protect this exclusivity, The Hamilton Mint will permanently destroy the minting dies as soon as the edition reaches its 5,000 limit. So please start your private collection now.

RECEIVE ONE MEDALLION EACH MONTH...

With growing pride of ownership, build your private collection—a medallion a month—into a cherished family heirloom. Enjoy browsing through the fascinating brochures that accompany each medallion. And take pride in knowing that your completed collection will match the one on permanent display at The Museum of Indian Heritage in Indianapolis!

TAKE FULL ADVANTAGE OF THE EASY PAYMENT PLAN...

The Hamilton Mint helps you build your private collection on a convenient monthly installment plan. With each shipment, you receive an invoice for the next. Just return the invoice with payment and your next medallion is already paid for when it arrives!

ENJOY THE ASSURANCE OF OUR PRICE PROTECTION PLEDGE...

During the next 36 months, the price of precious metals may rise on the international market. Even so, The Hamilton Mint pledges you'll never pay a penny more than today's price for your privately-minted medallions!

CHOOSE THE DELUXE COLLECTOR'S EDITION, IF YOU WISH...

Some collectors especially prize the subtle beauty of gold. You may wish to select the Deluxe collector's Edition—in 24-karat Gold-on-Sterling.

If you do, please mail your Application now. The Hamilton Mint will offer only 2,500 sets of this special edition.

BONUS...RECEIVE A MAGNIFICENT COLLECTOR'S DISPLAY ALBUM AT NO EXTRA COST...

With one of your earlier medal[illegible]ments, you'll receive a superbly-emboss[illegible] 11¼ display album with the rich look[illegible]grade cowhide...included at no extra cost.

Mail your Application ...TODAY!

"At the Museum, we were extremely impressed with The American Indian Collection right from the start. A complete set of medallions, plus the original sculptures, are now being incorporated into our permanent display."

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

by David Smith

A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operating model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 4397 Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Guaranteed challenge:

If you're a young person looking for some real challenge, now's the time to look into the Army. From electronics to carpentry, from cooks to combat arms, the Army today has more challenging opportunities to offer than anyone.

$361 a month to start

Army pay is better than ever. And with free meals, free lodging, and free medical and dental care, you'll be surprised how far that pay will go.

Job-training courses

Ever wonder where to get that "experience necessary" the classified ads always ask for? A good place is the Army. With hundreds of job-training courses, the Army can teach you skills you'll be glad to have later on.

Educational opportunities

Whether it's finishing high school or earning college credits, being in the Army can help you. And if you sign up for the Army's newest educational program, Project Ahead, you'll be able to start college at the same time you enlist—with the Army paying up to 75% of your tuition and fees for approved courses.

Travel opportunities

Joining the Army can mean a chance to work and live in Europe, Alaska, Hawaii, Korea, Panama or almost anywhere in the continental U.S.

Join now, go later

You can do just that—join now and report up to nine months later—with the Army's special Delayed Entry Program. A terrific option for high school seniors and others with unfinished business ahead of them.

First come, first serve.

To find out which opportunities are open and to have the best chance of getting the one you want, see your Army Representative now. The address and phone number are listed in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting."

TRUMAN CAPOTE
Innocence is better

Making his movie acting debut at 51 in "Murder by Death," author Truman Capote appraised his acting skills: "What Dom Perignon is to champagne, I am to acting—$26.95 a bottle. I don't mean to imply that I'm going to switch careers, though. One swallow does not a summer make, as they say down South. I have written a couple of screenplays over the years, and I wanted to see what was on the other side of the fence, and it is the other side of the fence. But actors and authors do have a special quality in common if they're good at their craft. Both are able to retain a certain childlike quality that makes them seem to be less than adult and not particularly intelligent. It's very difficult to retain that mystical, charming quality if you are an intelligent being because over the years you get increasingly self-critical and lose touch with that marvelous innocence. I can do any kind of writing. But I'm only good for four hours of work a day now. For two hours I pretend. I fool around. If I wasn't directed by some sort of compulsion to do so, I wouldn't write any more." Capote has finished his memoirs and a nonfiction work on prison reform which will be published this year.

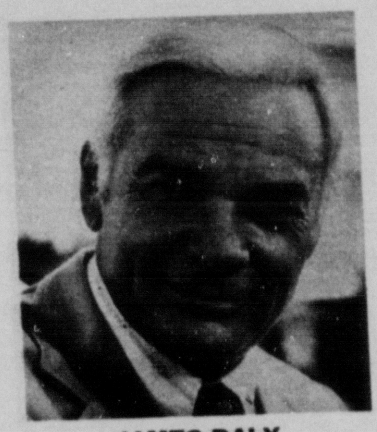
SHARPSHOOTER DAPHNE HUDSON
The dogs of war?

Sixty-year-old Daphne Hudson has been everything from a wartime counterspy in France and England to a dog breeder, and now she's engaged in open warfare it seems. When a Cessna pilot, in the process of spraying crops, flew over her land recently, she grabbed her hunting rifle and fired six shots. She claims that she wasn't aiming at the plane, but the pilot found six pellet marks on the plane's fuselage. Daphne said: "I was furious when I saw this plane flying at high speed and very low. That pilot frightened my prize wolfhounds. Anyway, I fired into a tree, not at the plane, to release my fury." When the case came to trial, the judge found Daphne guilty, but she was allowed to keep her firearm.

Are we a baseball nation or a football nation? "Baseball is a 19th-century pastoral form, which involves country boys running around on grass and having a good time for themselves. The inexorable march of the clock is not critical in baseball because time is not precious. The players are not specialists as in football. Baseball represents America before the frontier ended. It developed when we thought nature was a limitless reservoir and we would always live in abundance. Today, football approximates the cultural dynamics of contemporary American society more closely than baseball does. Football reflects a different world view—everything has to be fought for, resources are precious, hostile people (guards, monster men) are everywhere, and in such a world you have to grab what you can." From "The TV-Guided American," by Arthur Asa Berger (Walker, $8.95).



JAMES DALY
Back from death

James Daly, "Medical Center's" Dr. Lochner, talks about his recent brush with death: "More than a year ago, I contracted hepatitis. It brought me as close to death's door as you can get without turning the knob. The funny thing is you never quite admit you're going to die, only that you might. But at that time, there's little comfort in counting the odds. The thing I remember most is regretting all the time I had wasted in life." Now, restored to good health, Daly doesn't waste a minute. "I ride every morning, play tennis, work harder and manage to see more of the people whom I now realize are important to me. It's too bad that my story doesn't hold a lesson for everyone, but no one can really be affected by someone else's experience. It's too bad; it could be so easy to learn."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

IN DEFENSE OF PLUMBERS

Our sink's stopped up, and with some urgency
We call a plumber. "An emergency,
Come right away!" We are quite frantic,
It shows in every word and antic.
The plumber comes, he never fails,
While we are chewing fingernails,
And soon, with tools and skill and knowing,
He's got the stopped-up sink to flowing.
I wish I could get help as quickly
When I am feeling sad and sickly
With stopped-up nose or am complaining
With stopped-up sinuses not draining.
Of stopped-up sinuses not draining.
Unlike a doctor, when my spouse calls,
A plumber will, and must, make house calls.

The campers started out in the Big Bend country of West Texas. When it was obvious they were lost, a camper turned angrily to his guide and complained, "You told me you were the best guide in Texas."

"I am," replied the guide. "But now we're in Mexico."

Every Rose Guaranteed To Bloom This Season

A strong, dependable grower, the rose is perfectly at home in any garden. These varieties have been selected by our experts as being suitable for most parts of the U.S.A. In severely cold climates, check for hardiness. Blooms illustrated are reasonably accurate but may vary because nature often turns out shapes and color found nowhere else.

The champion varieties offered here are already 2 years old, branched with 2 or more canes, strong, vigorous and healthy. Each is tagged with name of variety and well packed for arrival in good condition. Easy planting instructions included, too. If not satisfied on arrival, you may return within 15 days for full refund, including any postage you sent. Any rose that doesn't grow and develop, we will replace it free (3 year limit).
